

ROOSEVELT BLOC WINS MAJOR TEST, 55-27, CRUSHING EFFORT TO KILL EMBARGO REPEAL

Roosevelt Calls Breast-Beaters Shameless Fakes

DENIES FOREIGN POLICY IS LEADING AMERICA TO WAR

Lauds Press and Radio on Objective Reporting; Says People Learn To Recognize Propaganda.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, striking out at critics who charge that his foreign policy may lead the United States to war, accused them tonight of perpetrating "one of the worst fakes in current history."

In and out of congress, he said, orators have been "beating their breasts and proclaiming against sending the boys of American mothers to fight on the battlefields of Europe."

"Shameless Fake." This, he asserted in a radio address, is "a shameless and dishonest fake." No persons in any post of responsibility anywhere in the United States, he said, has ever suggested that American boys be sent to fight abroad.

The President's speech, made as the senate neared the final action on his proposal to repeal the arms embargo, was delivered from the White House under the auspices of the New York Herald-Tribune forum on "The War's Challenge to the United States."

The President also praised the "majority of the press and the radio" for "objective reporting" of the international situation. He said this had worked so well that he wished "for more of it in the field of domestic news."

Belgium's King Speaks. Leopold III, King of the Belgians, spoke to the forum—and the United States—in a six-minute radio address from Brussels, and declared Belgium was ready to exert its entire strength to uphold its independence.

"If we are attacked," he said, "and I pray God that this never will happen, we would not hesitate to fight with the same conviction but with forces ten times stronger than in the last war." He appealed to the United States for support "in the attitude we have adopted."

Two United States senators, James F. Byrnes, Democrat, of South Carolina, and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., Republican, of Massachusetts, represented the opposing forces in the congressional battle over repeal of the arms embargo.

Repeat it, urged the South Carolinian, because "when we adopt this bill (the President's neutrality proposal) we remove the cause of our entering the World War."

Minimum Cab Fares 'Revised' to 35 Cents

A. G. Hendley, vice president of the Black & White Cab Company said last night that the minimum "drop" on cab meters had been increased from 30 to 35 cents preparatory to what he termed a "revision" of rate schedules.

Hendley said the new rates had not gone into effect but various passengers reported they were being charged 35 cents for rides which formerly cost 30 cents. The cab company official said the new rates probably would be announced today by A. L. Belle Isle, president of the company. Belle Isle could not be reached last night.

Under the present city ordinance no rates are fixed for cab companies. Council can amend the ordinance, however, at any time to insert a schedule. The old ordinance containing rate schedules was repealed early this year.

Gallup Finds Popularity Today Exceeds 1936 Victory Vote

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.
Copyright, 1939.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 26.—In the two months since war broke out in Europe, President Roosevelt's popularity, as measured by the American Institute of Public Opinion, has shown the sharpest increase ever recorded in the Institute's five years of public opinion soundings on the New Deal.

The October index, based on interviews with a cross-section of American voters in every state, shows an 8-point rise since August and finds President Roosevelt more popular today than he was when re-elected in 1936. Of all voters in the poll, 64.9 per cent said they approve of Roosevelt as president today, as compared to 61.0 in a survey a month ago, and 56.6 per cent two months ago. The President was re-elected in 1936 with 62.5 per cent of the majority party vote.

Rich Swing Over.

The President's largest gains in popularity have come in those groups of voters who were least favorable to him before the war broke out in Europe. Thus, the survey finds an 11-point increase in his popularity since August among the upper income group, and a nearly comparable rise among voters 50 years of age and over, who were previously Republican in their leanings.

The chief reason for the increase appears to be the popularity of the President's foreign policy. Institute polls on various phases

MORE AIR LINES SOUGHT FOR CITY

Hartsfield Heads State Delegation to Capitol To Plead Georgia Case.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The Civil Aeronautics Authority was urged today to approve expansion of air transportation between the north and the south in the interest of business linking the two sections of the country.

More direct service within the south and better inter-sectional schedules were sought by a number of congressmen and spokesmen for nearly a dozen cities as hearings were begun on rival applications of five airlines for various routes in southeastern states.

Hartsfield Present. The group of Georgia Chamber of Commerce and municipal officials included Mayor William B. Hartsfield, of Atlanta. The companies whose airlines are being considered together are Delta Air Corporation, Dixie Airlines, Inc., Pennsylvania-Central Airlines Corporation, Southern Airlines, Inc., and Eastern Airlines, Inc.

With the exception of Eastern, which merely seeks to include Birmingham, Ala., as a stop on its route from Newark, N. J., to Corpus Christi, Texas, each of the companies seeks several routes.

Routes Asked. The hearing today was held specifically on applications of Delta, Pennsylvania-Central, South-

RUSSIANS RELEASE U. S. CITY OF FLINT; FATE IS IN DOUBT

Say Ship Flies U.S. Flag; Nothing as Yet Known of American Crew or Next Port of Call.

MOSCOW, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The Soviet government tonight released the American freighter City of Flint and well-informed sources said she had sailed under the United States flag from Murmansk, Russian port, where she was taken Monday by a German prize crew.

The government announcement said merely that the ship had been given clearance after inspection of her cargo and ordered to leave port immediately, but failed to throw any light on the all-important question whether the American or German crew was directed to take the vessel away.

Well-informed sources, however, denied German reports that she had sailed under the Nazi banner. The Germans have charged she was carrying contraband.

U. S. Flag—Nazi Crew. (Even if the City of Flint was flying a United States flag, however, it was not certain she was actually under the control of an American crew and officers.

(If a German crew in control of the vessel were following United States naval practice, a United States or neutral flag would be hoisted and flown until the vessel reached a German port and her status was determined by a prize court.)

(DNB dispatches from Moscow implied that a German crew was in control of the vessel.)

Ship Cargo Overland. (Although a Danish radio broadcast said the vessel first had unloaded her cargo, this point was not mentioned in official dispatches from Moscow. If the cargo was unloaded it was possible the intention was to ship the goods overland to Germany.)

The United States embassy here had been pressing the foreign office for details of the status of the freighter and at the same time had been studying the question of what right the Russians had to examine her cargo.

(United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced

NAZIS PREPARING ATTACK IN FORCE, FRENCH BELIEVE

Advance Guards Clash in Snow, Heavy Rain; Activity Thought Cover To Hide Assault Program.

By H. TAYLOR HENRY.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—(AP)—French and German advance guards fought in snow and sleet and heavy rain tonight along the 100-mile northern flank of the western front as the French studied Nazi outpost lines seeking information concerning a possible German offensive.

French military observers believed the renewed German activity was designed to cover final preparations for an offensive in force, either a frontal assault on the Maginot line or a flanking attack through Switzerland or The Netherlands.

Military Doubtful.

While some French military men still expressed doubt that final orders to launch a German offensive would be given this late in the year, new attention was riveted on the possibility of a flank attack as a result of developments in neutral countries protecting the wings of the French armies on the western front.

Reports reaching Paris from Holland, Belgium and Switzerland said the Germans had suddenly established a rigid control of communications to those countries shortly after noon.

Telephone calls to both Belgium and The Netherlands, these sources said, were interrupted for more than four hours and communication was re-established only under strict supervision. Dispatches from Berne, Switzerland, said Swiss calls were placed under the same control at the same time.

Dispatches from Amsterdam told of "important" troop and plane concentrations along the German coast east of the Netherlands.

(The German government announced in Berlin new restrictions on communications with points outside Germany. Private calls to foreign countries will not be accepted without a special permit and telegrams are to be censored. Newspaper correspondents were reported exempt. No reason for the restrictions was given.)

French scouts, who slashed through ice-coated barbed wire and dropped into shell holes filled

Lovely Atlanta Star Weds Her Film Director, Florey

Romance Began Three Years Ago During Filming of 'Mountain Music.'

A romance which began between the director and an Atlanta actress during the filming of "Mountain Music" three years ago in Hollywood, led to the marriage yesterday of Miss Virginia Dabney to Robert Florey, Paris-born motion picture executive.

The marriage took place in Palm Springs.

The former Miss Dabney, who decried a dancing career which began in Atlanta, for the more glamorous life of a motion picture star, has been making her home in Hollywood for several years, and since 1936 has been rapidly rising to stardom under the direction of Florey.

It was not until production of "Mountain Music," starring Martha Raye, was begun that the director really "discovered" the beautiful blond Atlanta dancer. Since then, motion picture ro-

HOLLAND JITTERY OVER NAZI TROOPS

Concentrations Reported Along Southern Border; Aachen Phone Is Dead.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 26.—(AP) Concentrations of German troops sighted along the southern half of the Netherlands-German frontier caused nervousness late today in villages along the border.

The German troops were plainly visible from the hills which line the frontier from Genep to Vaals.

This was said to be the first time there had been any noticeable troop movements opposite the Netherlands province of Limburg, although a week ago observers noted new fortifications were under construction in the Siegfried line opposite Vaals at the southern tip of The Netherlands.

The Taal hills behind Vaals overlook Aachen, which is a key point in the Siegfried line. The southern half of Limburg province lies between Germany and Belgium, and Vaals is the point from which parts of three countries—Germany, Belgium and The Netherlands—can be seen.

For several hours eye-witnesses in The Netherlands near Venlo, Genep, Sittard and Vaals said

U. D. C. Votes Memorial At Andersonville

Confederate War Prison Site Is Urged for 'Unity Symbol.'

By BETTY MATHIS.

Unanimous approval of a proposed memorial "garden of peace" at Andersonville national cemetery was voted yesterday by the Georgia division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, in the closing session of its 44th annual convention here.

The memorial proposal was originated by Nelson M. Shipp, editor of the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer, in a U. D. C. Confederate Memorial Day address last April 26 at Americus and was brought before the state convention yesterday by Mr. Shipp.

The proposed memorial would be financed by an appropriation of $500,000 or more which will be asked from the next session of congress, the founder of the movement said. The monument probably would consist of a rock tower and chimneys, with markers erected to tell the historical story of the Confederate war-time prison in the War Between the States.

"Symbol of Unity."

"In a time when governmental philosophies and battle lines so divide the world," the editor said, "it would be a magnificent thing for the United States to have a great visible symbol of unity—not only of the north and south, which laid aside its armed conflict 75 years ago—but of all its peoples."

The convention heard that an options committee has been appointed by the Andersonville Memorial Association and that it holds options on a large area adjoining the national cemetery park.

Vice President.

Shipp is vice president of the memorial association.

The idea of the garden in connection with the tower was suggested by Dr. John Donald Wade, of the faculty of the University of Georgia, who is president of the Andersonville Memorial Association.

Copies of the resolution backing the proposal were ordered sent to Georgia's United States senators and congressmen.

Officers, elected yesterday, serve the organization for the next two years, included Mrs. Charles T. Tillman, of Quitman, president; Mrs. J. Lawrence McCord, Atlanta, first vice president; Mrs. A. Belmont Dennis, Covington, second vice president; Mrs. Joseph Vason, Madison, third vice president; Mrs. J. H. Randall, Americus, recorder

LAST VOTE ON BILL, ALL AMENDMENTS MAY COME TODAY

All Agree Decisive Ballot Is Strength Indication; Barring Belligerent Use of U. S. Flag Approved.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Administration forces won by a two-to-one majority today the first test of strength on the crux of the President's neutrality program, repeal of the arms embargo.

The vote, 55 to 27, came on an amendment proposed by Senator Downey, Democrat, California, which would have forbidden munitions sales to all foreign nations, neutrals or belligerents, in peacetime or war, except states of the western hemisphere at war with non-American nations.

Controversial Matter.

Since the scope of the Downey proposal extended beyond the present war in Europe it contained some controversial matter not essentially involved in the neutrality debate. These extraneous issues cost the proposal the vote of Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, and possibly one or two others.

However, with these exceptions, both sides agreed that the vote was a test of strength and that, when the senate ballots on the question in another form—that of a motion to strike the repeal clause from the pending legislation—the roll-call tally list would look very much as it did today.

(The senate tonight agreed to limit drastically further debate on President Roosevelt's proposals to revise the present neutrality act and repeal the arms embargo and try to reach a final vote tomorrow, according to the United Press.

Unanimous Consent. (Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, obtained unanimous consent to the limitation shortly after the administration beat down the effort by Senator Downey.)

Administration forces, although they received but 55 votes on the Downey amendment, or 57 including two that were paired, were

Crew Member Tells of Flint's Capture

The story of the capture of the American steamship City of Flint by the German pocket battleship Deutschland is told here by a radio operator of the Flint, who, because he is a British subject, was able to go ashore at Tromsø, Norway, along with surviving members of the crew of the British freighter Stonegate. The writer served on the City of Flint during her rescue of the Athenia survivors, and on this voyage was returning as a passenger to his home on Glasgow. The Stonegate was sunk by the Deutschland and its crew transferred to the Flint.

By JAMES G. McCONNOCHIE.

Copyright, 1939, by The North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

BERGEN, Norway, Oct. 26.—(By Wire)—The City of Flint left New York on October 3 and our voyage was uneventful until October 9. On that day at 2:50 p. m. I noticed a ship on the horizon. Looking through glasses I distinguished her as a large warship.

Everyone on board thought she was a British or a French cruiser which had come out to meet us, but on approaching we saw the German flag and all the ship's guns trained on us. We were signalled to stop and were forbidden to use our radio. We stopped and at 3:45 were boarded by a number of German sailors and officers armed with revolvers and hand grenades.

We found that the warship was the pocket battleship Deutschland. A German officer asked to see our papers. Finding that we carried oil in large quantities, he signalled to the battleship for orders.

Fully expecting our ship to be sunk, I went to the cabin, collected papers and then returned to the deck. The German officer lined us up and told us this was a serious matter. He said he did not like to be doing this, but that England had started the war. Owing to the kindness of his commanding officer, he said he would not sink us but would put a prize crew aboard and take us to Germany. This he did and the two ships parted company, the German prize crew remaining in command of the Flint.

Our course was immediately changed to due north and the Germans began making preparations for the night. All the port holes were blacked and all lights extinguished. The Germans took control of the radio room and posted armed guards at all vital parts of the ship. The next day, there was a heavy sea and the captain considered heaving to. We all hoped that a British ship would come in sight, but our hopes were in vain.

On October 11, we were still steering north and it was becoming colder every day. The Germans also becoming very jittery, as they were keeping an anxious watch for British warships and planes. On Friday, the 13th, our nerves were getting worse. Many of us talked to the Germans, who were mostly 22 to 26 years old. Our ship was still heading north and the Arabian sailors who had been taken off the Stonegate were feeling the cold badly.

On October 14, the Germans made a Danish flag for our ship. The next day we sighted a huge iceberg just before nightfall. The temperature fell below the freezing point and there was ice and snow on the deck. On October 16, we spent

CROWDS JAM CLUB FOR GARDEN SCHOOL

Constitution-Sponsored Event
Ends With Talk on Flowers in Home.

The fifth annual fall garden and home school sponsored by The Constitution was brought to a successful close yesterday as Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown, director, lectured to a packed house at the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium on "The Use of Flowers in Home Decoration."

On a stage decorated to represent a gracious southern living room, Mrs. Crown gave her talk with frequent illustrations of flower arrangements, some submitted by garden clubs and individuals who attended the lecture. "Flower arrangements," said Mrs. Crown, "are expressions of your emotions. A formal arrangement should never be attempted when you feel jittery. A mass of bright red flowers will much better suit your mood at that particular time."

Flower arrangements always should be in keeping with the furniture of the room in which they are to be used, she pointed out, and she placed both proper and improper arrangements on various pieces of furniture on the stage to illustrate.

In planning any arrangement of cut flowers, there must first of all be unity between the container and the furniture. Next must come unity in the type of plant material. In other words, delicate lily sprays of blossoms should never be combined with heavy, plain blooms. Unity in size of flowers also must be observed.

Winner of the daily attendance prize of $15 was the Oakland City Garden Club. Grand prize for the largest percentage of members present for the three-day school was the Grant Park Garden Club. Runner-up was the Narcissus Garden Club. The grand prize was $25 awarded by The Constitution.

'NO LIMIT' RECRUITING FOR ARMY, AIR CORPS

Cancelling previous enlistment quotas, the War Department yesterday had ordered the Atlanta recruiting district to enlist an unlimited number of men for assignment with the air corps at Barksdale field, Louisiana, and Maxwell field, Alabama, and the infantry at Fort Benning.

In addition, the recruiting office was asked to enlist 100 men for the 21st engineers at Benning, 12 for the ordnance department; 27 for assignment with medical detachments; seven for the chemical warfare service, six for the quartermaster corps and 15 for the field artillery.

CLIFF CURRY DIES ON BUSINESS TRIP

Was District Sales Manager for Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation.

Cliff Curry, 41, of 1017 Columbia avenue, N. E., southeastern district sales manager for the Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation, died unexpectedly Wednesday night while attending a business conference in Jackson, Miss.

A native of Elyria, Ohio, he spent much of his early life in Ensey, Ala., and had been connected with the Kraft organization for about 12 years. Previously he had served four years with the City Sales Company, of Mobile, Ala., and also had worked in other sections of the southeast.

Mr. Curry was a World War veteran, having seen service overseas, and was affiliated with the American Legion in Mobile. He was a member of All Saints Episcopal church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Bertha Toussell Curry; a daughter, Miss Loris Curry; a sister, Mrs. Harry Fiedler, of East Orange, N. J., and an uncle, John E. Jones, of Ensey.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at Spring Hill by the Rev.

Dies Unexpectedly

CLIFF CURRY.

Theodore S. Will. Burial will be in West View cemetery under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son. Pallbearers will be C. R. Moore, Dr. E. C. Sowers, Sam Thompson, E. E. Lyons, E. P. Moore, H. L. Renfro, B. J. Keiley and J. C. Loftis.

Honorary pallbearers will be Travis Johnson, Judge Robert Carpenter, W. E. Mitchell, Barney Barrett, D. M. Smith, R. G. Andrews, Julian Jones and L. F. Meng.

Two Babies Were Crying for Food When DeKalb Fund Came to Rescue

Social Worker Found Mother and Tots, Deserted, Living in Trailer Near Decatur; Through Agency's Efforts Family Now Is Happily Reunited.

By MARY MARGARET LIND-SAY.

Two hungry little kiddies were crying for food. A mother was frantic because she hadn't even a crust of bread for her babies.

When Mrs. Willie Morrow, executive secretary of DeKalb Family Service Association, found the little family they were living in a trailer on the outskirts of Decatur.

The mother, who was pregnant, had been deserted by her husband. The children were hungry. Badly undernourished, they were covered with sores.

Emergency relief was promptly provided and the trailer was moved to a safer location.

The chief purpose of the DeKalb Family Service Association, while they do give temporary material relief, is primarily to help their clients help themselves.

Thus Mrs. Morrow immediately set wheels in motion to locate the recalcitrant husband and father. He was found in a northern city where he had found lucrative employment. Means were used to persuade him to return for his family, who, when last seen, were happily waving farewell as they started on their way homeward.

The DeKalb Family Service Association is a member of the Community Fund. It was organized by a group of public spirited citizens who recognized the need for a social agency in DeKalb county

DAIRY SHOW HONOR WON BY GEORGIANS

Pasture Production, Cheese-Making Demonstrated.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 26.

(P)—A production team composed of Homer Williams and Leo Mercer Jr., both of Cordele, Ga., placed second in the Red (second) group of 4-H Club demonstrations in connection with the National Dairy Show at the Golden Gate Exposition yesterday.

They demonstrated how to produce better pastures.

A food team composed of Virginia Cain, of Stone Mountain, Ga., and Sarah Snow, of Decatur, Ga., won in the Red group in a demonstration on the use of cottage cheese. A manufacturing team composed of Jacques Newsome and her sister, Ruth, both of Savannah, Ga., reached the Blue (first) group, but failed to win there in a demonstration on ice cream manufacture.

Virginia Cain addressed the 4-H "How 4-H Club Work Trains for closing banquet last night on Life."

M. J. HAMBRIGHT GIVEN FIVE YEARS*Veteran Accused of Assault to Murder Wife.

M. J. Hambright, World War veteran, yesterday was sentenced to five years in jail for assault with intent to murder his estranged wife, Mrs. Kyle J. Hambright, last April 27 in their Simpson street apartment.

Hambright displayed no emotion when a jury in Judge Virlyn B. Moore's court returned a guilty verdict and Judge Moore pronounced sentence. He maintained his wife advanced upon him with a knife, and that he fired at her several times with a pistol.

Assistant Solicitor Quincy Arnold contended for the state that Hambright attempted suicide after shooting his wife. Mrs. Hambright testified her husband opened fire on her, wounded her in the arm. She said other bullets narrowly missed her.

NO DECISION MADE ON JOBLESS VACANCY*Rivers Sets Tuesday for Parley

Important Post.

A second conference will be held Tuesday between Governor Rivers and a Social Security Board regional representative concerning the vacant post of state director of unemployment compensation.

The Governor conferred today with the representative, J. H. McGinnis, of Birmingham, but no decision was reached.

Lem P. James vacated the post several months ago.

Labor Commissioner Ben T. Huie has suggested for the job four candidates: J. E. B. Stewart, Douglas attorney and a factory inspector in the Department of Labor; W. Carlton Mobley, of Forsyth, former United States representative; Logan Kelly, of Buford, former state commander of the American Legion, and State Representative John M. Forrester, of Crisp county.

Prize-Winning Recipes
For This Week*Liver with Tomatoes and Onions.

Submitted by Mrs. George Stier, Buford, Ga.

1 pound liver, sliced
2 medium onions
1 small can tomatoes
2 tablespoons salt
1-2 cup cornmeal (approx.)
Put liver in bowl, cover with water, add salt and let stand one hour. Pour off water and wash once. Dip in cornmeal. Salt and pepper as desired, then fry in fat until brown on both sides. When nearly browned add onions peeled and sliced. When onions are about tender add the tomatoes and simmer slowly for 10 or 15 minutes. Serve with mashed potatoes.

Banana Tea Bread.

Submitted by Mrs. Rosa Smith, 1273 Peachtree street, Atlanta.

1 3-4 cups sifted flour
3-4 teaspoon soda
1 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 cup finely-chopped dates
1-3 cup shortening
2-3 cup sugar
2 eggs, well-beaten
1 cup mashed ripe bananas
1-2 cup nut meats

Sift flour, soda, cream of tartar and salt together three times. Add dates and nuts. Rub shortening to creamy consistency with back of a spoon. Stir the sugar a little at a time into the shortening and continue stirring after each addition until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add flour mixture alternately with bananas, a little at a time. Beat well after each addition. Pour into well-greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees about 1 hour and 10 minutes.

Boston Brown Bread.

Submitted by Mrs. Gertrude Miller, 608 E. Broad street, Gainesville, Ga.

1-2 pint corn meal
1 1-2 pints graham flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup black molasses
1 pint butter milk
1 tablespoon melted shortening
1 egg
1-2 to 1 cup raisins

Sift flour and meal and measure; add salt, baking powder, and soda and sift three times. Add other ingredients and turn into well-greased tins. Steam 3 hours. Fill cans only a little more than half full. Put cans in oven a few minutes before serving.

Salmon-Stuffed Acorn Squash.

Submitted by Mrs. Paul Phelps, 950 Ponce de Leon avenue, Apt. 5, Atlanta.

1 pound canned squash
4 acorn squash
4 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
1-4 cup bread crumbs
lemon juice

Split squash lengthwise and remove seeds. Place in baking dish in a 400 degree oven for 50 minutes or until tender. Remove from oven and scrape most of the squash from the shells. Mash well, season with salt and pepper and three tablespoons butter. Add flaked salmon. Sprinkle with bread crumbs, dot with remaining butter and return to oven for 15 minutes until thoroughly heated and crumbs are brown.

with icy rain water to watch movements of the Germans, reported shock divisions all the way from the Luxembourg border to the Rhine in jump-off positions.

Each division was said to be flanked by squadrons of tanks and protected by special anti-tank units.

Airdromes behind the Siegfried line were reported to have been filled with pursuit, attack and bombardment planes.

The first blows today were struck as French raiding parties snaked their way too close to the Nazi lines. They moved over slushy ground which in some sectors had been frozen into a thin crust of ice.

Fingers almost stiff with cold jerked the lanyards of field guns as the artillery took up the fight.

Attack Possible.
A military writer in the usually well-informed Le Temps declared: "It seems undoubted that the Germans could launch a powerful attack against our front within a few days."

they saw many military cars filled with soldiers, and troops on the march in the fortified and rolling country across the frontier.

Troops Disappeared.
These troops disappeared suddenly and observers assumed they had entered deep fortifications which lie the low hills of the German western wall across from Limburg.

Normal communications to Germany were subject to long delays and it was impossible to get a telephone call through to Aachen, point where previous reports have said there were large German troop concentrations.

There were few Netherlands soldiers either along the frontier itself or in extreme southern Limburg, although the border roads are heavily mined and barricaded.

GIVEN NOBEL AWARDS

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Professor Corneille Heymans, of Ghent, Belgium, and Professor Gerhart Domagk, of Germany, today received the Nobel awards for 1938 and 1939, respectively, in physiological medicine.

Professor Heymans was given the award for his work on respiratory ills and Domagk for his studies on the use of sulfanilamide compounds, important in the treatment of pneumonia and infectious diseases.

ATLANTA TO HAIL U. S. NAVY TODAY AT BRILLIANT FETE

Rear Admiral J. H. Towers Will Deliver Address Tonight, After Inspecting Tech R. O. T. C.

BY LUKE GREEN.
Atlanta will salute Uncle Sam's navy today.

Once again "Navy Day" finds the United States at peace, but the turn of international events has focused the spotlight on this nation's fleet. So it's "Anchors Aweigh!" and hats off to the sailors.

The fact that Atlanta is an inland city will not dim the brilliance of its celebration. Atlantans began to become "navy-minded" yesterday when Rear Admiral J. H. Towers, chief of the bureau of aeronautics of the United States navy, arrived to participate in the festivities.

Native of Rome.
Admiral Towers, a native of Rome, will deliver the Navy Day address at 9:30 o'clock tonight. The address will be broadcast over WSB and will follow a dinner at 6:30 o'clock at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Special guests at the dinner will include General Stanley D. Em-

Co-eds Will Sell Tags Today For Band Uniforms

Commercial High's co-eds will sell tags on the city streets today in a move to secure funds to purchase uniforms for the school's concert band.

Last year Commercial's band won the state championship for first-year bands, but was handicapped by lack of complete uniforms to make a better impression.

The band has played at all Commercial High football games and gave a fine exhibition last night at Ponce de Leon Park despite unfavorable weather. The band was under the direction of Ben Logan Sisk.

Atlanta schools have always ranked with the best in the country in band competition, and Commercial, with a fine start in winning the state championship, seeks to take its place for those organized more than a year.

back, commanding general of the fourth corps area, and Congressman Robert Ramspeck. Governor Rivers and Mayor Hartsfield also have been invited. Captain R. M. Fawell, commandant of the Georgia Tech R. O. T. C., will preside.

Earlier in the day Admiral Towers will inspect the R. O. T. C. unit at Georgia Tech and be the guest of Dr. M. L. Brittain, president, at a luncheon on the campus.

Upon his arrival yesterday the admiral was met by his brother, W. M. Towers, and immediately was taken to Rome. He addressed the Rome Rotary Club at noon yesterday.

Admiral Doubts.
Admiral Towers said he doubted that German submarines were operating in the Caribbean and asserted the navy had been unable to confirm reports of submarines in the vicinity of the West Indies.

Prior to the outbreak of the European war, he said the navy was operating undermanned, since the big battleships and cruisers had only 85 per cent of full manpower.

Now, however, the picture is changing, he pointed out. The enlisted personnel is being increased from 110,000 to 145,000 men. Furthermore, scores of fleet destroyers that have been at anchor since the World War will soon be plying the seas on patrol duty, he declared.

Turning to air defense, the admiral said the development of heavier-than-air craft had greatly reduced the value of dirigibles. He said the larger navy aircraft now carry a 25,000-pound load, which gives some idea of how much death and destruction they are capable of carrying in the form of bombs.

No Solution.
The navy official said he had arrived at no solution as to how the submarine which sank the Royal Oak reached the British battleship.

Known as the navy's No. 1 aviator, Admiral Towers was graduated from the naval academy in 1906. Four years later he asked for assignment to aviation duty and the next year was ordered to Hammondsport, N. Y., for flight instruction under the late Glenn H. Curtiss.

He qualified as an aviator a year later, and in October, 1912, he completed a flight of six hours and ten minutes in a seaplane and established an American endurance record. In 1919 he was placed in command of a unit of flying boats known as the "NC" flight which in May of that year made the first trans-Atlantic flight in history.

HAPEVILLE MAYOR 'DECLINES TO RUN'

Press of Business Will Prevent Candidacy Again.

Mayor J. Raymond Cathy, of Hapeville, yesterday announced he would not run for re-election in the city vote December 3 "because business will consume more time than it has in the past."

To date but one candidate has filed for the office of mayor, Captain F. J. McCormack. Already filed are Candidates H. W. White Sr., for councilman from the first ward, and J. T. Stone and A. T. Cook, for councilman from the second ward.

Mayor Cathy has served as mayor of Hapeville since 1937. Prior to that he was city councilman. During his administration, the city completed several sewer and water projects, a park development project, and many street improvements.

Pot Roast of Beef—Simple and Homely Fare

Cooked with slow, moist heat this rump pot roast of beef is deliciously tender and appetizing. Spiced baby beets and parsley sprigs are used as a vegetable garnish. This pot roast may be boned or roasted with bone in. Directions for cooking are given below.

Homely, Unpretentious Pot Roast Really Is Fit for a King's Table

Its Honest Simplicity Has Made It a National Favorite, Knowing No Sectional Boundaries; and, From Prime to Hash, It Seeks Only to Serve.

By SALLY SAVER.

A pot roast is one of those unpretentious, homely dishes which, while making no claims for fame, are famous nevertheless—famous for their comfortable simplicity. Such a roast is that pictured today—a rump pot roast of beef.

A rump roast is one of the choice cuts of beef. It is fine flavored, has a good distribution of lean and fat, and when cooked slowly at low temperature it is deliciously tender. The rump roast may be bought with the bones left in, or the retailer, upon request, will bone and roll it. The boned, rolled roast is easier to carve, but of course you shall expect to pay a bit more per pound for the boned roast. This rump pot roast is best cooked in this way:

Rump Pot Roast of Beef.
Dredge the meat in flour and brown it well on all sides in hot fat. Season with salt and pepper. Add a small amount of water, about half a cup, cover the kettle closely and let the meat cook slowly, at not more than simmering temperature. About three hours will be required to cook a 3 to 4-pound pot roast. If liquid cooks away, a little hot water may be added—just a little at a time. The pot roast pictured today is served with baby beets. Another way to cook this pot roast is as follows:

Porto Rican Pot Roast.
3 pounds beef rump pot roast.
1 small bottle stuffed olives.
1-4 pound salt pork.
2 tablespoons fat.
2 cups hot water.
1 cup catsup.
1 onion.
Salt and pepper.
Cut small slits at two-inch intervals on both sides of the meat. Stuff slits alternately with olives and inch strips of fat pork. Brown meat in hot fat. Add water, catsup, sliced onion, and season to taste. Cover tightly and simmer gently, allowing 45 minutes per pound for cooking. In cooking pot roasts a pleasant change is obtained by using tomato juice instead of water as the cooking liquid. Horseradish poured over the roast after browning is quite nice, too. Use half a small bottle over a medium-sized roast.

Vegetable Accompaniments.
String beans, alternating with molded mounds of noodles, are very nice served around the pot roast on a large platter. Spinach molds alternating with browned potatoes, or glazed sweet potato slices sprigged with parsley watercress make a pretty vegetable accompaniment. The beets around the roast pictured are spiced baby beets.

Another Manville Romance on Rocks

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Oct. 26.—(P)—The romantic notion which prompted Tommy Manville to spend $3,000 to bring Elinor Troy from Hollywood to New York in a chartered plane which was loaded with orchids and champagne, today became love's labor lost.

The asbestos heir said after a five-day tour of night clubs with the eye-filling show girl that they had parted company.

"We came up here to the country last night and she found 28 rooms too small for her," Tommy moaned.

"Besides that she didn't like the presence of Yvonne Arden (young radio singer)."

"She told me 'You're too blamed busy with your business to get married,' so I called a cab for her."

Tommy said all this happened while he was in the midst of moving his personal belongings from his chateau here into a garage apartment on the grounds of his luxurious estate.

"She didn't like the garage apartment, either," he explained.

"In addition," he said, "she couldn't cook. She didn't even know when to turn off the gas while boiling water."

Tommy said he was not looking for a cook, but he just didn't like the idea of a gal who couldn't wrestle with the pots and pans.

Miss Arden, he asserted, came along just for the fun of it.

The twice-married Miss Troy, a native of Washington, D. C., said her trip alone in a 28-passenger plane last Friday and Saturday was the result of Tommy's telephoned proposal of marriage.

Tommy first denied wedding plans, then admitted them, and was showered with the congratulations of cafe society as they flitted from one night club to another.

Miss Troy, receiving the press in Manville's Waldorf-Astoria suite in New York city, had a different version from Tommy's.

GEORGIA STUDENTS STUDY GAS ATTACK

Riverside Cadets Are Given Principles of Defense in Army Program.

By HIRAM J. HERBERT.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Oct. 26.—A chemical warfare expert from the United States army, directly under the authority of the chief of staff, initiated 500 cadets of Riverside Military Academy into "how to protect themselves in the event of a war attack."

Using a truck-load of equipment, consisting of all the War Department's recently produced anti-chemical warfare "weapons," Colonel Stuart A. Hamilton, conducted a demonstration showing just how they are to be used should the need arise.

Prompting the War Department to this precautionary measure toward peace-time preparedness was the startling fact, according to Colonel Hamilton, "that more casualties during the last World War resulted from improper handling of gas masks than from any other single factor."

"Buck Fever" Worst.

"Several forces entered into this tragedy," he said, "failure to understand how to put a gas mask on properly, removing it before the air was free of gas, and what we call 'buck fever.'"

"Buck fever" seems to have been the most deadly. A soldier would slap on his gas mask. The presence of gas was sufficient to excite, but discovering his laborious he became more excited. He became panicky, believing he was suffocating, jerked off his mask, and died or was horribly stricken.

All England is organized against the possibility of air raids. England believes if this happens the most effective strategy to expect from the enemy will be poison gas. Hence, every city block is organized with its gas wardens, alarm wardens, and "bomb-proofs." Every one, from babes in swaddling to tottering patriarchs, are equipped with gas masks, and, most important, are drilled in the proper use of them.

The United States Department of Chemical War Service is now engaged in teaching this same important preliminary to cadets in preparatory military schools throughout the country. A truck load of all the equipment used in gas attacks is transported to the school, with instructors in charge.

The classes are given a thorough grounding in the use of these materials. They are shown how to put on gas masks properly, various military gases are explained to them. On the field the methods of putting down a gas attack is demonstrated. The effects of gas are explained.

The attitude of the chemical war service is this: "For instance, 500 students go out from Riverside each year. While grouped in this manner, the opportunity for enlightening them is excellent. Only defensive measures are taught them. Offensive chemical warfare instruction is carefully avoided."

"Of course, we never know what may happen. We hope this will all turn out to be useless, but, if otherwise, equipped with a practical knowledge of defensive chemical warfare, countless lives may be saved. Just now," officials stated, "we have no fear of being attacked."

Asked if gases powerful enough to penetrate thick concrete walls, lay an entire county in death with one small bomb, were possible, officials declared these were only "laboratory gases."

Such gases, produced by various chemists, prove to be infinitely destructive in the small area of a laboratory, but for military purposes are of little use.

She listed $5,000 worth of clothing and shoes, a $2,000 silver fox and a $3,000 white fox as gifts he made for their wedding.

She said she had been fitted for a diamond ring "as big as your head but I guess I won't get that now."

Scorns Yvonne.

"A person can't eat caviar and drink champagne every day in the year. Personally, I prefer ham hock and lima beans."

"I never considered Yvonne competition," she said, Manville, she asserted, had poses are good for little more than propaganda.

Such gases, they said, are virtually impossible to use strategically. The dreaded phosgene gas, introduced in the late period of the last war, was very nearly this type of gas, i. e., its efficient use was difficult. It is highly volatile, hard to keep in position.

There are, at present, no known military gases any more effective than those used in World War I. They were: Mustard, a persistent gas causing tremendous casualty; smoke, which is white phosphorous, (WP); incendiary, most powerful smoke for artillery projection; tear, which is temporary, no permanence in effect; CN-DM, a gas used to settle riots, and which can be bought from civilian manufacturers. Planes use TS (chlor-sulphuric), for smoke screens. As yet there is no known method for producing visibility through a smoke screen, other than merely waiting for it to clear.

New Gas Guns.

Most recent method in the United States army for projecting either gas or smoke is the new 4.2" chemical mortar. This fires a 25-pound projectile, nine pounds of which can be any type of gas or smoke, 2,400 yards. The largest artillery chemical shell is the 155-mm, producing disaster with both gas and shrapnel over an area 200 yards in diameter.

Anti-chemical warfare is comparatively new. It did not exist during the last war, except the use of gas masks. The United States is now equipped with neutralizing agents, handled by de-gassing units. Men in these units wear special gloves and protective clothing while performing their duties of clearing the earth of poisonous gases in order that men may move and work. These neutralizing agents are, more or less, military secrets.

The main purpose of the chemical warfare service in conducting these instruction demonstrations is primarily to show what a gas mask is, how to put it on properly, and how to carry on normal duties without a loss in efficiency. The last war proved that the less trained men were in these fundamentals, the greater the casualties, and vice versa.

When asked how men could know when the air had cleared from a gas attack, it was explained that it was the job of certain key men to determine this.

These key men were equipped with "some knowledge of gas and considerable 'guts.'"

Inserting a finger between his cheek and the mask, the air is let into the mask. At this vital point the key man takes a little "sniff." This is where the "guts" comes in. He must know how to take that infinitesimal "sniff." A little too much, and he's gone. If he detects no gas, then the order is given to remove masks.

The new gas masks are designed for greater comfort and for less resistance in breathing.

DUCE INSPECTS WAR CARS.

ROME, Oct. 26.—(P)—Premier Mussolini watched a demonstration of new types of armored cars and motorized artillery today. He inspected the equipment carefully for several hours and drove one of the motorized units.

DEKALB HARVEST FESTIVAL OPENS AT PANTHERSVILLE

Motorcades Following Sheriff's Ancient Car Lead Way to Fun; Honors Dairy Farmers Today

A slight drizzle did not deter a goodly portion of DeKalb county's population from turning out for the opening day of its second annual Harvest Festival yesterday afternoon. Rural farmers and Decatur urbanites came to realize what they had been anticipating for three months.

Last night the festival, with its "DeKalbway" and milk bar, its barbecue and home exhibits, began in earnest. A weather-conscious crowd of 5,000 wandered over 20 acres of Panthersville during the opening hours.

Today the festival honors DeKalb dairymen, masters of an industry which has made the county first in southeastern states' dairy production. With admission free and activity from noon until midnight, a large second-day response is expected by the festival's sponsor, the DeKalb County Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

Motorcade Opens Fete.
Highlight of the opening was a motorcade formed in Decatur by delegations from eight county communities. Headed by Sheriff Jake "Barnum" Hall, in an ancient jalopy, the 200-car parade moved the five miles to the fair grounds.

Following Hall's sporadic advance was another has-been automobile laden with DeKalb misses and maidens, dressed in a manner befitting their temporary station. Calico and bonnets, 10-gallon hats and boots were back in style for a day.

Prior to departure from Court Square in Decatur, the costumed residents organized an impromptu square dance under the shadow of

Antique Festival Costumes and Today's Blooded Stock Portray '100 Years of DeKalb'

This is not a daguerreotype. But these costumes and the "automobile" which carried their wearers to the DeKalb County Harvest Festival yesterday afternoon came from about that time. Dressed fit to kill are, left to right, Mrs. Harry White, Mrs. Jake Hall, the Misses Pat

Butler, Irene Curry, Kay Kimball and Evelyn Day, and the sheriff himself, Jake Hall, who led the DeKalb County motorcade to the fair grounds. Many of the visitors were dressed according to the festival's theme: "100 Years of DeKalb." More than 5,000 persons attended.

There is no bull about this prize-winning display of cattle and the youthful owners who won glory and prize money at the DeKalb County Harvest Festival yesterday afternoon. Left to right is a Holstein heifer, six months old, shown by Herman Lloyd, 16, of Route 2, of the President's program, including revision of the neutrality act, show majorities in favor of his course and indicate substantial agreement over foreign policy among Democrats and Republicans.

Atlanta; a Jersey bull yearling, shown by Harley Chatham, 14, of Chamblee, and a Hereford beef calf, six months old, shown by Gene Porter, 14, of Chamblee. Each piece of livestock took a blue ribbon in its class. Motorcades from eight counties featured the opening.

In other recent surveys the Institute has found a rise in sentiment for a Roosevelt third term, with 43 per cent favoring a third term as compared to 40 per cent before the war. Many voters say, however, that if the war is still going on next year they would reconsider their present objections to a third term. The actual vote is 52 per cent for a third term if war continues, 48 per cent opposed.

The President's popularity gains have been large in those geographical sections where opinion on the New Deal was most divided prior to the war. In New England and in the east central states, where Institute interviewers in August found only 51 per cent in favor of Roosevelt, today's survey shows a clear majority in favor of the President. The smallest gains since August have come in the two areas which were already overwhelming pro-New Deal—the south and the far west.

"Is the victim the President?" he was asked.

"He's the third term subject of the statement," Early replied.

There Is No Secret About How Gallup Survey Works

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 26.—From its inception, the American Institute of Public Opinion has been criticized for its findings and methods, first by Democrats, later by Republicans and subsequently by the supporters of various programs which have not happened to win the approval of a majority of voters.

In most cases the criticisms have come from persons who disagreed with majority viewpoints expressed in the surveys.

The latest criticism comes from General Hugh S. Johnson, who takes exception to the Institute's methods in its current surveys on the neutrality act.

He infers that there is some closely guarded secret in the way public opinion surveys are conducted, some air of mystery which should be dispelled by public investigation. The American Institute of Public Opinion has no secrets; it welcomes any kind of study of its methods.

As a matter of fact, the Institute has published a booklet describing in detail its survey methods. Each year a copy of this booklet is mailed to every member of congress. A copy will be sent free to anyone in the United States who writes to the American Institute of Public Opinion, Princeton, N. J.

The distinguishing feature of the new science of public opinion measurement is the fact that it relies for its accuracy on a scientifically selected sample of voters in each state and not upon broadcasting millions of ballots. Depending upon statistical requirements the Institute includes from 3,000 to 60,000 interviews in each survey.

Actually in the survey reported today on President Roosevelt's popularity, 12,000 interviews were included. Such a sample insures that any error due solely to the number of people interviewed will not, under any practical circumstances, exceed 2 per cent. According to the laws of probability, the statistical odds are 997 in 1,000 that the error due to size of sample will not exceed 1.3 per cent. From a scientific point of view the Institute might have included only a fourth as many ballots, or 3,000, and achieved virtually the same degree of accuracy.

FARM PARITY RULES CITED BY AAA AIDE

Two New Requirements Are Stipulated to Strengthen Law.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 26.—Terms and conditions under which the 1940 parity payments will be made to producers of cotton, tobacco and wheat were announced today by Homer S. Durden, state administrative officer of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Payments, conditioned upon producers' participating in the 1940 agricultural conservation program, will be made from a $225,000,000 appropriation for this purpose.

The provisions are similar to those in effect for the 1939 parity payments, Durden said, but have been strengthened by including these additional requirements:

New Requirements.
1. That the producer plant within the total of the acreage allotments of cotton, tobacco and wheat established for his farm under the 1940 farm program.

2. That the producer not offset performance on the farm by overplanting the three commodities on other farms in which he has an interest.

"Rates of price adjustment payments will be announced later, after the 1939 season average prices are determined," Durden continued.

Aim of Changes.
Durden said that the changes are intended to bring about a more effective administration of the program than has been possible under previous regulations. Under the 1939 price adjustment program, he said, a producer could qualify for a payment by adhering to the allotment for one commodity, even though he overplanted the acreage allotment of another commodity on the same farm or overplanted the same crop or other commodities on another farm.

The new provisions make it possible for the county or state AAA committee to withhold all or part of the payment in such cases under the 1940 program, he added.

Producers of winter wheat may apply for and receive 1940 parity payments before their 1940 performance is checked on cotton and tobacco, upon agreeing to make refunds if subsequent check-ups show that they have overplanted their allotments of either of the other two crops named, Durden said.

SUPREME SOVIET SESSION IS CALLED

Parliament Expected to Ratify Recent Treaties With Baltic States.

MOSCOW, Oct. 26.—(AP)—An extraordinary session of the supreme Soviet (parliament) of Soviet Russia was called today for October 31 by the presidium of the supreme Soviet.

The session, the fifth to be held, presumably was called to ratify recent mutual assistance pacts with the Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, and pacts of friendship and trade with Germany.

The last session of the supreme Soviet ratified Russia's nonaggression treaty with Germany.

The question of the annexation of the one-time Polish Ukraine and White Russia to the U. S. S. R. also is expected to be taken up.

WPA AND COUNTY COMPROMISE TO KEEP JOBS OPEN

Road Project To Employ 1,300 With Fulton Aid; 1,300 More Will Be Put on Other Public Works.

WPA and the Fulton County Commission have completed arrangements whereby the Fulton county road projects will be continued in operation through December, but on a reduced scale. Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator, said yesterday.

Employment on the projects will be maintained at an approximate figure of 1,300 for October, November and December, compared with 2,600 in early September.

The new arrangement is based on a $45,000 appropriation from the county commission, made after the WPA told the commissioners that the projects could not be continued without help from the county.

Last month the county commission notified Miss Shepperson that the $120,000 allocated by the county for the project had been exhausted, and that no more county funds would be forthcoming.

When the works relief agency refused to operate the project alone, the commissioners offered $45,000 to carry on the work until the end of the year, on condition that all units in the project were to be kept in operation through December. At a recent conference between WPA and county engineers a program satisfactory to both parties was worked out, Miss Shepperson said.

While employment on the project will be halved, WPA employment in the county will not be affected in the total, agency officials said, since the jobs taken from the road projects will be distributed to other Fulton projects.

TEACHERS APPROVE POLITICAL PROGRAM

Registration and Balloting of All To Be Sought in First District.

STATESBORO, Ga., Oct. 26.—(P)—Teachers of the first district of the Georgia Education Association pointed today toward future election campaigns with a three-plank political plan.

Meeting here yesterday, between 1,500 and 2,000 teachers adopted this program for wielding power in elections:

(1) Complete registration of all teachers; (2) formulation of policies which set forth the desires of educational purposes and (3) in county primaries every teacher will vote as individuals.

Approval of the plan came after a speech by J. D. Cherry, of the Waycross public schools, who urged the teachers to realize they held the balance of power in state primaries.

Mark A. Smith, president of the G. E. A., advised teachers to quit when their pay from the state quits and to wake up the politicians of the state.

AUGUSTAN NOMINATED FOR G. E. A. PRESIDENCY

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 26.—(P)—Miss Eleanor Boatwright, faculty member of the Tubman School for Girls, has been nominated by the Richmond County Education Association for the presidency of the Georgia Education Association.

Annual elections will be held at the state convention in Macon, March 14, 1940.

Winnie Ruth Judd Ignores Her Kin's Pleas To Give Up

Investigators Find No Trace of Fugitive; Brother Wants Her To Surrender Let She Be Declared Sane and Executed If Caught.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 26.—(P)—Winnie Ruth Judd, mad murderer, remained at liberty today, ignoring the expressed hope of relatives that she surrender to avoid the possibility of being declared sane and executed.

Investigators asserted they had found no trace of the 34-year-old blonde trunk slayer since her midnight visit Tuesday to the home of her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell, a few minutes after she fled the Arizona State Hospital for the Insane.

Officers baffled. As baffled officers pushed the search for the woman who eight years ago killed her two best friends, stuffed their bodies in trunks and shipped them to Los Angeles, a brother, Burton J. McKinnell, Washington, D. C., joined the husband, Dr. W. C. Judd, Los Angeles, in declaring the escape a "mistake" and a "foolish move."

Both expressed hope she would surrender soon. Young McKinnell expressed the fear that should she remain at liberty until officers catch up with her she might be declared sane and executed. A fate she twice escaped, once in 1932 by appeal to the state supreme court and again in 1933 by being declared insane.

Governor Bob Jones has promised she will not be punished if she returns voluntarily. At Santa Monica, Cal., a sister-in-law, Caroline Judd, said she hoped Winnie Ruth would communicate with relatives or "give herself up as soon as possible" for her own safety and for the safety of those who love her.

She expressed the belief, however, that Winnie Ruth had escaped to "the American mining regions" of Mexico, where she formerly lived with Dr. Judd. Had Correspondence.

It was known that Mrs. Judd had correspondence with someone in San Luis Potosi. Authoritative sources also disclosed that Mrs. Judd recently had expressed the desire to go to South Africa where she had missionary friends.

Governor Jones, in San Francisco to attend a conference of western governors, said he thought Mrs. Judd was hiding somewhere near Phoenix and that her mother knew her whereabouts. Officers knocking at the McKinnell door today were greeted by Mrs. McKinnell's statement: "We thought that was her again."

As they departed, the aged mother said confidently, "She'll be here soon."

Mrs. Judd, slayer of Agnes Ann Leroy and Hedvig Samuelson, nurses with whom she had shared an apartment, slipped into the McKinnell residence, where her father is bedridden, remained only 10 or 15 minutes, then disappeared.

She left an unsigned letter to the Governor saying she had been "persecuted" and would return when her mistreatment would end.

ELBERTON WILL OPEN LIVESTOCK SALE BARN

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. ELBERTON, Ga., Oct. 26.—The Elberton livestock sale barn was completed this week, and will be opened at an early date with an unusual program of music, song and speeches.

The barn was built by 400 contributors, most of them farmers, on the pay-as-you-go plan. It is 70 by 120 feet, with a capacity for 500 hogs and an equal number of cattle. It is located on the Seaboard Air Line tracks just outside of the northern city limits.

Tuesday, November 7, has been fixed as the date for the first sale, and a Texas cattleman has announced he will have 100 purebred Herefords here for the sale.

BUSINESS UPTURN CUTS CLAIMS FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

U. S. Job Bureau Reports August to September Upswing in Placements, Drop in Benefits Paid.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—A business upturn, providing more jobs and cutting sharply into claims for unemployment compensation, was reported today by the Bureau of Employment Security of the Social Security Board.

To begin with, board attaches said, jobs in private employment for more than 287,000 individuals were found by its representatives during September.

That job placement figure was 13 per cent above August—42 per cent above September, 1938. Georgia went 24 per cent above August.

Fewer Hunting Jobs. With the increasing number of jobs, lists of persons asking federal aid in finding employment skidded downward and new applications in September were 110,000 below the figure for August and "at the lowest point since December, 1937."

Claims for unemployment compensation dropped correspondingly, with payments for September amounting to $33,805,568 or 24 per cent less than was paid in August. Georgia dropped 21 per cent.

New and reopened claims—representing those workers who lost their jobs only recently—numbered 474,903, a drop of 24.6 per cent from August figures, while continued claims—those carried over from previous months—totaled 3,310,530, a 23.2 per cent decrease.

National Association of Happy Old Maids Is Organized by 100 of City's Lovely Girls

Holds Banquet, Elects Officers Then Goes in Group To See Bette Davis.

Miss Emma L. Kelly, of 808 McDonough boulevard, S. E.

And presenting the temporary chairman of the charter group of the National United States Association of Happy Old Maids:

Dr. Elizabeth Broach, of 616 North Highland avenue. One hundred old maids—and they admitted it—gathered last night at the Henry Grady hotel for a banquet, for the formation and election of chairmen of their charter, election of a glamour girl and later attending the moving picture, "The Old Maid," at the Fox theater.

Happy Gathering. And so last night they gathered—all those girls who have been admitted and desired but who couldn't say "yes." For, after all, as one of them said, "when you have been accustomed to the choruses, why settle down to a duet?"

The majority of those present last night were career girls who have found happiness, joy, success and recognition in their solo flight through life. In the minority were those who were "just at home."

Miss Bolling Spalding, glamour girl-president of the 1939-40 Debutante Club, presided as temporary chairman of the meeting until the election of Dr. Broach. Miss Spalding said:

"We of the Atlanta Debutante Club have a very special interest in helping you organize. You see, after next year—well, maybe a lot of us will be applying for membership in your club."

Club Party Set. Upon Dr. Broach's election as temporary chairman, she appointed Miss Bess de Mouney, Miss Kathryn King and Miss Edna L. Johnson as a committee to meet with her next week for future plans of the club and election of officers.

The new glamour girl, Miss Kelly, said:

"Why, I never thought about marrying. I was raised in the country and my one idea was to get out and go places and see things. As soon as I was old enough I came to the city and got a job and I've been so busy at it that I have not had time to marry. And then, too, I have my hunting and fishing hobbies, which takes most of my days off. And, of course, I like to dance, who doesn't?"

ACTOR CABOT'S PAY SEIZED FOR ALIMONY

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Sheriff's deputies today garnished Actor Bruce Cabot's salary to satisfy a $5,950 back alimony judgment obtained by Actress Adrienne Ames.

Married in 1933, the couple was twice divorced, in 1936 and again in 1937, after remarriage. Settlement provided Miss Ames would receive $125 a week until next February.

HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE. BAXLEY, Ga., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Fire yesterday severely damaged the North Main street dwelling of John T. Williams and destroyed his household furnishings. The owner estimated the damage at $3,500.

Mail Boxes Taboo on Halloween, Postmaster Warns All Pranksters

City Adds Cyclorama to List of Forbidden Targets While Observers Wonder How Uncle Sam and City Fathers Will Enforce Restrictions.

By JACK J. SPALDING. Mailboxes, sacred receptacles of bills, duns and stuff delivered by courtesy of the United States government (for a small price) will be strictly out-of-bounds for Halloween pranksters this year, Postmaster Lon F. Livingston ruled yesterday.

The postmaster gave budding vandals carte blanche, as far as he is concerned, to do what they will with gates, doorbells, plate-glass windows and out-of-door plumbing fixtures, remarking that they were out of his jurisdiction, but he begged that the neutrality of mailboxes be respected.

Damage and destruction of the tin eyeglasses, it seems, is covered by a multitude of laws, invoking the armed might and mailed fist of the federal, state and other governments.

G-Men Guard Pondered. It could not be immediately determined whether Atlanta's musical G-men have been assigned to guard the boxes Halloween night.

Only sounds coming from the FBI office yesterday were the sad notes of a mouth organ, played by that talented member of the staff who composes music and insists on hiding his light under a bushel or so of wolf's clothing.

City hall attaches whispered the municipal government would close its eyes to all damage except that done at the Cyclorama. The Cyclorama building, an art lover hinted darkly, had better be closed to art lovers that day.

All the county would say was they wished they could pave more roads by more mailboxes, but didn't see how it could be done.

Mailbox Draws Fire. Seventeen garden clubbers, interested in beautifying the roadside thought the postmaster's "Let's Be Kind to Mailboxes Night" a rotten idea.

"After the billboard, the mailbox," they chorused.

Usually reliable sources thought the state administration would endorse the idea.

"It's an old Little New Deal custom to endorse anything," said the usually reliable sources.

Meanwhile, Postmaster Livingston wanted it clearly understood that he was all for Halloween, and all that goes with it, but—

"Fun's fun," he said, "but the mail, like the pony express, must go through."

Accused of stealing their own automobile, two men yesterday were found not guilty by a jury in Judge Virlyn B. Moore's division of Fulton superior court.

The men, Claude Anderson and Harry Lancaster, were jointly indicted on a charge of taking their own car from Sheriff's Deputies R. L. Carr Jr. and J. M. Turner after the two officers had served them with a fi. fa. levy on the machine in behalf of Mrs. Annie Anderson to settle a $600 alimony bill against Anderson.

Assistant Solicitor Quincy Arnold read the law that it is a felony to take property from the custody of officers, but Defense Attorney George Finch contended that the deputies never properly served Anderson and Lancaster with the fi. fa. papers. After an hour, the jury agreed with Finch.

comprised of Lee S. Trimble, Wesley N. Raymond, C. B. McElroy and E. G. Clarke, who also urged the Authority to make Macon a stop on any Atlanta to Savannah route.

Representatives Hugh Peterson, of Ailey, Ga., Stephen Pace, of Americus, and Ben Gibbs, of Jesup, also attended the hearings. Mayor Hartford filed briefs with the Authority containing resolutions, approving his stand, from many Atlanta civic and service organizations.

A letter from Governor Rivers, also urging the route between Atlanta, Augusta, Savannah and Brunswick-Sea Island, was introduced in papers to the examiners.

The delegation from Macon was

MUNICIPAL TAXES HOLDING UP WELL

Despite One-Mill Reduction, Income Only Slightly Under 1938 Figures.

Prospect of a successful financial year for the municipal government was indicated yesterday when it was learned that tax receipts through yesterday totaled $4,873,461.53, only $86,780.78 short of that paid into the treasury during the same period last year.

While an $86,780 decline was recorded, it was pointed out that the tax rate for 1939 was reduced one mill—from 17 mills to 16 mills—over last year, and that on the basis of the $330,000,000 1938 tax digest a loss of $330,000 was anticipated.

Recorders' courts fines already have exceeded those of the entire year 1938 by more than $15,000, and water receipts are considerably over those of last year.

A completed recapitulation of departmental receipts as compared to estimates was not available yesterday because G. Graham West, city comptroller, is out of the city, and, in his absence, no figures are released.

Through October 26, 1939, taxpayers paid $4,960,222.31 into the municipal treasury on a tax rate of 17 mills. So far this year the payment has aggregated $4,873,461.53 on a 16-mill basis.

Real wages in Sweden are the highest ever paid in the country and employment in near record levels.

CANADA IS WOOING U. S. DOLLARS TO AID WAR EFFORTS

Nearly One-Fourth Dominion's Industrial Plant Is American Owned; Full Payoff Promised.

By LOUIS M. LYONS.
For North American Newspaper Alliance.
MONTREAL, Quebec, Oct. 26.—Canada has gone to war with one eye on the United States and both ears tuned to America's reaction to the war. The success of her war effort depends enormously on her ability to sell America the war as a bill of goods, or at least to sell American capital.

Nearly one-fourth of Canada's industrial plant is American-owned, and a large part of this is or can be American-controlled. A great deal of it is direct subsidiary of American corporations.

This great part of her manufacturing establishment which makes its returns to Wall Street or Detroit, or Akron, or Schenectady, represents a still larger part of the plant which can be of vital effect in war supply. It covers most of the automobile, rubber, electrical and machine tool industries. British investment runs to railroads and real estate and mines. The American dollar commands five times as much of Canadian industry as the British pound.

To Mobilize Dollar.
So one of the first jobs in Canada's economic effort is to mobilize the dollar back of her enlistment in the war.

The American-run corporations have to be persuaded to convert their tractor factories to tank production and their automobile assembly lines to aircraft manufacture, else the industrial conversion of Canada to a war basis must be painfully slow and incomplete. Canada is making the recruiting of the dollar her first order of war business. It is an expensive job.

Her own dollar lost a time when she went to war. Almost the first war measure was to set up a foreign exchange board, headed by the governor of the Bank of Canada, to handle Canada's dollar diplomacy for the war.

First measure of the foreign exchange board was to announce that all foreign investors in Canada will receive their interest payments in full foreign value dollars. That means that some $5,000,000,000 of American capital in Canadian industry will collect dollar dividends instead of 90-cent dividends. The board guaranteed that this policy will hold for new investment in Canada.

Full Payoff.
Thus, Canada says to American capital: "If you build war factories in Canada, we will pay you off in full American dollars, whatever the exchange rate costs us."

The buying handicap against her 90-cent dollar in the United States is going to stimulate Canada's encouragement of American industry to extend its plant on this side of the line.

The British are going to try to encourage new Canadian industry. A sum of $700,000,000 is reported as the amount which England and the Dominions plan to put into the expansion of Canadian aircraft plant. But for a considerable time Canada and Britain, too, will depend upon the war supply from the United States or upon American-controlled production in Canada.

Cost of Dimes.
The time that the dollar has lost will cost Canada some $33,000,000 a year on the $330,000,000 interest she pays on foreign capital, three-fifths of it to United States.

But nearly the full amount of her total interest payments abroad she now collects from the spending of the 7,000,000 American tourists who visited Canada this year.

Even the excited organization of war boards has not side-tracked a conference to find ways to increase the attraction to the American tourist who balances Canada's balance of trade.

So Canada looks across the border as she goes to war. It is not a long look. Pretty nearly the whole of Canada's industrial development is within 75 miles of the border. Half her people live within 106 miles of the border. And nine-tenths of the whole Canadian population lives in a belt only 200 miles wide that stretches along our 4,000-mile boundary.

Fringe of Domain.
This Sudetenland is only the fringe of the vast domain of Canada. But it is all that counts in terms of men and money and machines.

Three-fifths of the people and four-fifths of the industrial plant of Canada are in the two great provinces of Ontario and Quebec, whose cities border the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence. It is chiefly in this core of Canada that the number of individual passages across the line last year totaled 30,000,000. Canadians say that any day finds 175,000 Americans in Canada.

But every day finds more than 3,000,000 Canadian-born residents in northern United States.

ROSSVILLE MILL GETS AIR CORPS CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The War Department announced today contracts totaling $11,906,476 awarded October 1-15, which included air corps orders for supplies and equipment of $3,827,964. Contracts included one to the Peerless Woolen Mills, of Rossville, Ga., for olive drab overcoating. $378,788.

War and the Third Term

Regardless of agreement or disagreement with his domestic policies, it is evident the people of the United States are well pleased with President Roosevelt's handling of the nation's foreign affairs during this time of war and war crisis.

The most recent survey by the Institute of Public Opinion, better known as the Gallup Poll, is made public in The Constitution today. These polls, scientifically conducted, have invariably been correct interpretations of public opinion, with never more than a point or two of divergence with the outcome, when election votes have made comparison possible.

According to this survey, President Roosevelt's popularity with the general public has risen sharply since the outbreak of war, now standing at a higher peak even than at the time of the 1936 election. A nation-wide average shows 64.9 per cent approve of Roosevelt as President, today. This compares to 61 per cent in a survey one month ago, and 56.6 per cent two months ago. And, in 1936, Roosevelt was re-elected president on 62.5 per cent of the major party vote.

This survey, of course, does not mean that 64.9 per cent of the voters would cast their ballots for Roosevelt, for a third term, in 1940. Regardless of changes to come in his popularity standing, it is reasonable to suppose that a certain number of those who approve his presidency, would still not vote for him, simply on the ground of their opposition to a third term for any President.

On the other hand, however, the figures do reveal that Roosevelt is the man most of the nation wants at the governmental helm while Europe is at war. Taken in conjunction with the overwhelming desire of the nation to stay out of war, this can mean only that a majority of the voters feel confident his policies will succeed in doing this.

The Roosevelt background and experience contribute to this faith. He has spent the greater portion of his adult life in public service. He has, in that service, become excellently well acquainted with the ramifications of European politics, national rivalries and manners of thought. He has traveled, frequently and widely, in Europe. His concept of world affairs is acknowledged to be as wide and as comprehensive as that of any present official of the government.

Thus the coming of war to Europe has a remarkable repercussion on United States politics. It makes probable a development that was, at best, extremely improbable a few months ago. That is the precedent-shattering re-election of a President to a consecutive third term.

At the same time, it reveals an alarming and dangerous condition in the United States. For, in the final analysis, the overwhelming approval of Roosevelt as President, while war rages across the seas, means only that the people as a whole are convinced there is no other American in public life competent to steer the ship of state safely down the river of neutrality.

Which is, when carefully considered, a confession of lack of competent leadership. Or, at least, a lack of public confidence in any other possible leader.

Reason for Improvement

Proof of the advantage in putting teeth into the law is noted in the fact that Georgia, in the short space of two years, has advanced from the unenviable position of third most fatal traffic state in 1937—on the basis of traffic consumption of gasoline—to a place among the leaders in the nation-wide reduction of automobile deaths.

In reciting this achievement Commissioner Lon Sullivan, of the Department of Public Safety, speaking before the College Park Woman's Club and Intercity Civilians, cited stricter enforcement of the traffic statutes as a principal cause for the fine record. In this connection, he disclosed that 139 licenses have been revoked already during October, on receipt of report of conviction of drunk driving. The system of revoking and suspending licenses was started in earnest on July 15, Sullivan said, and is removing many hazards from the highways.

With 108 fewer traffic deaths through October 1 than at the same time last year, and 168 less than up to that date in 1937, the goal is to bring the death toll at least 200 under the 1937 mark. Working along the lines in which it is operating at present, the State Department of Public Safety will go a long way toward accomplishing this worthy end.

Atlanta Shares Blame

For 39 days the city of Atlanta has known no traffic fatality within the city borders.

Every user of the streets, every motorist, every good citizen, had co-operated by the exercise of care and by obedience to the law, to keep the record clear for more than five weeks. Then—

A youth, described as "on a drunken rampage," came blustering down Pryor street. Bellicose, he attacked and fought several pedestrians upon his route.

An aged man, a retired minister, attempted to avoid contact with the troublemaker and, in doing so, stepped into the path of a truck.

That aged man died of his injuries on Wednesday night and thus the period without traffic fatalities ended on the 39th day.

All because of one youth, a boy of 21 without sufficient self-discipline to behave as a responsible, civilized being should behave. A youth who had turned liberty into license.

On that youth's shoulders today, as he sits in jail, rests responsibility for the death of a beloved and respected man. Also upon him rests responsibility for the breaking of Atlanta's record of safety and for the feeling of disappointment and shame felt, today, by every good citizen.

Navy Day.

Navy Day, observed through the nation on this date each year, at the same time celebrates the birth anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt, to whose initiative and foresight is due, in large degree, the great United States navy of modern times.

It was Theodore Roosevelt who laid the foundation of the sea strength this nation boasts today and it was on that foundation that succeeding Presidents, and their administrations, have been able to build wisely and constructively, until the navy today is worthy of its place as the first arm of national defense.

On this annual Navy Day it would be well, perhaps, to ignore for once the material statistics on ships of war, total tonnage, weight of fire, etc., and consider, as of greater importance, the personnel.

Officers and men of the United States navy are exceeded by none in the world for efficiency and ability to fulfill their jobs. The greatest ships and the finest guns in the world are useless without the men technically trained, and temperamentally able, to operate them to fullest capacity of their power.

The naval officer of today cannot depend upon untrained common sense for leadership. He must have highly trained ability. Given this, with proper experience, his ability to lead is limited only by his native intellectual endowment.

The higher officers of the American navy are men who have come up through the different grades, with full knowledge of the technical requirements for handling the ships, the guns, the men they command. Only with this training is a modern naval officer equipped for his demanding job.

It is gratifying in a world of war, today, to realize the high ability of America's naval personnel and to know that, behind the armored strength of our defensive ships, stands men fully worthy of a nation's confidence.

A better knowledge, by the country as a whole, of the navy and its men is the first objective of Navy Day.

A parental adviser thinks adolescents should be encouraged to state their side of the case. One then says, "No, you're too young for a permanent."

A house built of cotton by government engineers in Alabama brings up the question of spring cleaning. What if the laundry sends back the wrong house?

Paris millinery, inspired by war materials, is spreading to these shores. We must keep an eye out then for the old-time long hatpin, or javelin.

If it's to be a film burlesquing the dictators, Chaplin must hurry, or it will be straight history.

"Extraordinary people—these Americans. They serve wines of all kinds too cold," says a visiting gourmet, looking for one of those ice-free ports.

Editorial of the Day

RELATIONS WITH CANADA

(From The Washington Post)

Since Colonel Lindbergh raised the issue there has been a good deal of thoughtful discussion on the relations between the United States and Canada. To that extent at least the famous aviator's address has served a useful purpose. The debate which has followed his remarks cut through a muddled trend of thinking which began long before the present European war broke out.

Of course, the United States would like to attain a feeling of solidarity among the nations of the western hemisphere in meeting grave international issues. Even though Canada is a member of the British commonwealth of nations, her co-operation in this effort may be reasonably sought. Yet nothing could be clearer than Canada's right to freedom of choice as to whether her best interests lie in fighting beside her mother country or maintaining neutrality along with the American republics.

An imperialistic note in our relations with any other country in the western hemisphere would be the surest way to frustrate the movement toward solidarity in the Americas. If a common policy is to be pursued, it must be based on mutual good faith and understanding among nations enjoying equal rights despite their inequality as to resources and man power. And, of course, that policy will have to be worked out, not in any one capital, but in conferences such as that recently held in Panama City.

Through the persistent efforts of the Department of State the desire of the United States to work in co-operation with other governments in the western hemisphere has been well established. It is doubtful whether Colonel Lindbergh's address altered the favorable atmosphere thus created. But, if so, the discussion of the last week should readily dispel any lingering suspicion that the American people are out of sympathy with this policy.

WARTIME WISFUL THINKING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—A common form of wartime wishful thinking was expressed by Alfred Duff Cooper, former first lord of the British admiralty, when he landed in this country the other day. The fighting bantam husband of the beautiful Lady Diana Manners predicted that German conservatives, disgusted with Nazism, would depose Hitler and make peace.

You hear this one often in Washington, the sad role in the coup d'état always being assigned to the German officer caste, the only people who could conceivably do the job. American experts' refutation of the story is unusually revealing, as a commentary both on wartime thinking and on the nature of the Nazi state.

UNPLEASANT STORY

According to the shrewdest of our officials, the first thing to remember is the tremendous change in the German military leadership since Hitler took power. Many of the old generals and lesser officers were certainly deeply affronted at the character of their new Nazi masters, and chilled to the marrow by such incidents as the gross murder of their own, General Von Schleicher, and Frau Von Schleicher. But the old generals are gone, in a welter of intrigue.

The crucial incident of the unpleasant story was the decision of the former war minister, General Von Blomberg, to ignore army caste rules and marry a secretary. The caste rules had been giving trouble to the Nazis. Von Blomberg persuaded Hitler not only to approve the marriage, but also to signify his approval by attending the wedding ceremony. Thereupon, General Von Fritsch, then commander-in-chief of the army, demanded an interview with the Fuehrer, bitterly protested what Von Blomberg had done, and ended by making the statement that this led to army caste snobism would demoralize his officers. Von Blomberg, feeling the pressure too great, went on his honeymoon to Italy and stayed there.

Meanwhile, however, Von Fritsch and the other top-ranking generals were involved in a violent palace struggle with Heinrich Himmler, leader of the SS corps and chief of the Gestapo, who wished to put political agents to spy on the officers and had established four SS regiments of his own. Von Blomberg's disgrace created an uncertain situation, of which Himmler took prompt advantage. Following the usual Nazi pattern, he trumped up elaborate morals charges against Von Fritsch. Von Fritsch demanded trial, was acquitted, but found himself dismissed from command.

The last heard of Von Fritsch was when he was killed in Poland. The authorities disagree as to whether his death came by murder by SS men, suicide, or simple overdoing. He had been without power since January, 1938, when he was replaced as commander-in-chief by General Von Brauchitsch. Von Brauchitsch, with the chief of staff, General Keitel; the cold, steel-minded strategist, General Halder, and the half-Jewish air technician, General Milch, are now the important army figures. All of them have been with Hitler from before the Austrian Anschluss. All except Milch, who is Goering's man, are Hitler's personal appointees. They owe much to him, are devoted to him and would support him in any but the most extraordinary circumstances.

CONTENTMENT BY SURFEIT

Furthermore, these generals at the top are not unrepresentative of the army caste as a whole. The caste itself has been diluted, under the Nazis, by a tremendous recruitment of low-rank officers of nonarmy background. At the same time, everything possible has been done to conciliate the obstinate caste feeling.

Army pay, considering the German standard of living, is remarkably high. The army gets first choice at whatever it wants, for Germany has been a military state since 1933. Hitler shows immense personal interest in the army's needs, gratifyingly leaving strategic problems to the judgment of the generals, but constantly conferring with them on technical matters concerning equipment and the like. The army has direct access to Hitler, not only through members of the high command, but also in such forms as reports of the German military attaches abroad, which are routed straight to the reichschancellery without diplomatic censorship.

For all these reasons, men who know them will tell you that Von Brauchitsch and Halder, List, Von Witzleben, Blaskowitz and the others who might possibly lead a coup d'état have now become Hitler's strongest supporters. After all, if a purely military state cannot command its army's enthusiasm, it must be doing a "pretty poor job."

Few Gougers

Hurt Labor Cause.

For illustration of the harm that a few, but powerful and irresponsible, individuals can do, you should read an article appearing in the November issue of The American Mercury. It is written by Stanley High, and deals with the conscienceless gouging practiced by the agents of some New York labor unions in connection with the building of the World's Fair.

Mr. High tells how responsible leaders of organized labor, all over the country, tried to end the outrageous profiteering. The Fair authorities and the United States government itself tried, but failed, to stop the racketeering, he says. The result of it was that these few agents, by their unscrupulousness, turned the goodwill sought by the foreign nations among the exhibitors, into bitterness and has largely undone all the plans for the promotion of new international friendship.

This racketeering, says Mr. High, cost exhibitors, at the best estimate, $4,000,000. "Some foreign exhibitors figure," he writes, "that unjustifiable labor charges—due, not to the prevailing wage rate, which they took fully into account in their original estimates, but to excessive demands for overtime, deliberate slow-downs, and the forced employment of unnecessary workmen—increased the cost of their concessions by 30 to 40 per cent."

A Few Illustrations. One of the unscrupulousness, taken at random from Mr. High's article, follows: "In the course of getting their building ready for opening, the Belgians had seven strikes. One cost $10,000."

"At one time, according to an official, the lowest wages being paid to a workman in the Rumanian building was $200 a week. From that low the scale ran to a top of $400."

"A Dutch workman reported that it required eight local unionists eight hours to place a tank in the Netherlands building which three Dutch workmen could have set in 30 minutes."

"As the most important feature of its exhibit, Nevada planned to display a five-ton electrically operated model of Boulder Dam. According to the Nevada authorities, the unions decreed that the model—despite the fact that it had been wired by union labor on the first place—would have to be taken apart and rewired in New York and that, in addition, a local unionist would have to be employed to look after it. The designer insisted that rewiring would wreck the model entirely. The unions refused to compromise. Due, in part, to that fact, Nevada withdrew from the Fair."

"Holland planned to display a very complicated electrical machine used for sorting mail and, to install and operate it, sent five experts. The unionists stepped in and ordered its installation by American labor. The Dutch refused. Appeals to the federal government brought no action. For five weeks the machine lay unpacked on the floor of the Dutch pavilion. Finally the unions agreed to allow the Dutch experts to do the job, but they required the five American members of the clover family."

There was a good-natured jibe in presenting to Charles E. French, of Huntington Park, Cal., who is collecting four-leaf clovers from the 48 states, a five as well as a four-leaf clover from Virginia. Miss Mary Miller, of Emory and Henry College, found the five-leaf clover member of the clover family.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Divorce RENO, Oct. 26.—

There has been a decline in the divorce industry in Reno since the banner year of 1931, when Nevada met a challenge from Arkansas by reducing from three months to six weeks the period required for the establishment of a legal residence. Nevada pioneered the field under an old law requiring a residence of six months, and was doing a fine business, rich in economic butter-fall, when the best minds of the hotel trade, retail business and the legislature decided that a reduction to three months would increase the volume without reducing to an injurious degree the quality of the clientele.

Arkansas then designed a stock-model decree and, under a three-month law adopted for the purpose, attempted to divert from Nevada the business from the Mississippi Valley and the east with the benefit of a freight differential, as you might say.

This divorce trade is almost entirely interstate commerce, and if Arkansas had been a private corporation the federal government might have found a law somewhere to protect Nevada's rights. However, no such relief could be hoped for, so Nevada largely abandoned the quality trade, as such, and adopted a six-week law embodying the business principle of the five-and-ten, which is small profits but many of them.

Rich people as well as the poor shop at the five-and-ten, so Nevada would still get their business, though in smaller units, because they naturally would spend much less on their wedding than they had spent in six months or three.

Moreover, Nevada decrees were quality decrees with a world-wide reputation. They had been tested in many courts, and many repeat-ers in Reno provided evidence that Nevada divorces were not only stylish but serviceable.

The prestige of these writs is so high that Reno scoffs airily at a current attempt by her neighbor Idaho to intrude in the field with a six-week law and a campaign to divert business to Sun Valley.

When the minimum requirement was six months of residence, and even after it had been reduced to three, the divorce clientele bought many expensive automobiles in Reno, and the retail merchants carried a large stock of the most expensive goods, particularly women's wear. This demand for new cars has almost vanished under the present law, and, of course, the customers find it no problem to carry a program of stylish gear to see them through six weeks without local replacements.

Hotels

The hotels, however, are doing better than ever, because Nevada, and particularly Reno, have recently discovered another profitable line of business in quick-and-easy marriage for Californians unwilling to wait three days, as required by the law against big weddings, or to comply with new blood-test regulations. There are no statistics to indicate which law the Californians are particularly determined to avoid in coming to Reno for marriage.

Unless they drink extremely high-octane gin in California they would cool out or pass out on the long trip to Reno, but, nevertheless, the day after this law took effect there was a queue of the Californians in the throes of the divine delirium extending from the courthouse door a half block to the corner and another half block down that street. The blood-test law caused another rise in the marriage traffic, and together they have raised the score of marriage far above that of divorce.

RIVERS' PROGRAM PLEDGED SUPPORT AT SENATE RALLY

Move to Force Session Rejected by 30 Here; $800,000 Warrant Goes to Highway Department

A group of state senators expressed a "desire and willingness" yesterday to pass revenue measures for support of Governor Rivers' program and added a "hope" that the representatives would follow suit.

About 30 senators discussed Georgia's financial plight and voted, 15 to 8, to inform the Governor that they favored "such revenue measures as are needed" to finance his program of increased educational, welfare and health activities "when and if a special session is called."

No specific plan of financing was offered in either resolution.

Governor Stays Away
Governor Rivers did not attend the session, although he conferred with a number of senators before and after the gathering.

In the meantime the chief executive signed a warrant for $800,000 to meet a requisition for funds submitted by the State Highway Board. State Auditor Zack Arnold said the funds represented nearly all the highway department had "on hand at the moment."

The auditor's office has estimated that the general fund will be about $400,000 short of meeting the school pay roll of $1,600,000 for the month of October and an executive order impounding the $400,000 and transferring it to the common schools is expected in a day or two.

It was emphasized, however, that the impounding would not involve the money paid to the road department yesterday which the department already is disbursing.

The resolution approved by the senators also asked a majority of the representatives to go on record similarly "in writing" so that an "early session of the assembly may be called."

The senators, called to an "informal meeting" by Senator J. C. Cail, of Sylvania, turned down Senator Cail's resolution which would have forced an extra session.

The legislature can convene itself in a special session, without a governor's call, if three-fifths of the senators and representatives favor it. This resolution, which

Georgia Senators Rally To Study State Finances

Members of the Georgia senate, in informal session yesterday, voted to support any finance measure approved by the house and called on the lower branch of the assembly to notify the Governor of a willingness to help solve the state's fiscal problems. Three lead-

was refused by 18 to 5, was designed to carry the names of the necessary legislators.

Says "Forget Talmadge."

Senator Paul Lindsay, of Atlanta, in one of several five-minute discussions of Georgia's financial condition, warned the senators that "we must reduce our appropriation bill or pass new revenue measures." Otherwise, he declared, the state will have a 12 to 14 million deficit in the next two years. "Our hands are tied," said Senator J. E. Brooks, of Camilla. "Revenue measure must originate in the house of representatives and we cannot help solve the problem until that body takes action."

Senator Brooks said the "name of (former Governor Eugene) Talmadge should be forgotten. Then, we may go on and do something."

System Under Fire.

Dr. J. T. Holt, Baxley senator, touched on the state's financial system.

"If our system of allocations is wrong, it should be corrected," he declared. "Some action should be taken. I don't believe a majority of Georgians is willing to let the state go on as it is."

Certain state departments, including education and welfare, are supported from the general fund. Funds are allocated to some.

Agreeing an emergency exists, Senator Walter Estes, of the 35th district, suggested only revenue measures should be considered in any special session plans. Some senators opposed the resolution, which was voted down, on contentions that the Governor could, within five days after receiving a request from three-fifths of the legislature, select his own subjects to be included in any extra-session call.

John B. Spivey, of Swainsboro, president of the senate, was voted chairman and Senator Mose Brinson, of Summerville, was named secretary. Spivey appointed a five-man committee to present the resolution to Governor Rivers. It was composed of Senators Lindsay, Cail, Estes, A. N. Durden of Albany and J. W. Twigg of Blairsville.

Blame Lower House.

The resolution said the administration's program of governmental services "is much needed for the general welfare of our people" and added that "additional funds must" be provided, but blamed the house of representatives for failure to originate "necessary revenue measures" at the last regular session.

Governor Rivers has said he would not call a special session until he is convinced a majority of the lawmakers are agreed on some plan of financing.

This "jeopardized" the program and caused curtailment of state services, the resolution declared.

Senator Cail, asserting "our schools are going to rot," urged the senators to "be men" and "meet the representatives halfway" so that Georgia "will go forward."

Reporters were admitted to the meeting on a motion by Senator Lindsay, who explained "our state is in such condition that we should let the world know how we stand." The motion carried by voice vote.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

CERTITUDE.

Everyone, I suppose, feels that he has the best county weekly newspaper in the state, and I am grateful for this fine loyalty of our people to these very important local newspapers. I, along with many other citizens of DeKalb county, feel that we have one of the very best of all these splendid county weekly newspapers—the DeKalb New Era, Murphree Candler, editor. I read everything in the paper every week, but always first, the editorials.

In last week's paper Mr. Candler had an editorial, under the title, "The One Sure Thing," which I read and reread, and have filed for reference, as I have a number of his editorials. "In these hectic days when events pile high around us in bewildering array," began Mr. Candler, "our confused minds are reluctant to grasp many facts as being reliable enough on which to rely. What seems certain today, tomorrow we find but an ephemeral bubble of theory."

Consequently, the world is in a frenzy. The United States is in a frenzy. In one form or another, we are violently ill with the jitters. We worry over the fact that this country may have to go to war.

"But in the midst of all this alarm, uncertainty, horror and tragedy there is one sure thing that stands out clearly and plainly visible in the deepening shadows that haunt civilization. It is the fact that God lives. America was conceived in religion. She was born in religion. She has lived in religion. She will never die because of her religion. Liberties, rights and freedom may hang to life by a thread, but just so long as America stands by its religion, just that long will American democracy live."

"No nation, no people, no country which destroys its churches, abandons its Sabbaths and blasphemes Jehovah can conquer us as long as we cling fast to the principles of religion by which our fathers lived. Encouraging thought, this. This is the one sure thing today. Like a great rock in a desert filled with mirages it stands as our only haven."

When businessmen, like Mr. Candler, sound these deep notes of certitude, it is most heartening and reassuring. His editorial brings Scripture:

"If My people, which are called by My Name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from Heaven, and you will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." II Chronicles 7:14. And again, "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord." Psalm 33:12.

IT happens like this. Mr. and Mrs. Jones are window shopping. Mr. Jones needs clothes. Bond's display catches their eye. Says Mr. Jones, "These look like expensive suits." Says the Mrs., "They do, but just look at those prices." So in they go, both thinking "how come so much for so little?" And the salesman tells how all Bond Clothes are made in Bond's own plants. And how this keeps Bond prices down by cutting out third-party profits. Which is something very few clothiers can say. Mr. Jones likes the way the clothes fit. Mrs. Jones recognizes superior woolen quality. The salesman flashes that extra pair of trousers—at no extra cost. And it's all over. Mr. Jones tells his friends, and they tell theirs. This has been going on for 31 years. Do you wonder more men wear Bond Clothes than any other clothes in America? Even more important, they keep on repeating year after year. Just as you will, after your first taste of Bond's "champagne quality" at club soda prices. How about starting today or tomorrow?

FINN LEADER CALLS RED DEMANDS STILL UNACCEPTABLE

ENVOYS LEAVING
SUNDAY TO RENEW TALKS IN MOSCOW

Foreign Minister Urges People To Have Faith in
'Nerve-Testing Period';
Hints Neutrality as Nub

By LYNNE HEINZELING.
HELSINKI, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Soviet Russia's demands were declared still unacceptable to Finland by one Finnish leader tonight, while another bid the Finnish people look at the "nations wiped off the map of Europe."

It was Finance Minister V. Tanner who disclosed that Russia's proposals are still unacceptable, but who asserted, nevertheless,
that "I still think we can come to an agreement."

On the other hand Foreign Minister Elias Erkko, addressing a large patriotic rally, referred to the last two years in which "two ancient countries have been wiped off the map of Europe; both great and small states are anxiously wondering what the future holds for them and in which direction the wheels of fate will carry them."

Both Dealt With Reds.
As foreign minister, Erkko has had an active part in the Moscow negotiations, while Tanner was a member of the delegation which went to the Kremlin.

In his statement, Tanner said the negotiators probably would start a return trip to Moscow on Sunday to resume the talks.

Speaking in an unusually solemn mood, Erkko told the Finns they must face with calmness and courage a "period of nerve testing" and place implicit faith in the government.

Discussing the delicacy of the negotiations with Russia, Erkko said "nothing could be more dangerous than a too early public discussion of questions in which the self respect and vital interests of our people are at stake."

Insist on Neutrality.
At the same time he called on the present regime in Moscow to "show of its own free will that conditions have altered" in Russia.

He touched upon what many believed to be the nub of the difficulty with Russia, however, when he mentioned Finnish neutrality.

He said Finland could not "entangle herself with any of the belligerents or groups of great powers, nor can she be involved in any combination which would be considered inimical to any other state."

Erkko referred to the tremendous precautionary measures taken by the country and said "the most recent event in Europe gave rise" to these precautions.

The country has to be on its guard lest it unconsciously be led into ways which would result in its destruction," he continued.

Stalin Did Talking.
An indication of the importance Russia attached to the negotiations with Finland was seen in Tanner's disclosure that Joseph Stalin himself took charge of the talks in Moscow while Premier-Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov sat by silently. He said Stalin was "very friendly and cordial" and smoked cigarettes constantly, instead of his customary pipe, during a four-hour conference.

Finland became increasingly "gloomy" at the same time as Sweden intensified her anti-espionage activities. Seven persons were held tonight in Helsinki on suspicion of espionage.

Travelers in and out of Finland were scrutinized closely and visas were required even from neighboring Estonians.

FLINT STORY TOLD

a nerve-racking night sailing between icebergs, stopping frequently.
Most of us stayed up all night.
We appeared to be heading for North Cape. We were still hoping strongly to meet a British ship.
We learned that the Germans had placed a time bomb in the engine room.

We thought we were going to Germany via Norway territorial waters. Our captain figured that German destroyers would escort us through the mine fields. The sea was flat and it was unbearably cold.

There was some excitement the night of October 17. The lookout mistook a plane for a light and our course was changed. All the English seamen were put in cabins.
The funnel was repainted, the ship's name was painted out and so were the American flags painted on our sides. The false name "Alf" was painted over our original name and we were sailing under the Danish flag. It was not so cold that day. We were heading northeast.

Carry Daggers.
The Germans were carrying daggers in addition to revolvers.
We had given up hope of being sighted by a British ship and we were running short of fresh water.
It was much warmer on October 19 and the German sailors took soundings, evidently expecting to make land soon. The German commander stopped the ship at midnight and did not seem sure of his position. On the morning of October 20 we picked up a Norwegian pilot and were now flying the German flag. The German sailors concealed their guns under their jackets.

Nazi War Vessels Score Successes Despite British

Success of German war vessels in the Atlantic is depicted by the map above. The British freighter Stonegate, which sailed from Valparaiso, Chile (1), for England, passed through Panama canal and east of Panama picked up the crew of a torpedoed vessel (2).
Six days out of Panama the Stonegate was sunk (3) by the German pocket battleship Deutschland, according to the story of one of the Stonegate's crew. The Deutschland then is said to have sailed north toward the gate's crew. The City of Flint was captured earlier in Washington that the United States government had demanded the return of the City of Flint and her cargo to the American crew.

(In Berlin, however, officials said that the Russian government had agreed to release the freighter and her cargo to Germany.)

Laurence A. Steinhardt, United States ambassador, received as-urances during the day the American crew of the Flint was safe aboard the ship.

Earlier Tass, official Soviet news agency, had announced the government's intention of examining the City of Flint's cargo and indicated the vessel would be tied up at Murmansk at least a day or two longer.

Then the agency, and the Soviet radio made the surprise announcement of the freighter's release.

Because of the remoteness of Murmansk, the embassy had said, it had no way of knowing in what position the Flint was lying in the harbor or what treatment the ship and her crew were receiving.

Information Meager.
The embassy said it was dependent on the Soviet foreign office for all its information, but did not call on the Russian foreign office today.

Meantime a sharp attack on efforts to repeal the United States neutrality law was made in the Soviet newspaper Red Star.

"The efforts of English and French imperialists to convert the war in western Europe into a world war are meeting with active support on the part of reactionary circles in the United States," the newspaper said.

"The American bourgeois press is striving to conceal from the people the imperialist aims of the war."

"Attempts to silence the Communist party of the United States and arrest of its general secretary, Comrade Browder (Earl Browder), under foreign indictment in New York on a charge of obtaining and using a fraudulent passport) is direct proof of what the policies and intentions of American reactionaries are."

WASHINGTON HOPES FOR VICTORY
WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)— Reports from Moscow tonight that the freighter City of Flint had been permitted to sail from Murmansk under the American flag raised hopes here that the United States had won a victory in a tense diplomatic struggle.

However, officials were keeping approximately 5 p. m. October 20 and took on board 60 tons of water.
The Norwegian customs and naval officers penetrated the ship's disguise and false name and found out our true nationality. The Norwegians refused to allow the Flint to sail until the American flags had been repainted on the ship's sides. Norwegian destroyers appeared.

The English crew from the Stonegate then landed and I managed to squeeze in among the Stonegate's men, thus avoiding going to Murmansk with the City of Flint. The Stonegate's seamen told me they had been well treated by the Germans before being put aboard the City of Flint. The ship's officers were made to sign a paper that they would not fight.

An Indian named Bob Steele is the Bing Crosby of tribes in Yakima, Wash. Besides being able to sing Indian love melodies, he is especially good at war songs, and performs at virtually every tribal celebration.

There was no indication what would be done with Captain Joseph A. Gairard and his 40 crew members aboard the City of Flint, seized in the Atlantic last week by a searoving German warship identified both as the cruiser Emden and the pocket battleship Deutschland, the United Press said.

Discussions of propaganda, he said it was perhaps a good thing that congress had been "deluged" with it from time to time in behalf of various causes.

"Members of the house of representatives and the senate," he explained, "begin to discriminate nowadays between honest, spontaneous, unsolicited expressions of opinion on the part of voters and the propaganda type of mass appeals."

In another portion of his speech, the President said there were two distinct dangers to democracy—the "peril from those who seek the fulfillment of ideals at a pace too fast for the machinery of the modern body politic to function—
people who by insistence on too
great speed foster an oligarchic
form of government such as Communism, or Nazism or Fascism."

They equally, and in most cases unconsciously, too, are in effect advocating the oligarchic form of government—Communism, or Nazi-ism, or Fascism."

Extreme rightists and extreme leftists, he said, should not be taken out and shot against the wall
"for they sharpen the argument and make us realize the value of the democratic middle course—especially if that middle course, in order to keep up with the times, is 'just a little bit left of center.'"

He gave four definitions as follows:

"A radical is a man with both feet firmly planted—in the air."

"A conservative is a man with two perfectly good legs who, however, has never learned to walk."

"A reactionary is a somnambulist walking backwards."

A liberal is a man who uses his legs and his hands at the behest of his head.

It has been a good thing that during the past 20 years we have seen the effect of organized propaganda even when it has been based on nostrums or prejudices.

PROPAGANDA

It has been a good thing for the country that the congress of the United States has been deluged from time to time by organized propaganda. Members of the house of representatives and the senate begin to discriminate nowadays between honest spontaneous, unsolicited expressions of opinion on the part of voters and the propaganda type of mass appeals.

Because the country is so profoundly interested in the world situation today I do want to leave with you one thought bearing on international relations. I make bold to do this because the topic of this evening's discussion, as I understand it, is "The War's Challenge to the United States."

In and out of congress we have heard orators and commentators beating their breasts and proclaiming against sending the boys of American mothers to fight on the battlefields of Europe.

"WORST FAKE IN CURRENT HISTORY"

That, I do not hesitate to label as one of the worst fakes in current history. It is a deliberate setting up of an imaginary bogey man.

The simple truth is that no person in any responsible place in the national administration in Washington, or in any state government, or in any county government, or in any county government has ever suggested in any shape, manner or form the remotest possibility of sending the boys of American mothers to fight on the battlefields of Europe.

That is why I label that argument a shameful and dishonest fake.

CITIZEN ACQUIRES
DISCRIMINATION

They do no harm because the average citizen is acquiring the gift of discrimination—and the more all of these subjects are talked about by amateur armchair strategists the more the public will make up its own mind in the long run. The public will acquire the ability to think things through for themselves.

The fact of the international situation—the simple fact, without any bogey in it, without any appeals to prejudice—is that the United States, as I have said before, is neutral and does not intend to get involved in war.

That we can be neutral in thought as well as in act, as I have said before, impossible of fulfillment because again, the people of this country, thinking things through calmly and without prejudice, have been and are making up their minds about relative merits of current events on other continents.

It is a fact increasingly manifest that presentation of real news has sharpened the minds and the judgment of men and women everywhere in these days of real public discussion—and we Americans begin to know the difference between the truth on the one side and the falsehood on the other, no matter how often the falsehood is iterated and reiterated. Repetition does not transform a lie into a truth.

bullet walking backwards.

Senators Lodge, Republican, Massachusetts, and Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, debated the question of repealing the arms embargo in other addresses prepared for delivery to the Herald Tribune forum.

Would Extend Ban.

Lodge proposed that congress, instead of repealing the existing ban against the shipment of arms to warring nations, extend it to all neutrals "and thereby prevent the shipment of arms to Japan in the east and to Italy and to Communist Russia for trans-shipment to Germany."

The argument was made by Byrnes that, if the present embargo were retained, other nations might adopt a similar policy toward the United States in the future with the result that this country would be unable to obtain adequate arms quickly to repel any threatened attack.

"We should wait to repeal the embargo until the first overt act has been committed against us," Lodge said. "Let us then use repeal of the embargo as a weapon of military strategy and as an act of self-defense. When we have done so, let us follow it up with still more direct and effective measures."

"If a great and damaging overt act is committed against America we should not only give our Allies groceries on a cash-and-carry basis, we should jump in with

Text of Roosevelt Address
Before Forum in New York

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—
The text of President Roosevelt's address broadcast tonight under the auspices of the New York Herald-Tribune Forum:

I am glad to say a word in this forum because I heartily approve the forum idea. After all, two eighteenth century forums in Philadelphia gave us the Declaration of Independence and the constitution of the United States.

It is the magic of radio that has so greatly increased the usefulness of the forum. Radio listeners have learned to discriminate over the air between the honest advocate who relies on truth and logic and the more dramatic speaker who is clever in appealing to the passions and prejudices of his listeners.

THROWS BOUQUETS
TO PRESS, RADIO

We have had an example of objective reporting during recent weeks in the presentation of international subjects, both in the press and the radio.

Right here I should like to throw bouquets to the majority of the press and the radio. Through a period of grave anxiety both have tried to discriminate between fact and propaganda and unfounded rumor and to give their readers and listeners an unbiased and factual chronicle of developments.

This has worked so well in international reporting that one may be pardoned for wishing for more of it in the field of domestic news.
If it is a good rule in one, why is it not a good rule in the other?

RECALLS "CHICKEN IN EVERY POT"

From the end of the World War onwards this country, like many others, when through a phase of having large groups of people carried away by some emotion—some alluring, attractive, even spontaneously inspiring public presentation of a nostrum—has been Many Americans lost their heads because several plausible fellows lost theirs in expounding schemes to end barbarity, to give everybody a better job—or, more modestly, to put a chicken or two in every pot
—all by adoption of some new financial plan or some new social system. And they all burst like bubbles.

Some proponents of nostrums were honest and sincere—others, too many of them, were seekers of personal power. Others saw a chance to get rich on the dimes and quarters of the poor.

KEEP DEMOCRATIC PROCESSES MOVING

All of them, perhaps, unconsciously, were capitalizing the fact that the democratic form of government works slowly, that there always exists in a democratic society a large group which chafes at the bit over the slowness of democracy. That is why it is right for us who believe in democracy to keep the democratic processes progressive—moving forward with the times in civilization.

That is why it is dangerous for democracy to stop moving forward because any period of stag-nation increases the numbers of those who demand action and action now.

There are, therefore, two distinct dangers to democracy—the peril from those who seek the fulfillment of ideals at a pace too fast for the machinery of the modern body politic to function—
people who by insistence on too
great speed foster an oligarchic
form of government such as Communism, or Nazism or Fascism.

"It means resitting of a great part of our population, and stag-nation in many, if not all, of our manufacturing centers in the industrial east. Foreign trade is less than 10 per cent of our total trade; but that trade is the key to a great deal of what we do."

Hjalmar J. Procopé, Finnish minister to the United States, told the forum that while Finland hoped its Russian negotiations would reaffirm "peace in northern Europe," Finland "neither will nor can agree to anything that violates her independence, integrity or neutrality. Behind this policy the Finnish nation stands as one man."

Walter G. Krivitsky, who describes himself as a former Soviet military intelligence officer who escaped the 1937 "purge," said in a prepared address it was "not at all improbable that Stalin will seek an agreement with Japan by dividing spheres of influence in China and diverting the Japanese southward against the French, Dutch and British possessions."

News Sharpens Minds.

After repeating that this country is neutral and does not intend to get involved in the war, the President said:

"That we can be neutral in thought as well as in act, as I said before, impossible of fulfillment because again, the people of this country, thinking things udice, have been and are making

It was too conservative of existing things, half-hearted, diplomatic.
And since, as more and more of us are beginning to realize now, there can be no more peace or safety on earth without a profound reconstruction of the methods of human living, the great war did not so much come to an end as smoulder through two decades, the fatuous twenties and the frightened thirties, to flare up again
now. Now at a level of greater tension, increased violence and destructiveness and more universal suffering, we are back to something very like 1914, and the decisive question before our species is whether this time it will set its face resolutely towards that dramatic remoulding of ideas and relationships, that world revolution, which it has shirked for a quarter of a century.

If that revolution is to be brought off successfully and give a renewed lease to human happiness and effort, it is to be brought off only by the fullest, most ruthless discussion of every aspect and possibility of the present situation.
Nobody and no group of people knows enough for this immense reorganization, and unless we can have a full and fearless public intercourse of minds open to all the world, our present enemies included, we shall never be able to establish a guiding system of ideas upon which a new world order can rest.

Russian Experiment.

We have before us as an object lesson the great experiment of Russia. Whatever anyone may think of the outcome of the Socialist movement, even of the extremist revolutionary proposals, it is to force them underground. This sort of thing does not save an outward and decaying regime but it drives the critics who are discussing a new order to conspiratorial methods, to terrorist secrecy, to unventilated dogmatism. The revolution, when at last it arrived in Russia, was in the hands of men trained in underground methods, and the Soviet regime, inept practically, with everything to learn, shut down on free discussion and free mutual criticism with the west, and degenerated into the masked incalculable personal rule of today.

That was revolution in the dark.
Cannot our western world, in its quite inevitable march toward a world collectivism, face its changes in the light, in an atmosphere of extreme candor and mutual toleration? Thinking I am most terrified by today's is the manifest threat of a new weak put-off of our aspirations for a new world, by some repetition of the Geneva simulacrum. Last time it was the League of Nations; this time the magic word to do the trick is federation. A real league of nations might have turned the world into a new course in 1918-19; a real federation of mankind might do as much tomorrow. But if it is to be a real, effective federation of mankind, a genuine attempt to realize that phase of world-wide plenty and safety that we have every reason to suppose attainable, then we have to discuss simply and sincerely and work out plans for the polite mediation of monarchies, the competent pooling and socialization of the natural resources and staple industries of the world, the revision and extension of our universities and other knowledge organizations, and the establishment of a world-wide rising level of common education.

These are main aspects of the task obviously before us. It is a task hopeless unless it is undertaken in a blaze of light.
To suppress open discussion, even the discussion of treason and revolution, for some slight or fancied strategic advantage is to sacrifice our end to our means.

The war, under the auspices of
A. R. P., is darkening everything.
Are we to have as much light as that in the streets of the world?
If not, if we are to go on with this present regime of vague insincerities, mutual distrust, and sabotage, for once we see no hope for mankind. More of this sort of thing, and worse to a final extinction.

Inevitable, H. G. Wells Says

Famed Author Calls for Ex-

This article on war aims was written by H. G. Wells as a letter

LONDON.

To the editor of The Times:
Sir—I have been following the correspondence upon war aims in your columns with considerable attention. In many respects it recalls the war aims controversy of 1917-18, when the Crewe House organization did its unsuccessful best to extract from the foreign office a precise statement of what the country was fighting for (see Sir Campbell Stuart's "Secrets of Crewe House"). No such statement was ever produced, and the great war came to a ragged end in mutual accusations of broken promises and double-crossing.

Even then there was a worldwide feeling that a great revolution in human affairs was imminent; the phrase "a war to end war" expressed that widely diffused feeling, and surely there could be no profounder break with human tradition than the existing forms of government than that.
But that revolution did not realize itself. The League of Nations, we can all admit now, was a poor and ineffective outcome of that revolutionary proposal to banish armed conflict from the world and inaugurate a new life for mankind.

still highly confident of amassing a final total of 55 or so. In justification of this claim 14 senators were absent and unrecorded today, most of whom are avowedly on the administration side of the argu-

Vote Tomorrow Seen.

The final ballot may come tomorrow. Majority Leader Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, announced that he would ask for an agreement to vote on the bill and all amendments at 5 o'clock tomorrow. Senator McNary, the Republican leader, advised him, how-tions to such a proposal, and suggested that he seek instead a stricter limit on the debate.

By agreement, each senator now is limited to speaking 45 minutes on the bill and 45 minutes on each amendment.

Before Downey arose with his embargo amendment, the senate had adopted one amendment by Senator Tobey, Republican, New Hampshire, to forbid the use of the American flag by belligerent merchant ships—and rejected another by Senator Danaher, Republican, Connecticut—to forbid the sale of poison gas or flame throwers to the European belligerent.

Tobey told the senate that British merchantmen, in some instances, had flown the American flag during the World War to escape German submarine attacks, and argued that such deception might endanger American lives and property.

His amendment, as modified at

TEXTILE WORKERS TO USE FUND PLAN OF 'MINUTE-A-DAY'

Southern Mills, Employees Will Give Profit, Wages of Half-Day's Overtime to Community Fund.

"A minute a day for those less fortunate" has been adopted by employees of Southern Mills as their slogan for this year's Community Fund drive.

These textile workers, their officials and office staff, will work four hours on Saturday morning (usually an off day). This time is equivalent to a minute a day for each of the 240 days in the year which they ordinarily work. In addition, the profit from the materials manufactured during this time will also be donated to the fund.

$300 Gift Expected.

The total contribution is expected to amount to nearly $300, according to William D. Ellis III, president of the company. There are approximately 115 people employed at the mill. They will all give their time to the Community Fund.

The mill operates with three eight-hour shifts. The three groups of employees will work their four hours on the next three Saturdays.

City-Wide Use Planned. The "minute-a-day" plan is practically new as a Community Fund project, having been used only once before and by a smaller organization. It was found practicable and was adopted by Southern Mills' employees even before the Community Fund drive was officially started this year.

Other organizations are expected to adopt some variations of the plan.

MILLEN PROPERTY SOLD AT AUCTION

Mill and Warehouse Bring Price of $10,200.

MILLEN, Ga., Oct. 26.—(AP)—W. E. Alwood, Millen and Macon capitalist, bought the Morgan cotton mills and warehouse today at a public auction for a price of $10,200.

John C. Wilson purchased a majority of the 37 houses in the mill village at prices ranging from $250 to $350. Several families which have been occupying the dwellings bought the houses they have been living in.

Palmer Stephens paid $1,300 for a feed and grist mill which he has been renting several years.

Alwood, who also purchased 28 acres of undeveloped land adjoining the mills, said he would use the newly acquired property for industrial purposes, but did not disclose details.

EVEN JOBLESS SEE OPPORTUNITY AHEAD

Fortune Magazine Reports Five to One Optimism Over U. S. Future.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Every class in America, even the unemployed, believes overwhelmingly that the United States is still the land of opportunity and that a greater age of economic expansion is ahead.

This is revealed today by the survey in Fortune magazine for November, which sampled public opinion by the same carefully tested methods that enabled Fortune to predict Mr. Roosevelt's actual 1936 majority within 1 per cent.

Survey Question.

The survey question and the replies which disclosed this confidence in the country's future were:

—Do you believe—
That the great age of economic opportunity and expansion in the U. S. is over? 13.1%

That American industry can create a comparable expansion and opportunity in the future? 71.7%

Don't know 15.2%

"With unemployed in the millions, with relief in the billions, with subsidy replacing production, and with the accepted fact that 'one-third of the nation' is lacking in the necessities of life—with these evidences of a contracting economy (up to this war), there is a quality of epic poetry in the declaration, by more than five to one, that a greater economic future lies ahead of us," Fortune says.

Ratio of Optimism. "This ratio of optimism to pessimism is extraordinary for its size. It is even more extraordinary for its distribution. Every class of American overwhelmingly thinks we have an age of expansion ahead."

Pessimism in no case breaks over 30 per cent. Confidence falls below 60 per cent only in the case of negroes and farm hands, and then only because a quarter of them have no opinions."

ELKS' INITIATION.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 26.—C. Wesley Killebrew, Augusta attorney and district deputy grand exalted ruler for east Georgia, was the guest of honor here last night when the local Elks inducted a special class of candidates.

BRITISH CONSIDER NEW BID FOR REDS

Polish Grab Is Excused as Moving to Boundary That Britain Urged in 1919.

By J. C. STARK.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Britain today partly excused without defending Soviet Russia's part in partition of Poland while new pleas were made in parliament for another try to gain Russian friendship for the British-French Allies.

Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax told the house of lords today Russia would never have occupied eastern Poland if Germany "had not started it and set the example."

As he spoke Prime Minister Chamberlain, addressing the house of commons, declared that Britain was ready for Germany's "fight to the finish."

Lord Halifax explained to the upper house that the Soviet action "has been to advance the Russian boundary recommended at the time of the Versailles Conference by Lord Curzon," the British foreign secretary who was a Versailles delegate.

However, he said he did not wish "to defend the action of the Soviet government at the particular time at which they took it."

This and the call by the Labor and Liberal opposition to seek again Soviet friendship came in spite of a Russian protest at the inclusion of foodstuffs in the British contraband list. In a note Russia reserved the right to claim compensation for any losses incurred in enforcement of British contraband regulations.

Chamberlain in his weekly report on the war said in reply to German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop's Danzig speech Tuesday that "the positive conclusion which we are to draw from it is that the German government have made the choice, which as I stated on October 12, lay before them."

The choice that Chamberlain offered then was that Germany give convincing proof of her sincerity and desire for peace by "definite acts" and "effective guarantees" or "we must persevere in our duty to the end."

"He (Von Ribbentrop) has announced their intention of seeing the struggle through with all their energy and strength," Chamberlain continued today.

"If that indeed is their decision

there can be but one reply and we are prepared to give it."

The Prime Minister drew a chuckle from Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky in the diplomatic gallery as he recalled the words of Von Ribbentrop, when he was ambassador to London three years ago, that the only real danger to Europe was the further spread of Communism.

He also drew laughter from the Soviet envoy when he accused Germany of inviting Russia to "join a crusade against the British empire."

He reviewed the war developments of the past week, saying that "it seems now to have become the rule for merchant ships to be sunk without warning" by German sea raiders, but that the destruction of "enemy submarines is being maintained at a sufficiently high rate to encourage us to believe that this menace to our trade will eventually be overcome."

Chamberlain confirmed that the German pocket battleship Deutschland sank the British freighter Stonegate, indicating the speedy Nazi warship was operating far outside the British blockade.

U. S. SHIP LANDS 31 U-BOAT VICTIMS

Crown City at Gibraltar With Survivors of British Ledbury.

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The American freighter Crown City today arrived here with the 31 crewmen of the British vessel Ledbury which was torpedoed 80 miles off Gibraltar Tuesday. The rescued British seamen said a German submarine sank their ship.

The 5,428-ton Crown City, owned by the United States Maritime Commission, put into Gibraltar especially to land Captain Norman Rice and his crew, rescued without a casualty.

(The 3,528-ton Ledbury was one of four British ships sunk Tuesday in the same vicinity, giving rise to the belief that an entire British convoy had been attacked. A cryptic admiralty statement in London said merely that they had been "fired upon."

(The other three sunken ships were the 4,413-ton Tafna, the 2,474-ton Menin Ridge and the 7,256-ton Clan Chisholm. Eighty-nine persons were reported dead or missing.)

COUNTY MANAGER PLAN IS STUDIED

Change Would Require Petition of Voters, Says Solicitor's Aide.

By FRANK DRAKE.

A general Georgia law under which residents of Fulton county could create a county manager-commission form of government by vote of the people will be considered today by the Fulton grand jury as it continues its investigation of county affairs.

W. C. Wardlaw Jr., foreman, said the jury will discuss this law as well as the plan of the commissioners to centralize government functions in an "executive secretary" with department heads taking a greater part in administration of county business.

Assistant Solicitor General Stephens called attention of the jurors to a law passed in 1922 whereby a petition of one-fifth of the voters can force the county ordinary to call an election on the county manager-commission form of government within 30 to 60 days.

If a majority of the voters favored the plan, the commissioners would be empowered to appoint a county manager for a two-year term at a salary within their discretion.

The manager would be the chief executive of the board of commissioners and could be discharged for cause by them.

It was said that the present county commissioners are acquainted with this law and have it under consideration as a possible future move.

Commissioners yesterday were emphatic in their assertions that Frank R. Fling, clerk of the commission, has not been selected for the position of county "manager" and Fling said that he is not a candidate for that position.

"I have been recently elected clerk for a six-year term and I have the duties of this position to perform," he said. "None of the commissioners has discussed with me anything about making me the administrative officer."

However, the commissioners said Wednesday, following a three-hour conference with the full grand jury in a special session, that they are tentatively planning to centralize power in an executive secretary and that in all probability Fling will assume these duties.

They said then that they have no authority to delegate their powers to a county manager and added that it would take a new act of the legislature to accomplish this.

Stephens told Wardlaw the 1922 law, affecting only counties of more than 10,000 population, is still in effect and is applicable to Fulton county.

In the meantime, the jurymen planned today to take up a report of the committee investigating relief when it completes routine business on indictments.

This committee has been particularly active in the last several weeks. Other committees have virtually completed investigations and are preparing reports for submission to the full jury next week.

U-BOAT WASHED UP ON SANDBANK OFF COAST OF BRITAIN

Salvage Vessels, Divers Dispatched to Scene; Sub Presumed Victim of Warship or Plane.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Salvage vessels and divers tonight were dispatched to Goodwin Sandbank in the North sea off Deal, where a wrecked German submarine was washed up on the sands during the day, its conning tower projecting above the water.

It was not indicated whether the British naval authorities believed that some of the crew might still be alive in the U-boat.

Goodwin sands extend along the English coast from Margate to Dover.

Fishermen of Deal said the U-boat, presumed to have been wrecked either by British warships or fighting planes, lay at the southwestern end of the sandbank.

Gunfire was heard Wednesday morning off Deal.

There are strong currents off Deal, remembered by swimmers of the English Channel, and it was believed that they had carried the submarine to the Goodwin sands.

Simultaneously, the air ministry announced that at least seven of 12 German planes were known to have failed to return to their bases after an unsuccessful attack on a British convoy in the North sea last Saturday.

The air ministry's communique describing the crippling of at least seven German planes in the attack said:

"It is now known that at least seven of the 12 German aircraft failed to return to their base after last Saturday's unsuccessful attack on the North sea. This has been established by the rescue of German airmen brought down in the fight. The German losses may yet prove to be even greater."

GARY THOMPSON, 20, VICTIM OF AMNESIA

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A youth who, County Physician W. H. Weems said, apparently was an amnesia victim, was brought here today from Belle Glade, where he was found this morning.

The youth, about 20, had in his wallet a social security card carrying the name Gary Thompson, of Atlanta. He is brown-haired and weighs 120 pounds.

Dr. Weems said the young man declared he did not know how he got to the Everglades.

The name Gary Thompson is not listed in the city directory, and the Atlanta police department had no record of a missing person of that name.

DANGEROUS CROSSINGS ARE STUDIED IN DEKALB

J. T. Marshall, of the Federal Bureau of Roads, and DeKalb County Commissioner Scott Candler today will study four county grade crossings in an effort to plan elimination of dangerous intersections.

The intersections under observation are the Georgia railroad crossing at Sam's Crossing in Decatur, the North Druid Hills road and Brookhaven intersection, and underpasses at Scott boulevard at Claremont and on Memorial drive and Covington road.

Commissioner Candler said yesterday plans have been considered for some time to eliminate the crossings, and the study today will be the beginning of definite action.

U. S. Lets Sisters Keep Mountain Cabin for Life

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 26.—(AP)—The five Walker sisters will not have to leave their picturesque mountain cabin in the Great Smoky mountains, despite the fact the government has filed a "declaration of taking" condemning their land for addition to the Great Smoky Mountains National park.

Park Superintendent J. Ross Eakin said today the Walker sisters would be permitted to stay in their 90-year-old log cabin for life if they wished, although title to their property will pass to the government.

The sisters—Hettie, Polly, Margaret, Martha and Louisa—live in traditional independence and have become somewhat of a tourist lure to hundreds of park visitors.

They raise their own crops, do their own plowing, shear the sheep, card and spin the wool into quaint homespun garments.

The government valued their 122.8 acres of mountain land at $4,428, which will be paid them unless they ask a jury of view to set a valuation.

'LOOK SOUTHWARD,' EDITOR URGES U. S.

Western Hemisphere Offers Way to Peace, Abernathy Declares.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MARIETTA, Ga., Oct. 26.—A plea that the United States turn its attention away from Europe and "look southward" was voiced today by Chas. Abernathy Jr., editor of the Cobb County Times.

Abernathy, who is president of the Cobb County Kiwanis Club, said this is the most certain way of keeping America out of war, he asserted.

"We have a new world to build among the 21 American nations, and it can't be built by Yankees alone," he said.

He advocated a western hemisphere bloc of the 21 powers "united on the basis of absolute equality of nations," as contrasted to the methods used by Hitler to "unify" Europe. The present inter-American treaties are not strong enough for effective unity, he said.

LATINISTS TO MEET AT AGNES SCOTT

Dr. Oldfather Will Discuss Growing Importance of Latin, Greek.

Dr. William Abbott Oldfather, head of the department of classics at the University of Illinois, will address a conference of Latin teachers at 8:30 o'clock tonight at Agnes Scott College. The two-day conference will attract educational leaders from Georgia and other southern states.

"The Increasing Importance of Latin and Greek for the Understanding of English" will be Dr. Oldfather's subject.

Professor W. A. Strozler, of Emory University, and Professor I. J. Gaines, of Savannah High School, will lead a discussion on "The Problems and Procedure in Latin Instruction" at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

Dr. Oldfather will speak again at luncheon tomorrow, given by the Agnes Scott Latin and Greek faculty.

MUNICIPAL PARLEY DRAWS ATLANTANS

Group To Meet Hartsfield Flying to Savannah.

Atlanta's official representation at the sixth annual convention of the Georgia Municipal Association meeting in Savannah will leave early this morning in time to greet Mayor Hartsfield as he arrives for the sessions by airplane from Washington.

The group will leave by automobile and will include Alderman Frank H. Reynolds and Councilmen E. A. Minor, William T. Knight, C. M. Bolen, J. Frank Beck and Frank Wilson. City Attorney Jack C. Savage will attend the sessions of the city attorneys. George T. Simons and Deputy City Clerk Charles Ford also will attend.

Mayor Richard E. Allen, of Augusta, is president of the organization, composed of 131 of the 307 cities of the state having a population exceeding 500 persons. Other officers are Robert M. Hinch, Savannah, first vice president; E. J. Bass, East Point, treasurer; and Zach Arnold, Fort Gaines, secretary.

Red Cross Begins Biggest Clothing Drive

The largest garment production program in the history of the American Red Cross has been launched as a result of urgent appeals for warm winter clothing for Polish war refugees, it was announced here yesterday.

The call for help reached national headquarters by cable from the Red Cross delegation now studying relief needs in the war zones, it was stated, and additional requests have been received both from the French and British Red Cross organizations.

Dr. Frank K. Boland, chairman of the Atlanta Red Cross chapter, pointed out that a volunteer production unit already is at work here on surgical dressings and supplies and that in addition many persons in Atlanta and vicinity are making garments for the relief of refugees.

CANADA DRY FIRM PLANS EXPANSION

Several Atlanta Concerns To Back Florida Company.

Canada Dry Bottling Company of Florida, Inc., recently incorporated under Florida law, announced plans yesterday for general expansion with several Atlanta concerns underwriting issuance of stock.

The company's capitalization consists of 80,000 shares of common stock, of which 12,000 will be purchased by the management, and 67,995 will be offered for public sale at $6. Underwriting the issue are Courts & Company, of Atlanta; J. H. Hilsman & Co., Inc., and the Equitable Company, of Atlanta; Childress & Company, of Jacksonville, and Leedy Wheeler & Company, of Orlando.

The company will hold exclusive franchise to bottle and distribute products of the parent company in Florida and in six counties in Georgia. Two new plants are planned.

YOUNG WOMAN KILLED IN MISHAP NEAR ROME

ROME, Ga., Oct. 26.—A 24-year-old beauty parlor employee was killed and her two companions hurt when their auto skidded on wet paving, overturned and plunged into a ditch on the Calhoun road near Rome today. The victims were: Miss Teta Sampson, who died of a basal skull fracture and other injuries; Titus Carden, driver of the car, and Miss Levele England. Carden was seriously injured, and Miss England was dismissed from a local hospital after first aid treatment.

Surviving Miss Sampson are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Sampson, of Adairsville, Route 1; four sisters, Misses Idell, Faye and Iva

Wedding Cake Favors Foretell Various and Sundry Fortunes

By Sally Forth.

A FEATURE of the reception following the wedding of Bebe Young and "Tony" Deas on Wednesday evening was the cutting of favors in the wedding cake by the bride and groom's attendants. Buried in Erwin's slice of cake was the silver slipper bearing an ominous warning, "Watch your step!" Sarah Lewis, already one of Atlanta's most popular belles, was assured of further good times when she cut the miniature silver watch in the flower-decked wedding cake. Groomsman Elmore Thrash was doomed to eternal bachelorhood when he cut the thimble. The bride's sister, attractive Kathryn Young, found in her slice of cake a compliment in the form of a tiny cannon, bearing the inscription, "You are a square shooter!"

Betty Young, Bebe's cousin from New York, resolved to learn to cook when she cut the shiny silver frypan bearing the old adage, "The way to a man's heart..." "A hint to the wise is sufficient," says Betty. Bridemaid Medora Fitten may safely anticipate good luck throughout her life, for she found a silver horseshoe in her slice of wedding cake.

Hilarity reigned when Emmakate Vretman cut the tiny silver lump of sugar. This means, in case you don't know, that the pretty belle will be as sweet as sugar to a handsome bachelor, who will dominate her future. Eleanor Deas, sister of the groom, cut the coveted key to happiness, and Nancy Moody found a gleaming miniature pipe in her portion of cake, signifying that all her dreams will come true.

Appropos of their state of wedded bliss, Bebe and "Tony" cut the wedding ring!

MR. AND MRS. FELIX DE GOLIARD and their popular daughter, Martha, have as charming visitors Mrs. William Dufour, of New Orleans, La., and her granddaughter, Helen Dufour Rathbone, of Austin, Texas.

Helen, a petite and vivacious brunette, has a wide circle of friends in this city, having visited Martha here last summer before she and her grandmother sailed for Europe. The congenial pair reached foreign shores in time to spend only three days shopping in Paris, it seems, before war necessitated their retreat to Tours, France. Unforgettable among their memories are the three nights spent in air-raid shelters there, where their American nonchalance served as a calming factor to hysterical Frenchwomen.

To soothe her granddaughter's disappointment over evacuating Paris, Mrs. Dufour, one of New Orleans' most attractive matrons, presented the former a luxurious silver fox cape. The beautiful wrap will complete Helen's costume when she attends the brilliant Halloween ball on Tuesday evening at the Driving Club.

An anticipated high light of the winter for the lovely Texas visitor will be her participation as a maid at New Orleans' annual Mardi Gras after Christmas, at which time she will be the guest of her devoted grandmother.

TRINITY Methodist church was the scene of an impressive double ceremony at 5 o'clock Sunday when Mary Denie Moss, the three-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Moss, was christened, and the baby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Moss, were baptized and received into the church membership.

The young parents and the baby stood before the altar surrounded by H. M. Speer, great-grandfather; Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Wiley, maternal grandparents; Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Moss, paternal grandparents, with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Mayo, of Social Circle, uncle and aunt of the baby, as godmother and father.

The baby bears the name of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Walter H. Wiley, the former Miss Mary Denie Speer. The infant's mother is the former Miss Jane Wiley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Wiley, of Atlanta.

The christening robe was of the sheerest batiste, lace trimmed in baby pink. The coat and bonnet were of a matching shade, the entire outfit being a gift to the baby from a close relative.

Rev. Paul A. Turner, pastor of Trinity church, was the officiating minister.

The fact that four generations were represented at the altar added interest to the occasion, with H. M. Speer, great-grandfather; Mrs. Walter H. Wiley, maternal grandmother; Mrs. Ben Moss, mother, and the baby, little Mary Denie Moss, making up this group.

Following the ceremony a buffet supper was served the family and close relatives by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wiley at their home on Cleburne terrace, N. E.

"IF YOU don't like beautiful girls don't attend the fourth annual Sigma Chi derby for sorority pledges to be held at the Sigma Chi house on Hill street in Athens Saturday at 2:30 o'clock."

The above is the warning issued by the fraternity announcing its annual "Derby Day," which is one of the most anticipated campus events of the season. The program further states, "Meet the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi and see the Modern Venus, the contestants to be university sorority pledges for the year 1939-1940."

Participants will compete for prizes to be awarded the lightest pledge, the shortest pledge and winners in the sack race, steeplechase, three-legged race, rolling-pin throwing contest, egg and spoon relay, potato race. And, of course, the presentation of prizes to students winning the coveted titles of "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" and "Modern Venus" will be a high light of the afternoon. The sorority with the greatest number of points to its credit will be awarded the grand trophy.

Adhering to fraternity regulations for contestants in this annual event, pledges will wear simple athletic uniforms, the colors of which will vary for each sorority. Each participant will be recognized by the placard she will wear bearing her sorority's name in Greek letter initials.

Mrs. Mary Scott Russell Re-Elected President of Georgia W. C. T. U.

ALBANY, Ga., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Scott Russell, of Atlanta, was re-elected president by the W. C. T. U. of Georgia, which closed its annual convention here tonight on a plea for Christian crusading.

Other officers re-elected were Mrs. Robert L. Miller, Waynesboro, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert Travelate, Moultrie, recording secretary, and Mrs. Wilbur Brown, Griffin, treasurer.

Mrs. Peter Manning, of Atlanta, was elected vice president to succeed Mrs. Robert McDougall, of Atlanta, who asked to be relieved of her duties to serve elsewhere in the organization.

The organization pledged anew to unceasing warfare against the liquor traffic. "Three attitudes are possible," said the Rev. Marvin Green, of Flovilla, "selfishness, defeatism Hayride and Dance.

Boys' High Military Officers' Club and their escorts were honored last evening at a hayride and dance.

Officers are Captain Charles Cruze, president; Captain Bob Bishop, vice president; Captain Warren Simonds, secretary, and Colonel Rupert Kelley, treasurer. Miss Charlotte Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Carl Hill, will become the bride of Wallace Reeves, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Reeves, today at noon, the ceremony to be solemnized at the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church. Dr. Ryland Knight will perform the ceremony, and the couple will be unattended.

The bride will wear a Burgundy-colored crepe dress fashioned on princess lines, and featuring a sash and collar and cuffs of Irish lace. She will carry a Belgian lace handkerchief, loaned by Mrs. Omar Lamb, of Hogansville, and her hat will be of Burgundy velvet. Her flowers will be a shoulder cluster of bronze orchids. The church will be beautified with fall flowers in shades of yellow.

After a brief wedding trip, the couple will reside in Dallas, Texas, where Mr. Reeves is connected with Western Newspaper Union.

Epworth League.

Toilet Water, Dusting Powder Match Regal Fragrance of Perfume

After-Bath Items Assure Lasting Daintiness

By Lillian Mae.

A delightful fragrance is a stimulation to any woman, and it is grand to be able to match her perfume in her after-bath items. Told you on a previous occasion about a very regal perfume, and your response was such that I have every reason to believe that you will receive equally as enthusiastically, the news that now you may have both toilet water and dusting powder in the same delightful fragrance.

The odor is truly distinctive and distinguished, a blend that appeals to the most cultured aristocrats and has a charm that lasts and lasts. Suggesting important occasions, it is the smartest complement to exquisite formal attire. Both the toilet water and dusting powder may be used lavishly, for such luxurious after-bath toiletries enhance the daintiness of the wearer and assure the perfection of grooming that lifts the fastidious individual to a gay, exciting mood.

The box of the toilet water is suggestive of the Royal Standard in its regal colors used in the four squares inscribed in gold. The rounded cap of the bottle gleams like burnished copper.

The dusting powder box is ivory-toned, with golden scrolls, and on the cover is a lacquered honey bee. Doesn't that sound attractive? Wouldn't it look well on your dressing table or bath shelf?

These items are most suitable for gifts, and they are not too expensive for that or for your own use. If you'll phone me, I'll give you the names and tell you where you may purchase them. If you do not live in the city, write me, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Toilet water and dusting powder enhance the daintiness of the wearer, and, like all women, lovely Florence Rice likes luxurious after-bath toiletries. Miss Rice is currently featured in "Marx Brothers at the Circus," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production.

Woman's Quiz

Q. I am an American-born woman whose parents and grandparents were also born in the United States. In 1919 I married an Englishman who became naturalized in 1923. Recently I was told that I am not a citizen of this country and that I will have to apply for naturalization papers to regain my lost citizenship. My husband thinks I became a citizen when he was naturalized. Which is correct?

A. You lost your citizenship when you married an alien and did not regain it when he became naturalized in 1923. It will be necessary for you to apply for final papers.

Q. How can French dressing stains be removed from table linen?

A. Sponge the spot with cool water to flush out the vinegar; let the material dry, then use carbon tetrachloride to eliminate the grease.

For Today's Housewife

By Lillian Mae.

Gene is the day when being "about the house" meant wearing just any old thing. Today's model housewife looks neat and attractive the clock round. An easy achievement with a style as simple-to-sew as Lillian Mae's Pattern 4211! The double-breasted buttoning with its scalloped edges is especially flattering. Make a simple pointed collar or have a longer, crossed-over style, and use crisp contrast if you like. The yoke and back are in one piece, with soft gathers below. If your fabric is checked or plaid, the center skirt panel will look smart on the bias. And the sleeves may be short and band-finished, flared or long.

Pattern 4211 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4-3/8 yards 35-inch fabric and 2 yards ruffling.

For Good Teeth, Diet Includes These Foods

By Dr. William Brady.

Foods comparatively high in calcium content and therefore desirable in the diet for good teeth: Milk, cheese, peas, string beans, dried beans, cabbage, preferably raw (cole slaw), lettuce, carrots, preferably raw, plain wheat, tomatoes or tomato juice, fresh or canned; oranges or orange juice, fresh or canned; nuts, peanuts, egg yolk, beets, celery, spinach, turnips, preferably raw; dates, all greens (leafy vegetables, cooked or raw).

Incidentally one gets more calcium (lime) from a glass of milk than there is in an equal quantity of lime water.

Probably a quart of milk a day furnishes 15 grains of calcium, nearly or quite sufficient to supply the daily requirements of the adult; at least half as much more is necessary to supply the greater requirements (due to growth) of the young child.

While a liberal amount and variety of these high calcium foods should be included in every diet, one should remember that calcium is no more nor less important in building sound teeth than it is in building straight, strong bones, healthy, steady nerves and firm, resilient muscle.

Foods comparatively high in phosphorus and desirable in the diet for good teeth:

The high calcium foods are all more or less rich in phosphorus also, but plain wheat deserves greater emphasis as a source of phosphorus, as well as various products made from it. Even refined white flour, after a fair amount of phosphorus. In reference to wheat or other cereal in the child's diet, it is well to remember the Mellanby's well-established observation, that some factor present in cereals interferes with the utilization of calcium in the body, so that additional rations of vitamin D must be provided to counter-balance this effect of "toxamin" when cereals constitute a considerable part of the diet—vitamin D being always essential for the normal assimilation, utilization and retention of calcium from food.

To the foods mentioned as high in calcium, add, as important sources of phosphorus, lean meat and potatoes—both poor in calcium but rich in phosphorus. The assimilation, utilization and retention of phosphorus in blood, soft tissues, bones and teeth is regulated or controlled by vitamin D too, so that the calcium-phosphorus balance in the body is automatically adjusted and need give one no concern as long as the diet provides a fair variety of the high calcium, high phosphorus foods, such as milk, eggs, cheese, meat, potatoes, greens, wheat.

Bridge Beginners Must Know So-Called Rules of Ethics

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Lesson No. 3 today, in this special course of instruction designed especially to aid contract enthusiasts of juvenile age, has to do with some of the proprieties and so-called rules of ethics which govern our department at the bridge table.

When we are invited by friends to enter a sociable game of bridge, let us remember to avoid looking at the bottom card when dealing. Let us be careful about tilting the cards upwards when dealing or otherwise some of them will be seen by the other players.

When it is our turn to bid let us bid simply, without explaining why we bid such and such a suit because it may convey improper information to partner. Avoid giving by word, manner or gesture any indication of the nature of the bid. If we are to pass, let us say "pass," not "bye."

Do not indicate in any way approval or disapproval of partner's bid or double and do not bid with special emphasis, pass or double with reluctance or with exceptional haste. Any of these improprieties are very apt to convey information, not only to partner, but to opponents as well.

Do not call attention to the score when your bid is sufficient to close a game.

If you should be invited to watch a game of bridge being played by others, refrain from making any remarks about the bidding or play, and you should not call attention to any irregularities or mistakes, or speak on any question, except when requested to give an opinion.

Avoid playing out of turn. Do not play cards or discard with special emphasis or do not play with undue delay when the play does not need consideration. Avoid detaching a card from your hand before it is your turn to play it.

Learn to lose gracefully at bridge and do not gloat over your winning or plays you consider excellent.

Works Antidote For Wife Living In Dream World

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Ten years ago I persuaded a girl to marry me in spite of the fact that I knew she didn't love me. The man she loved had married another girl. I was sure I could win her love and we would be happy. Fate played me a queer trick: This man worked for a nationally known firm with offices all over the country and when he married he was moved clear across the continent. One day recently I picked up the paper and read that he had been transferred to our town as manager of his firm's local office. He came, moved into our block and my wife has not been the same to me since. I don't mean to imply that there is anything between them. There isn't. My wife is a fine woman and this man is happily married, but the old love she had for him has never died and although we have not discussed the matter I know it stands like a barrier between us. What is the decent thing for me to do?

S. H.

Answer: In ten years you and your wife should have established some sort of basis of understanding over and above romantic consideration. Then I don't see why the two of you should not talk the thing out as a couple of adults, you pointing out to her that this man's happy marriage has closed that door forever in her face and that she should be good sport enough to leave the door shut and celebrate her tenth wedding anniversary by putting this childish business behind her.

A woman can be an awful fool about her first love. She builds up all sorts of fantasies concerning the man and herself and she wallows in the hypnotic spell these fantasies cast over her. First of all, she believes that the man who has loved her once will love her to the grave—even if he jilted her and married another girl, she can explain that by some devious reasoning. To end with, she believes that had she married him the rest of life would have been as perfect as the short and sweetest part of the early romance.

But here are cold facts: love fever, as every other sort, cool in time, and ten years is time enough to cool the hottest fever. Then the patient has her choice: spending her life grieving over something that isn't, or going on to build up something substantial and worth while in its place.

So, friend, I should say some good straight-from-the-shoulder talk from you to your wife would heighten your self-respect and set her to thinking what a fool she is making of herself and you. Incidentally some hard work would be of great benefit to her—if you are man enough to turn on the heat and force her to get busy.

Reducing Is No Mystery—It's Simple Mathematics

By Ida Jean Kain.

Reducing is not a mystery. It's mathematics. Suppose you want to lose a pound a week. To do that all you do is subtract 500 calories from your daily requirement. To lose two pounds per week, subtract twice that many, 1,000 calories.

To begin with, you must know how many calories you require, but that is easy to figure. You multiply your normal weight (not what you weigh now) by an actively integer. If you are the average person and take light exercise, this will be 16. Most housewives would use 16.

Now, let's take it step by step. We'll say you should weigh 130 pounds. To find your maintenance number of calories, multiply 130 by 16 and the answer is 2,080. That is the number you actually require.

But maybe you weigh 150 pounds, or even 160. Then you weigh from 20 to 30 pounds too many. To reduce, you must take fewer calories than you require. The balanced menus, in which all your arithmetic has been done for you, range from 1,000 to 1,400 calories per day, with 1,200 the average.

If you are normally entitled to 2,080 calories per day, on a 1,200-calorie diet you would draw on your stored fat every day for 880 calories—about 6,160 per week. Since it takes 4,000 calories to make a pound of body fat, you could lose a little more than one and one-half pounds per week on the average of 1,200 calorie diet. You would lose 30 pounds in four to five months.

On a 1,000-calorie diet you would, of course, lose faster. You would then be drawing on stored fat for 1,080 calories per day, which would amount to one and three-fourths pounds in a week. You should be down to normal weight in less than four months on that diet.

But you are going to take special exercise for improved muscle tone and lovelier measurements and it will burn additional calories, which will speed up your reducing. Your exercise program

MY DAY Law Setup Today Banishes Hysteria

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

MUNCIE, Ind.—I spent from 1:45 until 4:30 at the Herald-Tribune Forum in New York city yesterday afternoon. The keynote speech was given by Dr. Conant of Harvard, and then there were a great many able, clever speakers, all pointing up the central theme, "The Challenge to Our Democracy." The speech which seemed to me the most sane and sensible for this particular period was made by Mr. John Lord O'Brien. He stressed the fact that in the World War there had been much hysteria and that in many ways we had found ourselves unprepared to meet the demands of the war situation, but stated that at present our laws and our administrative setups were quite capable of meeting our present situation. He felt we needed to remain calm and go about our daily business unafraid.

I was sorry to have to leave without hearing the concluding speakers, particularly Mrs. William Brown Meloney, but I was taking an evening train and had a guest waiting for me at the apartment, so I dashed back there and spent the next three hours very pleasantly before getting started on my lecture trip at 8 p. m.

Miss Thompson and I slept late this morning. When there is no real reason for rising early, it always gives me a rather luxurious feeling to be late for breakfast.

Rain greeted us in Muncie, Ind. I am afraid I shall not see a great deal of this city, which was made famous as the original "Middletown," a book very widely read and which everyone with an interest in average American life must have found an interesting study.

After a short press conference we started on our mail and the necessary unpacking for the evening. Shortly, Mr. Sterling, of the NYA, appeared to show me some photographs and to tell me something of their work in this area. The NYA boys have done a great deal of construction work. The girls are doing largely clerical work in schools and libraries. They have a great many more boys than girls on their projects. NYA seems to have done a good job of interesting the communities in their youth, which is, after all, one of the best things that can come out of this work.

When we went down to luncheon, Mr. E. Connor, a regional supervisor on WPA, greeted me. While Miss Thompson and I ate our lunch, he brought four other WPA officials to sit around our table and talk to us. They have not yet started on their new program of workers' education, which I talked over with Miss Kerr, Miss Hilda Smith and various other interested people, before I left Washington. I hope before long, however, a real workers' service program will be under way. Adult education has suffered greatly from the 18 months' cut, but I gather that everyone concerned is proud of the projects as a whole and the way they have been run in this state.

Actors Make Bad Husbands, Is Oomp Girl's Opinion

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26.—Carole Lombard went to the Selznick studio to see the assembled script of "Gone With the Wind." But they fooled her, by flashing on the screen Clark Gable's first screen test—in which he wore a Roman toga, a rose in his mouth, and a wreath around his head. Carole did her part in the gag, by saying seriously to David O. Selznick:—"It's just the way I imagined Rhett Butler."

Ann Sheridan says that actors make the worst husbands. She doesn't think much of motion picture executives either, of whom she says:—"They have too many demands on their time to be good husbands." So this would seem to wash out Anatole Litvak, who, I suspect anyway, was a figment of the press agent department.

Says Marlene Dietrich—"I was getting $250,000 a picture—now I'm getting $50,000. And I'm $200,000 happier." I wouldn't be at all surprised. . . . Says David Niven same exercise program, you can lose one and three-fourths pounds per week. Your diet should never be lower than 1,000 calories per day unless under the constant supervision of your physician.

Filemites-in-Radio Notes: . . . Nelson Eddy's withdrawal from his recent air program effected a saving of $4,500 for his sponsor. Nelson received $5,000 weekly. His singing successor gets $500. Which was one of the reasons behind the switch. Radio is having its own economy wave. . . . Big Crosby is the highest-paid of the movie stars—he gets $7,000 a week. . . . Cecil B. DeMille receives $5,000 a week for his radio M. C. job. . . . Tyrone Power recently asked $5,000 for one broadcast. He was offered $3,000. And he is currently effecting a compromise. . . . Bette Davis wants to do a radio show, but, according to the terms of her contract with Warners, she has to get their permission first. Bette and her bosses are not on good terms right now. And the answer is "No." . . . Ronald Colman is the most popular of Hollywood actors for a solo broadcast, but his price of $5,000 makes his income tax too high—so he refuses most of the offers. He is afraid that, if he lowered it, they would say he was slipping! . . . Norma Shearer and Joan Crawford are the most difficult of screen ladies to broadcast. But Norma is difficult in a lady-like way (if you know what I mean). Joan usually rips her script to pieces.

Emily Post's nephew, Rex Post, is acting in "The Fighting 69th." "We now know," says Frank McHugh, "how to use a bayonet with the right etiquette." . . . Shirley Temple did such a good job of her meanie scenes in "The Bluebird" that she was hissed by everyone on the set. Shirley shrieked—but with delight. She says she is tired of ingenu roles. She wants to play character parts. . . . Charles Laughton is not exactly popular with studio executives. To one of them—in the press department—he recently said—"If you ask me any more silly questions, I'll want to kick you." Which is not the way to win friends and influence publicity in Hollywood.

Overheard on the lot. . . . David Selznick to Joan Fontaine—"I don't like the way you carry your legs." For heaven's sake, what does he want her to do with them?

Bob Hope, after seeing a picture in which one of our frozen-faced glamor boys merely utters crisp sentences, said—"He should have stayed home and phoned in his part."

Flowers Drive Away Drabness Of Late Winter

Glorious bloom in your house from autumn to spring!

And easy to have if you plan now, select right plants for each season, know how to keep them thriving.

Lovely for Thanksgiving Day decoration is the gay chrysanthemum with its nodding buttons of white, lavender or yellow. To have a wealth of bloom for several weeks, keep the plant cool, water it sparingly.

Other late beauties for your windows? Choose the friendly geranium, wax begonia, crown of thorns.

For Christmas cheer there's the handsome kalanchoe, with tiny pink or red blossoms. Easily grown it likes best a temperature of from 50 to 60 degrees. Then, too, there's the gorgeous poinsettia, Christmas cactus, the splendid cyclamen.

And to drive away the drabness of late winter, what lovelier than the starry amaryllis, with white, pink or red blossoms?

Or set a brilliant flamingo flower or showy beefsteak begonia against a background of trailing vines, luxuriant foliage. Complete directions for growing these favorites, other flowering and foliage plants, bulbs, ferns and vines are given in our 40-page booklet, Success With House Plants and Flowers. Also tells how to make fascinating glass and dish gardens. How to keep plants healthy under all conditions.

Send 15c in coins for our booklet, SUCCESS WITH HOUSE PLANTS AND FLOWERS, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of your booklet.

Chic Sports Outfit

By Barbara Bell.

Blithe as the skater's waltz, and young as youth itself, this sports outfit, including the bewitching little hood, will swirl and swing itself right into the hearts of the junior crowd! If you're young and active, there are no two ways about it—you simply must have 1673-B, whether you roller-skate at all! There are two ways to make the skirt—street length and skating length, so that the pattern is practical and adaptable.

It's easy to tailor, too, including a step-by-step sew chart that explains everything. Heavy tweed, flannel and suede-cloth, are smart materials for this. It will be especially fetching in wool plaid with dark velvet.

Hosts will be Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Dobbs Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Goodloe Yancey, whose handsome estates at the mountain adjoin. The hosts will each entertain house guests for the week end, the entire party to motor to the estates after the football game tomorrow. Enconced at the Dobbs home will be Miss Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Edmondson Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harris Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. George Sheffield, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Di Christina, Lewis Dean, Madison Massey, M. S. Woodward, Mrs. R. H. Dobbs Sr., of West Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Yancey will have as their guests Dr. and Mrs. Ed Wright, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Toll, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rumph and Miss Marion Dean.

Delta Kappa Dance.

The Delta Kappa fraternity of the Georgia Evening College will open its fall social season with a tea dance Saturday from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel.

Officers of the fraternity are Clifton Darby, governor; Otis Childs, lieutenant governor; Arthur French, secretary; Stanley Bowden, treasurer; Edgar Kilpatrick, master of rituals; and Howard Allison, master of festivities.

The faculty and the other organizations of the Evening College have been invited.

Atlanta Socialites Dine With Prominent New Yorkers

Esmond Brady and Mrs. E. Allison Thornwell, of Atlanta, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Sudduth III at the gala opening of the Corinthian room of the Hotel Pierre in New York city. Mrs. Thornwell accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Robinson, to the metropolis for a three-week visit. Mr. Brady and Mr. and Mrs. Sudduth became acquainted on a recent world-wide cruise which covered more than a five-month period.

Crusaders To Give Annual Masque Ball.

Crusaders' annual masque ball will be given tomorrow evening at 9 o'clock on the roof garden and deck of the Atlantan hotel. Proceeds will go to charity and the public is invited.

Prizes will be awarded for the best Halloween costumes as selected by the judges, James Thompson, Dr. R. F. Thomas and J. C. Tribble.

Entertainment committee consists of William McMillan, Miss Mae Bray, Mrs. William Presley, Miss Juanita Clarke, Mrs. Jewell Henry, Mrs. Margaret Owen and Mrs. B. P. Rawlins.

Out-of-town guests include Mr. and Mrs. George C. Bougas, Dr. Pedro D'Abalado and Miss Enid Clement, of Washington, D. C.; Misses Dahlia, Grecia and Carmen Angulo, recently of Havana, Cuba; Miss Frances Clegg, of Monroe, and Francis Smith Jr., of Sea Island Beach. For further information, phone Mrs. Ethel McMillan at Walnut 7970.

Steak Fry Held.

Epsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi entertained recently at a steak fry at North Fulton park. The entertainment was centered around Halloween games, and was in charge of Elizabeth Swinford, social chairman.

Miss Caroline Massell To Wed Mr. Selig at Standard Club Rites

Listed among the important and interesting weddings of the fall season will be that of Miss Caroline Massell and Simon Selig Jr., whose engagement was recently announced. The marriage takes place on November 14 at the Standard Club, and complete details and plans are announced today.

Rabbi David Marx will perform the ceremony at 7 o'clock in the presence of a throng of friends of the popular young couple. Miss Massell will be given in marriage by her father, Ben Massell, and her brother, Ben Massell Jr., will be best man for Mr. Selig.

Miss Harriett Weinberg will be maid of honor, and Mrs. Lyons B. Joel II will be the matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Misses Betty Newald, of Milwaukee, Wis.; Polly Lou Rich, Estelle Ehrenwald, of Nashville, Tenn., and Mrs. Lewis Shapiro, of Washington, D. C. Little Lyons B. Joel III will be the ring-bearer.

Acting as ushers will be Richard Printz, Randolph Cummings, Julian Joselove, Lee Rosenberg Jr., Albert Selig and Joe May, while the groomsmen will be Lyons B. Joel II, Marcus Haas, Herbert Rosenberg Jr., Duke Marlowe, of Birmingham, Ala., and Bernard Nussbaum.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Massell will entertain at a dinner party at the club in honor of their daughter and Mr. Selig. The bridal pair will spend their honeymoon in the Hawaiian Islands.

Prior to their marriage Miss Massell and Mr. Selig will be honored at a series of social events. On Saturday evening Misses Elizabeth and Amelia Dittler give a buffet supper and on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rivison will honor the couple at an aperitif party.

On November 5 Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sherman and Mr. and Mrs. Abe Schwartz give a breakfast for Miss Massell and Mr. Selig and on November 9, Dr. and Mrs. J. Kelvin Bleich have planned a dinner party. On November 10 Miss Massell will be honored at two parties, the first being the luncheon to be given by Mrs. Sam Mohr and a spinster dinner in the evening with Mrs. Lyons B. Joel II as the hostess.

On November 11 Mrs. B. F. May gives a breakfast for Miss Massell, and in the evening of the same day Mr. and Mrs. Julius Simon and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Selig will give a dinner party at the Rainbow Roof, Ansley hotel, for Miss Massell and her fiancé.

Miss Marie Rice will be hostess at a spinster breakfast on November 12 for Miss Massell and in the afternoon of the same day Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Rosenberg will entertain at an appetizer party for the betrothed pair. In the evening Miss Harriett Weinberg entertains at a dinner.

After the rehearsal on November 13 Mr. and Mrs. Simon Selig, parents of the groom-elect, will entertain at a dinner at their home on Springdale road.

Among those who have entertained for Miss Massell and Mr. Selig are Herbert Rosenberg Jr., Marcus Haas, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Klausman, Misses Dorothy Sherman, Jean Wolfe, Pat Goldberg and others.

Miss Litton's Party.

Miss Camille Litton will be hostess Saturday evening at a Halloween dance in the recreation room of her home on Brookridge drive from 9 to 12 o'clock. The Halloween motif will be carried out in the decorations.

Ribbons were won by the following: Miss Ludie Breeleov, blue; Mrs. C. S. Burgess, red; Mrs. James J. Wallace, white.

Complete Master of Her Fate

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS.

MISS LILLIAN KLEIN.

Thurston Hatcher Photo.

The hand of Lillian Klein, attractive debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Klein, shows her to be a most versatile person. This is shown by the type fingers and the flexible thumb.

It is the hand of one intuitive, impressionable and sensitive. It tells that its possessor is a lover of the beautiful in all forms, one who has a deep, sincere love for all fine things.

The hand shows a strong line of head, which will make her complete master of her fate. She will make her own decisions and stick to them. She will always be equal to any circumstances that may arise.

The heart line shows that she is responsive, warm hearted, generous and impulsive. An enviable combination indeed. Needless to say, she will be one of the season's most popular debutantes. She possesses an engaging and charming personality, which has won her countless friends.

The hand contains the rare and unusual line of intuition, and she will be right provided she follows her first impressions of both people and things.

A glance at Lillian's marriage line indicates that she will marry quite young—a brilliant professional man who will make his mark in the world.

On Monday Mrs. Jennings will analyze the hand of another Atlanta debutante exclusively for The Constitution.

For Miss Woolford And Waldo Jones.

Miss Elissa Woolford and Waldo Jones, whose marriage will be an important social event of tomorrow, were honored yesterday at two social affairs, the first being the tea given by Mr. and Mrs. John M. Slaton Jr., at their home on Peachtree road.

In the dining room the table was covered with a handsome embroidered cloth and was centered with a silver bowl filled with pink roses. Silver candlesticks held pink burning tapers and were placed at either side of the centerpiece. Throughout the home quantities of yellow and white chrysanthemums were used as the decorations.

Invited were only members of the Woolford-Jones wedding party and the families. Mrs. Slaton received her guests wearing burgundy red crepe and a shoulder corsage of gardenias. Miss Woolford was crowned in a black velvet afternoon dress and her flowers were sweetheart roses.

Last evening the betrothed pair were central figures at the buffet supper given by Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Alexander at their home on Peachtree road. Invited were 60 members of society, including the wedding party and two families.

Miss Woolford and her bridesmaids were complimented earlier Thursday at a breakfast at which Mrs. Harry Gunnin was hostess.

Franklin-Montgomery Plans Announced.

The plans for the marriage of Miss Dorothy Ethel Franklin, of Adairsville, and George Floyd Montgomery Jr., of Marietta, are of cordial interest. The wedding will be an event of Saturday evening, November 11, at the First Baptist church at Adairsville.

Miss Laura McLarty, of Dalton, will be maid of honor, and Miss Dolores McCutcheon, of Adairsville, will be bridesmaid. Little Misses Sue Franklin, of Adairsville, and Martha Mayes, of Marietta, will be flower girls.

Mrs. A. V. Cortelyou, of Marietta, will sing. Wallace Montgomery, of Marietta, will be his brother's best man. Groomsmen will be Jack Mayes, Fitzgerald, Be Johnson, Savannah, and Ed Jones, Macon.

A reception following the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Franklin.

Rose Society To Meet.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Georgia Rose Society will be held at 11 o'clock today at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock, with 60 reservations having been made, including many from out of town. Further reservations may be made with Mrs. Thomas Howell Scott, Cherokee 1235.

Atlanta members are requested to attend and exhibit specimen blooms of their fall roses.

Miss Mary McHan Weds Frank Kaye Sr.

Announcement is made today of the marriage of Miss Mary E. McHan, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. McHan, of Atlanta, to Frank Kaye Sr. on Saturday, October 14.

The bride is a native Atlantan and is the sister of Mrs. William Wesley Causey, Horace McHan and Lee McHan.

Mr. Kaye is formerly of Meridian, Miss. He moved to Atlanta, where he was connected with the Kaye Ice and Coal Company until he retired a few years ago. Mr. Kaye is the father of Frank Kaye Jr. and Nell Kaye, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Kaye will make their home in Atlanta after spending the winter in Florida.

Callahan-Moss Plans Announced.

Miss Bertha Nell Callahan and Gordon Thomas Moss will marry in the chapel of Fort McPherson at 5:30 o'clock on Friday, November 17.

Rev. Father McGuire, of Marist College, the chaplain of the fort, will perform the ceremony. Music will be presented by Miss Nell Jentzen, organist, and Mesdames E. C. Brisbane and Arthur Handley.

The bride-elect will be given in marriage by her father, Louis Eugene Callahan, and she has chosen as her maid of honor her sister, Miss Mary Jean Callahan.

Bridesmaids will be Misses Ann Eyrich and Charlotte Downing. Mr. Moss has selected William Lehi, of Waynesville, N. C., as best man. The ushers are to be Howard Weisner, of Spartanburg, S. C., and Robert C. Downing.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eugene Callahan, parents of the bride-elect, will entertain at a reception for the wedding party and immediate families at their home on Van Buren street.

Mrs. L. G. Callahan, grandmother of the bride-elect, will be hostess to the wedding party following the rehearsal on November 16.

Miss Callahan and Mr. Moss will share honors at a dance Friday evening at which Mesdames Raymond Downing and Arthur Handley will be hostesses at the Warrant Officers' Club at Fort McPherson.

Mrs. Theresa Klein has chosen November 4 as the date for her linen shower for the bride-elect, at her home on Gordon street. Miss Anne Eyrich will entertain at a lingerie shower, the date to be announced later.

Tech Looks Good in Long Practice Against 'Auburn' Passes

All in the Game
—by Jack Troy

Last year Duke was the only major unscored-on team in the nation. The Iron Dukes finally yielded only one touchdown, but they didn't do it in 1938.

It was in the closing minute of the Rose Bowl game on January 1, 1939, in Pasadena's Rose Bowl, when Doyle Nave hit Al Kreuger with a touchdown pass in the end zone.

This year the south again has the only major unscored-on team. And it may stay unscored on from now on. The team is Tennessee.

Before last Saturday's game, the list included Tennessee, Carnegie Tech, Ohio State, Pennsylvania and Harvard. On Saturday, Alabama was blanked, 21-0, by Tennessee.

Carnegie Tech's proud record was ruined. Duquesne not only scored but defeated the Techs. Minnesota scored 20 points on Ohio State. Penn defeated Harvard handily, but the Crimson scored seven points.

So only Tennessee is left. And who is to score on the mighty Vols now? Mercer, Louisiana State, The Citadel, Vanderbilt, Kentucky and Auburn remain as opponents.

Well, L. S. U. was the only one in this list that scored at all on Tennessee last year. The Tigers got one touchdown. Ken Kavanaugh made one of the season's greatest catches, racing into the end zone and almost knocking down a fence to take a pass.

L. S. U. may be the one to besmirch Tennessee's unscored-on record. But none of the teams seems strong enough to do anything about the unbeaten and untied part of it.

It would be an unusual thing, however, if Tennessee should get by without yielding a point and follow Duke into the Rose Bowl against Southern Cal.

And it would be different for Southern Cal in the respect that Duke, with an iron defense, was not much of an offensive team, while Tennessee has both a tough defense and a tricky, scoring offense.

RANKINGS NEVER AGREE.

It was Tom Meany, I think, who said that a football expert simply is a baseball writer with a vest on. And that sounds pretty logical if one will pick, at random, four rating tables and see in what complete disagreement as to top teams the experts always are.

I have at hand four rating tables. One picks Tennessee, another picks Michigan, a third takes Ohio State and a fourth selects Notre Dame.

The one that takes Notre Dame places Tennessee 19th, behind a flock of beaten teams. The one that likes Michigan ranks Tennessee seventh and the one that picks Ohio State places Tennessee third.

Except in the rating table that picked Notre Dame, Michigan ranks in the first five. In this one, Michigan is placed eleventh. Ohio State generally is ranked high, but Notre Dame runs anywhere from 1st to 18th place.

Rating tables are curious things. All of the rating experts seemingly operate under entirely different systems.

TECH, AUBURN STARS READY TO ROMP AGAINST EACH OTHER

Here are a couple of backs who will be seen in action when Georgia Tech and Auburn meet Saturday at Grant field. On the left is Howard Ector, veteran fullback for the Yellow Jackets, while on the right is George Kenmore, flashy Tiger ace who has come back strong this season after being hurt last year.

TIGERS ARRIVE THIS MORNING, WORK OUT TODAY

Jackets Disappointing in Block Drill for Kicker and Passer.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY. Blocking came in for its share of attention yesterday as Tech got its last hard work before meeting Auburn for the forty-third time Saturday afternoon at Grant field.

The Jackets went through long sessions on blocking for the kicker and passer and coaches were not at all pleased with results. However, when the varsity worked again on defense against Auburn passes some of the gloom disappeared. The Red Devils threw Tiger passes at the Jacket secondary but were unable to make much headway.

The men of Jack Meagher will arrive in Atlanta this morning and will take their final workout on Grant field this afternoon. Irish Jack will bring a physically fit squad of 37 men to town. The Tigers will stop at the Georgian Terrace.

JUST AS STRONG.

Center Ab Christberg and Halfback Paul Ellis, little Atlanta boy, are to be left behind, suffering from injuries. However, they did not make the trip to Manhattan last week and the Auburns will be just as strong against the Techs as they were against the Jaspers.

Likewise, Tech will be in good physical shape. No injuries turned up after two hard scrimmages this week and Butch Aderholt got into rough work for the first time since breaking a hand in the Notre Dame game. He will probably start at one guard with Hawk Cavette at the other.

The remainder of the Jacket lineup will be the same as usual, with Ison and Webb or Sprayberry at ends, Wood and Lackey at tackles, Beard at center, and Murphy, Ector, Gibson and Bosch in the backfield.

GIBSON INJURED.

Incidentally, Gibson, hero of Tech's victory over Vanderbilt last Saturday, may not be able to go at full speed because of a shoulder injury which has kept him from rough work all week. He may not even start the game. However, he will be able to play some.

In the event Gibson doesn't start, Coach Alexander is likely to send Earl Wheby, scrappy little broken-field artist, to the post, holding Gibson and speedy Bobby Fair in reserve.

Auburn players making the trip are: Malvern Morgan, Getty Fairchild and Howard Burns, centers; Captain Milton Howell, Ernest Mills, Wallace Wise, Garth Thorne, Walter Chandler, Nick Ardillo and Vic Nichols, guards; Alternate-Captain Bill Nichols; Chester Bulger, Gordon

MONROE, CADETS BATTLE TONIGHT

G. M. C. Rules Slight Favorite in Dedication Game at Monroe.

MONROE, Ga., Oct. 26.—Monroe's greatest day will be celebrated tomorrow night when Monroe Aggies, Georgia's prep football champions, and G. M. C., from Milledgeville, dedicate the new Kiwanis Club athletic field.

The ceremonies will start at 6 o'clock with a dinner at the Monroe hotel, with Governor Ed Rivers and former Governor Eugene Talmadge as honor guests.

The lights will be turned on the new field at 7:30 o'clock with appropriate ceremonies, followed by what promises to be Monroe's best football game of the year.

Red Barron, a former Monroe Aggie star and president of Monroe A. & M., returned home late this afternoon from Milledgeville, Ga., where he spoke to the G. M. C. student body.

In his talk Barron told the G. M. C. students that Monroe students had singled out the G. M. C. game to dedicate its new stadium, and urged as many of the students as possible to see the game, together with the school's military band.

Colonel J. H. Jenkins, president of G. M. C., will have a part in tomorrow's dedication.

Monroe eked out a 13-to-12 victory over G. M. C. last year at Milledgeville, but the visitors are reported to be much stronger this year and are looking forward to claiming the Georgia Junior College championship.

BIG TEN AND IVY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—This is the season's feature week in the classic circles of the Big Ten and the Ivy league. It is the week when unbeaten Cornell moves against unbeaten Ohio State at Columbus—where a game Yale team strikes at Michigan's stout fortress in Ann Arbor.

It will be the Ivy against the maize of Michigan and the bloom of the Buckeye. The Big Red from Cayuga's famous waters has been rolling smoothly so far. But the Scarlet and Gray of Ohio State is a taller hurdle than Cornell has faced to date.

Ohio State has taken a good Missouri team, Northwestern and Minnesota in a triple threat. Cornell has dominated Syracuse, Princeton and Penn State by wider margins—but the competition was somewhat lighter.

Cornell and Ohio State are two of the country's stronger teams and two of the few that remain unbeaten and untied. They belong where class belongs. Others in the upper berths wearing spottless gowns include Tennessee, Texas A. and M., Notre Dame, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Mississippi, Kentucky, Duquesne and Oregon State.

This doesn't mean that a number of these spotless town entries could handle Duke, Southern California, Oklahoma, S. M. U., Nebraska, North Carolina and Tulane. I don't think too many of them could.

Real Battle.

The Buckeye and the Big Red will make a real battle.

Schmidt and Snively are two of our best offensive coaches and both have the material needed for a contest worth inspecting. This means good lines and good backs—big enough fellows who can move around in a hurry.

This time an Ivy league outfit has the man power to stand up against the big men of the west. That goes for line and backs. Those who seem to think Ohio State is in for a romp may step into something resembling a shock. Whatever the score, it will be no romp either way.

Yale and Michigan.

Michigan was supposed to outclass Yale at New Haven last fall, but while Yale lost, it was a game that goes for line and backs. Those who seem to think Ohio State is in for a romp may step into something resembling a shock.

Michigan's starting backfield of Harmon, Kromer, Evashevski and Westfall is one of the best that any field can show. It has power, speed, weight and experience. Harmon and Kromer make one of the strongest combinations of the year, and the others are not far behind.

Michigan's backfield is well beyond Yale's physical make-up. Yale's undermanned defense will take a heavy hammering before the day is over, but the Blue will be out there hustling and scrapping it out to the final play—against heavy odds but still on the job.

Breaks Ahead.

There are still heavy breakers ahead for more than a few of the untied and unwhipped.

For example, Pennsylvania has a stormy afternoon ahead with North Carolina—the team that beat a high-class N. Y. U. outfit and tied Yale. Old Penn might just as well look out for Starnweiss and Lalanne.

If the Red and Blue can duck by the Tarheels, its meeting with Michigan will be something to see. For Penn is coming along.

Notre Dame must move in against a revengeful Carnegie Tech team that still remembers the break from last fall, and is out to win with all it has. Every barrel is loaded. Don't enter this contest without a plan.

SAFETY TIRE
DIGS INTO THE ROAD

"Get the PLUS SAFETY of this remarkable tire at big savings during our Football Trade-in Special!"

It's actually CHEAPER to buy new tires now—when you need them badly—than to wait till Spring! We'll pay you more for your worn, dangerous tires than you could get out of them during a whole winter of risky driving.

BUILT ON 3 ENTIRELY NEW SAFETY PRINCIPLES

① New "Saw-Tooth" Tread grips like a halfback's cleats. The instant you touch the brakes, the sharp "saw-teeth" of this unusual tread dig into the road—stop you quickly and safely. Because the "saw-teeth" are just as sharp at the base of the tread as at the top, they stop you quickly even after months of wear.

③ New "Saf-flex" Cord protects you against stone bruises and internal carcass ruptures. Because it has twice the elastic strength of ordinary cord, "Saf-flex" gives you maximum protection against road hazards and makes the new Safety Tire ride easy as a cloud.

Johnny Whittington Leaves Ole Miss

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Oct. 26. (AP)—Johnny Whittington, star University of Mississippi half-back, who was in the car in which Jesse Ward, stellar end, was killed last Saturday night, withdrew from school today.

Erm Smith took Whittington's place on the team. Billy Sam and George Bailey will be the alternates. The squad will leave tomorrow morning for the game with Tulane in New Orleans.

Gamecocks Clash With W. Va. Today

ORANBURG, S. C., Oct. 26. (AP)—South Carolina's gamecocks and West Virginia's Mountaineers meet on the gridiron here for the first time tomorrow. The kickoff is scheduled for 2 p. m.

The squads held light maneuvers in Columbia this afternoon and will come here tomorrow morning.

N. Y. U. STAR RETURNS.

NEW YORK—In 1936 Irving Mond, a reserve tackle, starred for New York U. The next two years he was out of school because of illness. This fall, having lost a year of school, he returned to NYU and tried out for end. He got his first real chance last week against Carnegie Tech and did so well he'll start against Georgia Saturday.

L. S. U. ENGAGES VANDY; CRIMSON FACES MAROONS

Tech and Auburn Renew One of South's Oldest Grid Feuds.

By KENNETH GREGORY.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Although the efforts may be for a lost cause, if the "experts" have football's situation figured correctly, a trio of Southeastern conference teams will return to the firing line Saturday with certain degrees of hope.

Since Tennessee's decisive victory over Alabama, observers have all but presented the conference championship to Major Bob Neyland's Volunteers. They are of the opinion no team remaining on the schedule can do anything with the power and speed of Tennessee.

Undeclared and untied in conference play along with Tennessee are Kentucky, Tulane, Mississippi and Georgia Tech. Of these clubs, only the Kentucky Wildcats, at present tied with Tennessee for the leadership with two victories, are on the Volunteers' schedule.

The conference lead held by Tennessee and Kentucky will not be in jeopardy this week. The Volunteers have a "rest" engagement with Mercer, of the Dixie conference, and Kentucky journeys to Cincinnati for a session with that city's Xavier University.

BIGGEST GAME.
While the pace-setters are mixing it up with these outsiders and looking ahead to more important arguments a week hence, principal attention in the conference realm centers on the New Orleans meeting of Tulane's Green Wave and Mississippi's Rebels. A titular hope will collapse in that affair.

Georgia Tech's Engineers, possessing a conference win over Vanderbilt, go after their second in the renewal of an ancient feud with Auburn in Atlanta, Alabama and Louisiana State, each defeated once, will seek to regain a measure of prestige in engagements with Mississippi State and Vanderbilt, respectively.

Records show Mississippi has lost 12 times to Tulane since its last victory in 1915. Mississippi is undefeated and untied and holds a triumph over Louisiana State. Tulane had a perfect record until last Saturday when an aerial barrage gave North Carolina a 14-14 draw with the Greens.

In its renewal of a rivalry with Mississippi dating back to 1893, Tulane's Wave may expect another dose of forward passing. Red Dawson's Tulane line is rated too powerful for any team to attack on the ground. Mississippi has two fine passers in Les Dodson and Junie Hovious. Together they have completed 12 out of 43 aeri-

LONG SERIES.
Georgia Tech and Auburn have massed playing but five times in their annual scraps since 1892. Auburn leads in victories 23 to 16. Georgia Tech has a stronger offense than Auburn and will take the field slightly favored. The decision probably will be close.

In the other conference scraps, Louisiana State and Alabama should get back on the winning side of the ledger. Vanderbilt has dropped three in a row, but hardly figures to stop Louisiana State, which has shown plenty since that opening setback by Mississippi. Alabama, however, may find the Mississippi State Maroons tougher than some expect.

Florida's Gators and Georgia's Bulldogs journey eastward for their engagements. Georgia, defeated thrice, faces a tough foe in New York University. Georgia and N. Y. U. each has won two games in four past meetings. This time Georgia does not have the manpower to handle such an assignment. The University of Florida, winner of its last two starts, faces Maryland at College Park.

The Sevanee Tigers, who made a fine showing last week by tripping Tennessee Tech, the team that tied Vanderbilt, continue non-conference skirmishing in a tilt with Southwestern at Memphis Friday night.

WALKER AGAIN HEADS GA.-FLA.

ALBANY, Ga., Oct. 26. (AP)—A. D. (Doc) Walker was re-elected president of the Georgia-Florida Baseball league at a salary of $1,200 a year, an increase of $450, at the annual business meeting of the league directors yesterday. In addition the directors voted the president a $250 bonus for this year in appreciation of the splendid job he did in handling the league's business.

S. E. Teague, of Tallahassee, Fla., was renamed vice president and changes were made in the midnight rule and in the division of receipts from the Shagnessy play-off series. It was voted to extend the midnight rule to 12:30 a. m., eastern standard time, with the exception of Saturday nights, when play is to be halted automatically due to the Sunday law.

Five per cent of the Shagnessy series receipts was voted to the winning team to help defray expenses connected with the post-season series with the Florida state champion.

A schedule committee was appointed and it was voted to send President Walker to the annual meeting of the national association at the league's expense.

Smithies Overpower Commercial, 29 to 0

Billy Paschal Again Stars for Tech High; Forrest Smith Scores Twice.

By ROY WHITE.
Tech High moved several touchdowns nearer the city and state prep championship games with a well-earned 29-to-0 victory over Commercial High Thursday night at Ponce de Leon park before more than 6,000 spectators.

It was the Smithies' sixth straight victory and the sixth game in which they have scored at least three touchdowns.

Billy Paschal, who has been the star in every game this season except one in which he did not play, was again the hero, though he didn't lead the touchdown parade.

SCORE IN 7 PLAYS.
Tech High scored in just seven plays after the kickoff, due mainly to a recovered Commercial fumble deep in its own territory. That one break not only inspired the Smithies to victory, but seemed to weaken the spirit of the Commercial team.

Tech High received the kick and gained a first down on two plays and then kicked on fourth down with only one yard to gain. Commercial fumbled the punt and Keith, the Smithie center, recovered the ball on Commercial's 13-yard line. Forrest Smith, behind perfect blocking, broke through for the 13 yards and a touchdown. Paschal kicked the point.

EXCHANGE OF PUNTS.
After an exchange of punts Tech High started a touchdown drive on its own 42-yard line. Paschal passed to Smith for 10 yards. A pass was grounded, but Smith again broke through for a first down. A line play lost ground, but Paschal passed 10 yards to Henson to regain the loss and it was third down and one yard to go for a first down. The Smithies then executed one of the smartest plays of the year. They pulled identically the same play which Tennessee used to score on Alabama.

Heinold faked a spinner, held the ball behind him and Smith grabbed it and went unopposed 15 yards to a touchdown. Paschal and Trapshooters Will Fire at 300 Targets This Afternoon.

Trapshooters from a dozen sections of the country will begin firing this afternoon at the Capitol Gun Club in the first of two days of the annual fall festival trapshooting tournament.

Three hundred targets will be fired from the 16-yard line in 12 events deciding the fall festival singles championship. Trophies and added cash prizes will be given to the winners.

The tournament has been sanctioned by the American Trapshooting Association and any record made today or Saturday will be officially recognized.

Following today's shooting more than 300 targets will be fired Saturday in the fall festival practice handicap, the 10' handicap, the grand slant handicap and the doubles championship.

Russell, LaGrange Battle to 6-6 Draw

LAGRANGE, Ga., Oct. 26.—A long completed pass by Captain Bowen, of Russell High, in the last five minutes of play saved the football game for the East Pointers here tonight as the game ended 6-6.

Bowen and the Morris brothers were ace men for the Wildcats with Barber, Herbert, Strickland and Wood caring for the Grangers' interest to best advantage.

Score for the Grangers came in the second quarter on a recovered fumble 14 yards from the Wildcats' goal line.

Prep School Tackle Weighs 320 Pounds

JAMESTOWN, Tenn., Oct. 26. (AP)—The Alvin C. York Institute here, playing football for the first season, can boast of no gridiron victories, but the school thinks it has the biggest player in either high school or college circles in the nation.

Eugene Cravens, 15-year-old sophomore left tackle, weighs a cool 320 pounds. While he is in a game the line is always unbalanced, "heavy" side to the left. Young Cravens is unusually fast for his size and coaches think he will develop into a formidable lineman. He is playing his first football.

Bulldogs Are Off To Play Highly Favored N. Y. U. Eleven

CARTER, KIMSEY TO OPEN BATTLE IN CASE OF RAIN

Heyward Allen To Be at Tailback if Weather Is Clear.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 26.—Several hundred supporters braved a drizzling rain this afternoon to give the Georgia Bulldogs a rousing send-off to New York and Saturday's gridiron classic with New York University's Violets.

"We'll give 'em a workout but they have every advantage and should win," Coach Wallace Butts said as he boarded the "Bulldog special" for the contest.

Georgia coaches were gloomy over the threatening weather and hoped for a clear day for the game.

LIGHT DRILL.
Before leaving this afternoon the team took a light drill in sweat clothes on Sanford field, but the practice was cut short by the terrific heat that preceded the rain. It consisted mostly of passing and pass defense.

Coach Butts said he was still doubtful about who would start at two positions but otherwise the team will line up just about like it has in all games this year.

The weather will determine whether M. F. Carter or Tommy Witt open at center. If the field is dry it will be Witt but if the footing is uncertain Carter will get the call because the coaches don't want to take unnecessary chances with Witt's bad knee.

WEATHER TO DECIDE.
Condition of the field will also decide whether Heyward Allen or Cliff Kimsey open at tailback, but regardless of which one starts Kimsey will see a majority of the service. If it's raining, Coach Butts said, Allen may not even play a minute, much less start, but otherwise the diminutive aerial ace will open the battle.

Alex McCaskill and John Stegeman will start at ends; Charlie Williams and Wyatt Posey at tackles; Walter Wilfong and Smiley Johnson, guards; Vassa Cate at wingback and Jim Fordham at fullback.

WOODRUFF IMPROVES.
However, Coach Butts said, Lewis still has a chance to get the call at fullback over Fordham. Jim has the advantage of two years' experience and more than likely will start, but he'll have to be content with at least sharing duties with the sophomore from Griffin.

There were more than a hundred fans on the train with the team and others have already gone to New York or are planning to leave tomorrow morning, assuring the Georgia boys of a good following Saturday.

N. Y. U. Eleven Ends Heavy Preparations.
NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(P)—New York University's Violets ended heavy preparations for Georgia today with a drill in fundamentals and a dummy scrimmage against the Bulldogs' formations.

Coach Mal Stevens disclosed that he planned no changes in his starting line but that he was still uncertain about Al Campanis, the back hurt in the North Carolina game.

Campanis has been working out lightly with the team, but if he doesn't start, Bill Galu will get his reward at a halfback spot and Stan Mikulka will move to fullback.

The remainder of the squad was in good condition.

STATE ARRIVES FOR CLARK TILT

The rough and rugged South Carolina State football aggregation arrives this afternoon for their battle Saturday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park at 2 o'clock. This game will have direct bearing on the conference race as Clark University, a local institution, boasts an undefeated and untied record plus the fact that they have kept their goal line uncrossed in two games.

Coach Dawson is bringing a squad of 36 men here with high hopes of capturing this contest. His last appearance in Atlanta was a disappointing one as his team lost a hard fought battle to Morris Brown College by a 12-0 count.

TO FACE VIOLE(N)T FOREWALL

Unlike Ferdinand, Howard Smiley Johnson, Bulldog alternate captain, has no love for violets, especially the N. Y. U. kind. One of the bright spots in the Georgia forward wall, Johnson will see plenty of action against N. Y. U. Saturday in New York.

ALL IN THE GAME

tems. Most of them use calculus as a basis. But some seem to need a compass. They don't seem to be able to tell the difference between north and south.

How it would be possible to rank Notre Dame other than in the first five I do not know—not even by using calculus. In fact, it is suspected that any rating table which does not choose to recognize Notre Dame simply is using an old-fashioned chisel.

It is easy to see why the rating experts who base their deductions on strength of schedules would be inclined to rate Tennessee a bit down the list, but Notre Dame's schedule is one succession of fairly tough games. So is Ohio State's and Michigan's.

There has been a mighty howl raised as to Tennessee's schedule. And yet some of the experts insist it is the greatest team in the country and one of the greatest of all time.

It may be that. But never will it be satisfactorily proved. Some of the greatest-of-all-time played relatively great schedules, too.

WEEK'S BEST LONG SHOT.
The week's best long shot in football appears to be Ole Miss against Tulane. Ole Miss is quite a ball club, to begin with, and there is no telling to what emotional heights the team will rise as the result of the death of Ward, the end.

This may have a profound effect. The boys may decide to dedicate a game to him and wallop Tulane from goal post to goal post. It would not be necessary for Harry Mehre to say a word. The game comes only a week after the auto accident which resulted in Ward's death. It's still fresh in the boys' minds.

NEW FIELD TRIAL HEAD.
Fred Jordan, who followed the trials of the Georgia Field Trial Association at Waynesboro as a youngster in knee britches, is the new president. The association was organized in 1900 and only two of the original charter members are living.

They are Charley Jordan, Fred's father, of Monticello, and Judge H. W. Hopkins, of Thomasville. Charley Jordan for years was secretary and treasurer and also served as president. He is now an honorary life member. Old field trial men are delighted that Fred Jordan, who attended the first trials as a kid, is now the president. The association will hold its annual trial in January and is looking forward to one of the best in the organization's history.

BIG FRED IN NEW FIELD.
Big Fred Sington, who plays baseball in the summer and officiates in football in the winter, is now in a new field of business. The former Alabama All-American is business manager of the Southern Coach and Athlete, a publication for the southern schools.

It is a fast-growing magazine and should receive great impetus through the acquisition of Sington, who is enthusiastic about the future prospects of the magazine. Coaches feel that the magazine fills a long-felt need. The articles are instructive and valuable to younger coaches and players, too.

Sington will let his new duties slide long enough this week to officiate in the Tulane-Ole Miss game at New Orleans.

after they had outplayed the Wolverines throughout the first half of the game.

Among the players of prominence making the trip will be Nat Harney, Marion Motley, Davis, Hill, McDew, captain of the team; DeLaine, Galloway and Gordon. A trainer and team physician will complete the party. They will stop at Gammons during their stay here.

Maranville Released by Albany

Team Finished Fourth and Captured First Play-Off Series.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 26.—(P)—Walter H. (Rabbit) Maranville, who sparked the 1914 Boston Braves to a National league pennant and a subsequent World Series triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics, reached another milestone today in his checkered career as player and manager.

Notified at his Rochester home that he had been released as manager of the Albany club, of the Eastern league, the diminutive Rabbit shrugged it off by saying: "If that's baseball, that's the way it is. I'll find something else."

FINISHED FOURTH.

Signed last November to pilot the Senators as successor to Bill McCorry, Maranville enjoyed a successful season. The team finished in fourth place, defeated

Elmire in the semi-final playoffs, but lost to Scranton in the finals.

President Tom McCaffrey, who announced the club's action, said Maranville had been dismissed to permit the Senators an opportunity to carry on negotiations with a big league club for a working agreement.

"We released Maranville so we would be in a position to give any major league team with which we might do business next year the right to name the Albany manager if it so desired," McCaffrey said.

ONE OF GREATEST.

Maranville, generally conceded to have been one of the greatest shortstops of all time despite his small stature, spent 24 years as a major league ball player.

He played successively with the Boston Braves, where he achieved his greatest fame, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Brooklyn and St. Louis, all of the National league.

During a part of the 1925 season, Maranville managed the Chicago Cubs, but it was not until 1936 and at the end of his playing days that he became a full-fledged manager.

G. M. A. Seeks To Get Back in Race Against Purples Tonight

LOSS OF HAIRE, CASTLEBERRY BLOW TO DOYLE

Big Cadet Eleven Welcomes Forecast of Rain for G. I. A. A. Battle.

By ROY WHITE.
Boys' High and G. M. A. will battle at 8 o'clock tonight at Ponce de Leon park in the week's featured prep football game. It's the Cadets' one big chance to get back into the championship running and the next to last G. I. A. A. game at home for Boys' High, and the only game scheduled for tonight in Atlanta.

The Cadets welcomed a forecast of rain, for a heavy field will give them a much better chance to stop the Boys' High passing attack. G. M. A. will heavily outweigh Boys' High, but the Cadets lack experience.

While G. M. A. and Boys' High battle at Ponce de Leon park, North Fulton plays at Griffin, Russell plays at LaGrange and Decatur plays at Gainesville. Marietta College has an open date.

Hapeville and Fulton High play at Hapeville, Richardson High, of College Park, plays Carrollton at 3 o'clock on Russell's field at East Point. West Fulton plays Commercial's Reserves on the Bankhead field in West Fulton's first home game and G. M. A.'s Reserves play the North Fulton Reserves at 2 o'clock on the Buckhead field.

REAL BATTLES.
The afternoon games will be real battles and it's the first year in which the reserve teams are playing regular schedules with the smaller teams of the city. Some of the squads are large and unyielding and a reserve team schedule gives far more football and helps make better teams for future years.

Particular interest will be centered about the Boys' High-G. M. A. game at Ponce de Leon park. The Purples started the season strong with a 14 to 0 victory over Commercial, then traveled to Knoxville, Greenville and Savannah before returning home to beat Columbus last week after battling Marietta College to a tie score.

Boys' High has looked none too good in its last two games. Its famed tricky plays have failed to work successfully and Columbus with a much smaller team stopped cold every attempted Boys' High end-around play.

HAIRE INJURED.
Howard Haire Jr., giant tackle on the Boys' High team, suffered a back injury Tuesday and will be out the rest of the season. He was confined to his home Wednesday and Thursday and most likely will be unable to attend the game tonight. His loss, together with that of Clint Castleberry, who suffered a broken arm in the Savannah game, will materially weaken the Boys' High offense.

Both are good on breaking through and providing some blocking for the ball carriers.

Ex-Manager Wins 2 Tilts For Old Eli

Howie Kaye Beat Columbia and Army With Placekicks.

By LOU BLACK.
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Howie (Two-Plays) Kaye, Yale's place-kicking specialist, has a few words of advice for football managers:

"Boot a football long enough and you'll kick yourself right on to the varsity."

Light as college players go, the 160-pound halfback thought his gridiron career was over when he broke an ankle in his freshman year. But he determined to stick close to the game. In order to do so and avoid injury, he went out for a managerial job.

Last spring, between rushing water out to the athletes and attending to other odd jobs, Kaye kicked a few placekicks and did it so well he was brought to the attention of Head Coach Ducky Pond. Ducky put him on the varsity before long, and Saturday, at Ann Arbor, he may get a chance to deliver a vital boot against Michigan.

Already the Middleburg (Va.) junior has delivered with his speciality in important spots. His field goal beat Columbia, 10-7, and his two extra-point conversions helped upset Army last Saturday, 20-15. After trying for the field goal or extra point, he stays in long enough to kick off, and that's where he wins his "two-plays" monicker.

At present Howie can't decide what's giving him the "bigger kick"—watching one of his placekicks soar between the uprights, or the service he's getting from Yale's football managers.

"You see all the games from a swell seat," he says, "every so often you get a small close-up of what's going on and besides, you don't have to run any errands."

CORBY TO MEET BURNS TONIGHT

Maybe that ex-Red Shadow, Bob Corby, knew what he was talking about when he announced "kick"—watching one of his placekicks soar between the uprights, or the service he's getting from Yale's football managers.

Reds Earn $400,000; 'They're Not for Sale'

Team Plays Before 984,854 Paid Admissions; Ens Offered Job But Not As Coach.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The National League Champion Reds played to 1,133,926 fans at home this year, earned $400,000 profit and "definitely are not for sale," President Powel Crosley Jr. reported today as directors met at his hospital bedside.

Declaring the attendance topped that of any team in either major loop, Crosley said the club had reduced its indebtedness by approximately $62,000, paid off arrearage dividends on two classes of preferred paper and that the board had "just declared" a $6.50 payment on common stock.

Crosley, recovering from sprained vertebrae received in a fall from a horse on October 8, said the club had "paid in excess of $162,000 for players' contracts, over and above what we received for sale of players' contracts," spent more than $115,000 in park improvements, $120,000 more in purchase of the Birmingham (Ala.) club "and other expenses in connection with the farm system."

To a newsman's comment that he had a "buyer for the club," Crosley laughed: "Not for the world! I'd want more than any man would be willing to pay."

Home attendance included 984,854 paid admissions and 130,072 "ladies' day" fans. In 1938 the team played to 706,756 at home, and the year before, to about 411,000.

As directors met, the front office announced that Jewel Ens, defunct Pittsburgh Pirate coach, had been offered a job with the club, "but not as coach."

Denying St. Louis reports that Ens was booked to succeed Jimmy Wilson, General Manager Warren C. Giles indicated he might become a scout.

There was denial also of immediately pending "trades."

RECORD LIKELY IN SUNDAY RACE

Lakewood Speedway's auto racing records will very likely go by the boards Sunday, as America's best in benzine battlers try to lower marks made in the past by Gus Schrader, Billy Winn and Duke Nalon.

Electing by midweek rain to moisten the "mighty mile" where once rode Lloyd Vieux, Clay Weatherly, Billy Winn, Clet Gardner, Roy Lake, Bill Cummings, Lou Disbrow and others who have ascended to the Golden Speedway, the new crop of American speed stars, Wilburn, Booker, Saylor, Crone, De Camp, Shaw, Hellmuelter, Jenkins, Simpson, Adair, Williams, Sall, Chittwood, Light, Warke and Frerick will do their stuff, as such veterans as Taylor, Goff, Singleton and Whaley carry the colors of the south.

There are 48 cars and drivers entered, which must be groomed down to a starting 16 or 18 for the 20-mile world's championship. CSRA officials face a herculean task to get the trials over, as Dixie Donors Motor Derby, southern championship race, started promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

The feature qualifying heat for the ten fastest cars is slated to start at 2:50 p. m., while the consolation final is set to get under way at 4:40 o'clock, central standard time. Gates open at noon.

Richardson Defeats Carrollton, 12 to 6

Richardson High defeated Carrollton, 12 to 6, last night at College Park. The winners drove to touchdowns without losing the ball from the opening kickoff at each half.

Carrollton recovered a fumble on the Richardson 4-yard line, but was unable to score.

Danny Hayes, captain of Richardson and one of the stars of the game, was injured on the last play.

DINI WINS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP)—W. C. Winfrey's three-year-old filly, Dini, a daughter of John P. Grier, chalked up her fifth straight victory in the featured Winsted class D handicap at Empire City today.

PETRELS BATTLE PRESBY TONIGHT AT CLINTON, S. C.

Oglethorpe Not in Best Shape for Blue Stocking Game.

Oglethorpe's Stormy Petrels, badly worn and beaten in a "storm" of touchdowns at Lexington, Ky., will leave the city early this morning for Clinton, S. C., where Coach John Patrick's eleven plays Presbyterian College tonight.

The Petrels had a breather in beating Jacksonville, 40 to 0, last week but weathering that Kentucky storm two weeks ago has taken its toll with several players not in the best of condition.

It's an important game in the S. I. A. A. and both teams have shown unusually good defenses within their own ranks. Presbyterian's line has allowed only 42 points to be scored against it.

Oglethorpe's defensive record except for the Kentucky game is more impressive as Eskins, Wofford and the Teachers all failed to get across the last two stripes on the field.

Oglethorpe and Presbyterian have the same record in their own league, two victories and a tie each.

Both teams will rely on veterans to carry on for their reserve strength is limited, and both teams have veteran lines to shoot against each other tonight.

The South Carolinians have in Captain June Moore, one of the best blockers in the business. Their climax runner is Dick Meisner, a sophomore.

Oglethorpe's Captain Arvil Axelberg and Fred Kelly will lead the backfield parade tonight.

The Probable Lineups:
Oglethorpe: Pos. Presbys. Petosis L.E. Evans Zelenick L.T. Moye Leaskosky L.G. Finney Moore C. Keck Sheffield R.G. Erwin Ross R.T. Bule Mills R.E. Hollman F. Kelly Q.B. Melisky Tosches L.H. Weinges George R.H. Tannery M. Kelly F.B. J. Moore

James Edgar Lennox, Former Cracker, Dies

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 26.—(AP)—James Edgar (Eggie) Lennox, who played with three major league baseball clubs between 1906 and 1912, died today from a complication of diseases at the age of 55.

Lennox joined the Philadelphia Athletics in 1906 and later played with Brooklyn and the Chicago Cubs. He led the National league third basemen in fielding in 1909 with a .959 average.

He also played two years with Pittsburgh in the outworn Federal league and with 10 minor league clubs, including Kansas City, Louisville, Montreal and Atlanta. After retiring from active play he was an umpire in the Virginia and Piedmont leagues and later coached for the New York Yankees, the New York Giants and the Athletics.

Down the Alleys

H. Fowle, of the Accounting team, paced the Federal Reserve Bank league basketball game of 368 as his team won three games from Miscellaneous No. 1 in a close contest.

Luck had a 341 series, Bramblett 322, of 18 each as a win of 314. Freeman had a 314 series from Custodian No. 1. Service won two from Transit and Telegraph won two from Custodian No. 3 in other matches.

Warren Drummond won high-scoring honors in the Coca-Cola league, with high single game of 139 and series of 338, though his Dispersers dropped two games to Signs.

E. L. Holloway had counts of 115-102 and 111 as his team won three games from Ogalpe.

Misses Snowden and Tillie Jordan tied for high single game honors in the Power Club Ladies league with scores of 116 each as a win of 314. Freeman had a 314 series from Custodian No. 1. Service won two from Transit and Telegraph won two from Custodian No. 3 in other matches.

Friend of Veterans at Soldiers' Home Will Be Honored for Long Service

Pioneer Association To Pay Tribute to the Spirit of Mrs. Williams.

By LEE ROGERS.
The little gray-haired woman who since her girlhood has stood vigil over the heroic Confederate and American dead at times when all others apparently had for gotten them is to receive the homage of the Atlanta Women's Pioneer Association next Wednesday.

She is Mrs. Ernest B. Williams, whom the pioneer association has selected as their "Ideal Pioneer Woman," as the person in whom the spirit of the pioneer is best typified because of her humanitarian work in upbuilding the state, city and church.

Mrs. Williams has been the best friend of the Confederate veterans at the Old Soldiers Home. She has watched over them in her way during their lifetime—even becoming a notary public that she might witness papers for the soldiers and their widows free of charge—and more often than not she has been the only woman present at their funerals and many times sent the only floral offering.

During both the Spanish American and World War she was actively engaged in relief work. She visited camps, provided the soldiers with reading material and wrote letters for those who were unable to do so themselves. She met every train carrying the World War dead back home.

Mrs. Williams has been a lifelong member of Trinity Methodist church and has been active in Sunday school and mission work. She is the former Miss Gertrude Deford.

The Pioneer Association will meet at 3 o'clock Wednesday at the Rich's tea room at which time a tribute will be read to Mrs. Williams and she will be presented a bouquet of flowers.

'Toughest Guy' Is Softie at Heart: Nature Calls, So He Wants to Lam

'I'll Take Wing and Soon Be Gone,' Says Prison Poet, But Warden Says He's Not Going Anywhere—For Over 100 Years, Anyway.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Lonnie Taylor, jail-break leader and self styled "toughest guy in the place," created a mild furor in the state penitentiary today—he did it with a poem.

Appearing in the Tennessee penitentiary publication, "Jeep," was a poem written by Lonnie. He called it "A Utopian Dream."

He wrote the "toughest guy," serving more than 100 years for a string of crimes: "I hear the voice of nature, 'I feel it in my bones 'Like a duck that winters southward. 'I'll take wing and soon be gone."

Guards scratched their heads, after heaving with belly laughs, and wondered if Taylor was calling his shots and really planned to "winter southward." But Warden Tom Gore smilingly observed: "Lonnie isn't going anywhere. He's been on the 'white line' (solitary confinement) since he led the break last year. I guess it's just his artistic nature cropping out."

CATHOLIC LUNCHEON TO ASSEMBLE 500

Laymen To Hear O'Hara and Manion Speak at Convention.

Between 500 and 600 persons are expected to attend the convention luncheon of the Catholic Laymen's Association of Georgia, to be held at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Louis J. Dinkler room of the Ansley hotel, Estes Doremus, luncheon chairman, reported yesterday.

Doremus said that reservations are being accepted from the general public as well as from active delegates to the convention.

The convention will open with a pontifical mass in the Co-Cathedral of Christ the King at 9 o'clock that morning, and will close with a Holy Name rally and benediction of the blessed sacrament at 4:30 o'clock that afternoon on Marist campus.

Before the luncheon, delegates will meet on the Ansley roof for the association's annual business session. During the afternoon Dr. Clarence Manion, of Notre Dame University law school, and the Most Reverend Gerald P. O'Hara, bishop of Savannah-Atlanta, will address the convention.

Dr. Manion, who is also director of the Indiana office of United States government reports, holds degrees from St. Mary's College, Kentucky; Catholic University of America and Notre Dame. He is the author of "Sources of the Federal Constitution," an American history, and the recently released and widely quoted "Lessons in Liberty."

A dance in honor of delegates to the association's convention will be held tomorrow night in the Columbian Club, 1200 Peachtree street.

MRS. DODGE IN DIVORCE GETS $3,000 A MONTH
DETROIT, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Muriel Sisman Dodge, Detroit society girl who was married to Horace E. Dodge in England in 1928, was granted a divorce today from the wealthy heir to a motor fortune. Mrs. Dodge said they had been separated for eight years. They have two children, David, 9, and Diana, 7.

F. W. Blalock "Surprised" by Bank Employees

F. W. Blalock, newly-elected president of the Fulton National Bank, was honor guest at a surprise party given at the Brookhaven Country Club last night by the bank employees.

Henry B. Kennedy, newly-elected vice president, and the other officials also were guests at the informal dinner and dance which was attended by about 150 persons.

Greetings were extended to the new officers on behalf of the employees by Alex Lindholm, who promised the continued co-operation of all those connected with the bank.

RUSSIA DESIGNATES ENVOY TO HUNGARY

MOSCOW, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The president of the Supreme Soviet today appointed Nicholas Sharanoff as the Russian minister to Hungary, the official Soviet news agency, Tass, announced.

Hungarian-Russian diplomatic relations were interrupted February 2 when the Kremlin ordered the Soviet legation at Budapest closed and asked Hungary to close her Moscow legation.

Hungary appointed Dr. J. Cristoff, formerly counselor of the Hungarian legation at Warsaw, as minister to Moscow September 23 when the two countries decided to resume diplomatic relations.

TRADE AGREEMENTS DEFENDED BY COX

Replies to Attacks by Republican Member From Minnesota.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Although a frequent and at times severe critic of the Roosevelt administration, Representative Eugene E. Cox, of Georgia, arose on the floor of the house today to defend the Roosevelt-Hull reciprocal trade agreements against attacks by Representative August M. Anderson, Republican, of Minnesota.

Under special leave to speak for half an hour, Anderson was denouncing the condition of agriculture in America and was particularly critical of trade agreements negotiated by the State Department with South American and European nations.

Cox interrupted. "The gentleman (Anderson)," Judge Cox interrupted, "has undertaken to create the impression in this body and throughout the country that the Department of State has deliberately sought to take advantage of the disturbed conditions that prevail in the minds of our people to put something over on the farmer, to give away his home markets, with the result that the farmers will be disadvantaged and that other industry will be advantaged."

He then asked Representative Anderson what evidence he had that indicated any intention on the part of the administration to give away the home market or any agricultural commodity.

Wants to Return.
Anderson said he wanted to return to the time when the cotton farmer of the south got an average of 17 cents a pound for his staple under a Republican administration; when cattle farmers were protected on their American market.

"Does the gentleman want to return to the Smoot-Hawley tariff policy of his party?" asked Judge Cox.

But at this point the debate was shut off because Anderson refused to yield further to the Georgian.

HANDCRICK ELECTED BY SOCIAL WORKERS

Group Hears Lassiter, State NYA Director.

Martin Handcrick was elected president of the Social Workers' Club at the organization's first fall meeting yesterday afternoon.

Other officers named were Miss Henrietta Krohn, vice president; G. Robert Brush, treasurer; Miss Marybelle LaHatte, secretary, and Lee Horne, membership chairman.

Members of the executive board are Miss Evelyn Sims, Miss Gertrude Croul, Captain G. S. Strandberg, Mrs. Francis Dwyer and Mrs. Mildred Mitchell.

GEORGIA LEGION LEADER SPEAKS

State Commander Reviews Program for Post Here.

Hoyt C. Brown, of Baxley, Ga., state commander of the American Legion, paid his first official visit to Atlanta Post No. 1, addressing a special meeting in the headquarters at Piedmont park.

Brown stressed the four points of the Legion program, as outlined at the recent national convention in Chicago: (1) preservation of American peace; (2) adequate national defense for the United States; (3) fostering and perpetuating of 100 per cent Americanism; and (4) rehabilitation, child welfare and employment.

Referring to employment, Brown emphasized that men over 40 years of age "should be given a chance." William G. McRae, post commander, introduced the speaker. Brown was elected state commander at the state convention in Atlanta in June.

ATLANTAN NOMINATED BY CASKET GROUP

CINCINNATI, Oct. 26.—(AP)—E. R. Paris, of Atlanta, Ga., was nominated without opposition today for re-election as president of the Casket Manufacturers' Association of America, meeting in annual convention. Election is scheduled tomorrow.

TUSKEGEE RALLY TO HEAR WALLACE

Southern Negro Farmers Will Meet November 11.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Oct. 26.—(AP) Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace will address a gathering of southeastern negro farmers here November 11, it was announced today by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute.

Patterson said Wallace had accepted a joint invitation extended by negro educators in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, and Mississippi.

State agricultural extension service directors in the five states, he said, have authorized their negro agents to organize groups of farmers to attend the Armistice Day rally.

Besides Secretary Wallace, Patterson said R. M. Evans, AAA administrator; I. W. Dugan, southern AAA chief; and E. A. Miller, assistant to Dugan, were expected to attend the meeting.

Jimmy Tells Rita That Green Paid Him $20,000 to Break Engagement to Her

By KATHRN BEMIS.

Rita Rhodes, heir to a large fortune, wonders what is wrong with her as she and Preston Meeker sit in a garden in a Pasadena garden. He is the third man to ask her to break the engagement. As he leaves, a man in a clown's costume appears, saying, "It's a darn shame! I'm at your service and you're going to see a lot of me." Rita's perennially young mother Dolores cables Wilmet Green, her fourth husband, from Paris that she is divorcing him just as Rita recognizes the voice of Stanton, the new chauffeur engaged by Green, as that of the clown. She asks him to explain. He says he can't yet but he loves her and she is happy when he kisses her. She is disconcerted when he tells her to sell automobiles. Green commits suicide, having lost Rita's entire fortune. Rita and Roger Brewster's mother, Rita asks her to be her social secretary. Roger introduces Tom Cleveland, whose grandfather left millions, and Rita is amazed and indignant for Tom is Stanton. Rita finds a man shot to death on a club's beach and picks up a cigarette case there bearing Tom's initials. She mails it to him and is convinced he is guilty when he phones that he is going away. Rita is protesting to Roger for his giving the impression they are engaged. He kisses her as Tom appears in the doorway. As she is recovering from a riding accident Rita finally says yes to one of Roger's many proposals. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

She and Rita were lunching under a bright orange umbrella in the flower-circled patio when, without hesitancy, he sat down at their table. Jimmy in white shirt and slacks was quite good-looking and blatantly confident as ever, a little older looking now, but with a compelling personality.

"Of all the grand luck—meeting you people!" he exclaimed, with eyes only for Rita.

She smiled a funny little ghost of a smile, and her stubborn little chin went up. She told him unemotionally, "It's nice to see you again, Jimmy. You've been gone for ages."

Selia put in, "Yes, where have you been? Rogers often speaks of you—wondered what had become of you."

An ashamed look swept across Jimmy's well-defined features. He squared his athletic-looking shoulders, said quickly, "Oh, I've been around. I had a wild notion of entering the Olympics and went into training—then got discouraged, gave it up, and tramped around the world. I paused at Shanghai, put through a few good deals, and made my pile. Now I'm home to loaf the rest of my life."

"Congratulations," offered Rita admiringly. "It's nice to meet a man who's made good on practically nothing. You're rather a wonder aren't you?"

He flushed under his deep tan, ran a hand nervously through his dark wavy hair. "Hardly that. Not when you consider the financial backing I had. Tell you about it sometime."

He seemed suddenly eager to be off. Rita wondered why, and was a little disappointed. In the old days she had admired, often imagined she could learn to love this vigorous athlete with the charming manners.

"I'll be seeing you both a lot, I hope," he said now, and whirled away from them as quickly as he had come.

Selia's plucked brows lifted. She drawled, "Whatever was the matter with him? Didn't he used to be one of your favorites, my dear?"

Rita was thoughtfully gazing

POPE WILL ISSUE ENCYCLICAL TODAY

Letter Addressed to Bishops Expected to Deal With European War.

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 26.—(P)—The Vatican announced today that the first encyclical by Pope Pius XII would be given to the world tomorrow, when the Pontiff is expected to denounce atheism and neopaganism.

The Italian press said the circular letter, addressed to Roman Catholic bishops throughout the world, would be intended particularly for "nations where atheism and neopaganism have done the greatest destruction."

Prelates said the text in Latin would begin with the words "summi pontificatus," which by tradition would become the future title of the document. These words mean "the supreme pontificate," but the remainder of the phrase was not disclosed in advance of publication to be made tomorrow about noon (5 a. m., Atlanta time).

The letter was expected to be lengthy, dealing with the European war, which the Vatican fears might facilitate the spread of doctrines which it considers anti-Christian.

The Pope had indicated he would return from Castel Gandolfo, his summer residence, tomorrow, but members of his household said his departure now has been postponed until Saturday evening.

In an address to his Castel Gandolfo police guard today the Pope said his heart "has no bounds, knows no rancor or hatred, but beats for all."

He termed the guards "custodians of that peace which we would like to see shine over the whole face of the earth."

Vatican officials estimated the encyclical would be about 10,000 words in length. The Vatican radio was expected to broadcast summaries in English, French, German, Spanish and possibly in Polish.

U. S. JURY INDICTS PENDERGAST AIDES

Income Tax Charges Hit Two More in Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 26.—(P)—Matthew S. Murray, former WPA administrator for Missouri, and Otto P. Higgins, former Kansas City police director, were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of income tax evasion.

Murray resigned the WPA post several days ago. Last summer he quit as director of the city's public works department after pay roll pads were discovered in the department.

Higgins resigned as police director last spring after Mayor Bryce B. Smith took control of the city hall and demanded a cleanup in government. Control of the police department since has been taken over by the state.

Both Murray and Higgins were lieutenants of Democratic Political Boss Tom Pendergast, imprisoned for dodging federal income taxes.

DIPHTHERIA CLINIC SCHEDULE IS SET

Children Will Get Service Without Expense.

Diphtheria clinics will be held in the Fulton county schools next week, state office of the WPA announced yesterday. The clinics, for children of families unable to afford the services of a private physician, are sponsored jointly by the Fulton County Health Department and the Public Health Nursing Service of WPA.

Schedule is as follows: Monday, Colonial Hills, 9:30; Church Street, 11, and Central Park, 1 o'clock. Tuesday, George Longino, 9:30; S. R. Young, 10:30, and Benjamin Neely, noon. Wednesday, Humphries, 9:30. South Atlanta, negro, 11, and Thomasville, negro, 1 o'clock. Thursday, Benteen, 9 o'clock; Lakewood, 10:30, and Perkerson, 12:30 o'clock.

RELIEF FLOUR ORDER IS 700,000 BARRELS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(P)—The Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation announced today it had arranged to purchase approximately 700,000 barrels of flour for distribution among relief families.

The purchases will be under agricultural surplus removal programs and will continue a flour-buying program inaugurated last year. The flour will be delivered by successful mill bidders to state relief agencies during the next three months.

HENRY G. WRIGHT DIES IN HOSPITAL

Funeral Will Be Held Today at Peachtree Chapel.

Henry (Gardie) Wright, of 196 Vassar street, S. W., a member of the Atlanta Fire Department, died Wednesday night at a private hospital.

Surviving are his wife; two daughters, Miss Gale Wright and Miss Rosie Collier; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Wright; a sister, Mrs. Clyde Crane, and three brothers, O. B., C. G. and A. L. Wright.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Peachtree chapel. Burial will be under direction of Brandon-Bond-Condor.

HISTORIC MARKER PERMITS SOUGHT

Jaycees To Ask Easements at Important Sites.

Drive to obtain easements for the erection of historic markers in Atlanta will begin immediately, Julian Gortatowsky, chairman of the historic marker committee of the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday.

The group will work in cooperation with the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, the Atlanta National Historic Society and other organizations. The markers will be placed at all spots in the city and county that are rich in historic value, Gortatowsky said. Markers and inscriptions like those used on Virginia battlefields will be used on the Atlanta project.

Members of the committee, in addition to Gortatowsky, are Bert Adams, Jim Evans, Bill Bugg, Clyde Cannon, Lewis Yancey and Garnett Carter.

FIVE 'Y' CLUBS PLAN HALLOWEEN PARTY

Five Y. W. C. A. business girls' clubs will celebrate Halloween this week end with a co-recreational out; at Camp Highland.

The festivities will begin with supper at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night in the camp dining room, Miss Marcelia Street, general chairman, announced. Later there will be a possum hunt through the hills and an old-fashioned barn dance in the lodge. Miss Thelma Coryell, of Bell Y Club, will direct the hunt, and Miss Thelma Towns will be in charge of the dance. A midnight feast will be served at the lodge for the girls and their dates. Sunday's program will include morning worship under the direction of Miss Emily Roberts.

COUNCIL IS HELD BY NASH DEALERS

Meet With Factory Officials at Henry Grady Hotel.

Nash dealers from the whole Atlanta area met at the Henry Grady hotel yesterday with factory officials in one of an intensive series of dealer councils now being held by Nash Motors throughout the United States. The meeting was directed by L. P. Evans.

The dealer council meetings, which are being held simultaneously in the eastern and western divisions of the company, from October 10 to November 10, cover every section of the country from 32 key points.

Dealers are holding open forum discussions relative to sales and merchandising plans for the coming year. Expansion and strengthening of the Nash selling organization to pave the way for substantial sales gains was one of the projects discussed during the Atlanta council.

BEREFT POLISH HERO IS REFUGEE IN PARIS

PARIS, Oct. 26.—(P)—General Roman Gorecki, former Polish minister of commerce and twice

Inter-Allied Veterans' Association president, arrived here today from Bucharest.

General Gorecki, who made a tour of the United States in 1932 as president of the veterans' group, fled Warsaw after his wife and two children were killed by bombs.
